Plot in Argentina To Kidnap Philip?

(Times News Services)

BUENOS AIRES — Argentine extremists fired on the British Ambassador's residence Wednesday night while Prince Philip was visiting and unconfirmed reports circulated of a plot to kidnap the husband of the Queen and demand the Falkland Islands as ransom.

Bullets from automatic weapons, fired by two carloads of gunmen, sprayed the building where Prince Philip is staying for the Argentine Republic's 150th anniversary celebrations.

The gunfire damaged the ground floor of Ambassador Sir Michael Creswell's residence but no one was hurt.

The report of a plot to kidnap Prince Philip and offer to swap him for the British-ruled Falklands came from a local Argentine news agency. British officials said they had no information about the report.

CONTINUES VISIT

A British embassy spokesman, asked about reports that the Prince was preparing to return home, replied: "Certainly not. We are just preparing his program for next week."

Wednesday night's shooting climaxed a day of dramatic moves by extremist nationalists to press Argentina's claim to sovereignty over the lonely Falklands in the South Atlantic 300 miles from the coast of Argentina.

A group of 18 young armed Argentine nationalists seized an airliner with 48 persons aboard Wednesday and forced it to land on a racetrack in the Falkland capital.

The four-engined Argentine DC-4 was stranded on the 3,600-foot racetrack, with one wheel stuck a foot deep and the track apparently too short to permit a safe takeoff with passengers and fuel aboard.

The nationalists were reported holed up in the airliner, while 25 passengers and five crew members were lodged in homes in Port Stanley, the Falkland capital.

EMPHASIZE CLAIMS

The armed nationalists, from the right-wing El Condor organization, seized the plane over the South Atlantic Wednesday to emphasize Argentina's claim to the bleak islands, 300 miles east of Tierra del Fuego.

The nationalists radioed from the plane that they are determined to remain in Port Stanley — "Either we secure our future or we die for the past."

But later reports from Port Stanley said British authorities quickly took control of the situation and there was no violence.

Argentine and British officials had not decided early today how to get the nationalists and other passengers, including three children, back to Buenos Aires. They may come on a British ship which sails Monday on a monthly voyage from Port Stanley to Montevideo, Uruguay, or smaller planes may be sent to get them.

The seizure coincided with the presence in Buenos Aires of Prince Philip who arrived Monday to attend the world horse jumping championships as the guest of Argentina's military president, Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania.

CONDEMNED ACTION

Gen. Ongania strongly condemned the seizure and said those involved would be put on trial.

Prince Philip played polo as scheduled Wednesday, protected by 100 policemen and six patrol cars. Demonstrators supporting Argentina's claim to the Falklands pelted him with eggs during a visit to Buenos Aires in 1962.

The airliner, owned by the Argentine government, was flying from Buenos Aires to Rio Gallegos, 1,700 miles to the south, when it was seized. The plane landed on the

EXCHANGE CRISIS . . . . . . SEEN BY ECONOMIST

Wage Hikes Real Culprit

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases are placing new inflationary pressures on the economy at a time when the danger from overspending is subsiding, an economist told the special parliamentary committee on living costs today.

Unless these pressures level off the eventual prospect may be an exchange crisis for Canada and further devaluation of the Canadian dollar, said Prof. Edward Neufeld of the University of Toronto.

He urged the federal government to adopt U.S.-style guidelines on wages and prices, backed by a review board if necessary.

Prices Stable

Prof. Neufeld boldly supported some biting criticisms of present and past government performance under cross-examination by members of the Senate-Commons committee.

Main conclusions:

1. Canadian prices have risen more than U.S. prices in recent years, but they are remarkably steady by international standards.

2. Canadian prices can be protected against U.S. price increases only at the cost of increased unemployment and slower economic growth in Canada.

3. Therefore, the rule of thumb should be to keep Canadian prices and costs in line with those of the U.S.

4. Main reasons for the faster increase in Canadian prices compared to U.S. prices have been the devaluation of the Canadian dollar in 1962 and the rapid move in Canada toward full employment and full industrial capacity.

NEUFELD
. . . biting criticism

5. Recent wage settlements threaten "wage-push" inflation more seriously in Canada than in the U.S.

6. Government action to restrain "cost - push" inflation—such as after-the-fact requests to roll back steel price increases—is an "ill-defined, unpredictable and possibly ineffective" approach to take.

Neither Wins

Prof. Neufeld said it is an economic fact of life that in the long run neither management nor unions can win the struggle to increase their respective share of the wealth generated by production.

Each employs its tactics with great strength. But in the long run the gains balance one another off in higher prices, he said. The consumer ends up the loser. Nobody wins.

The U.S. guidelines had not kept all prices and wages within the stipulated increase. But they had prevented wage settlements of the "incredible" proportions experienced in Canada.

Prof. Neufeld followed deputy minister R. B. Bryce as the second witness before the committee, which has a special authority from Parliament to investigate the reasons behind the high cost of living.

Wednesday, Mr. Bryce said he did not agree with Senator David A. Croll (L — Ontario) that the main culprits are food growers, processors, wholesalers, distributors and retailers.

Mr. Bryce said rising demand for all types of goods and services as demonstrated by consumer, business and government expenditures, was generally to blame.

Columbia, Peace Must Obey Order—Peterson

Industry Told To Cut Costs On Overtime

By JIM HUME

Premier Bennett Wednesday made his strongest bid to halt spiralling living costs and stave off the threat of a recession in British Columbia's booming economy.

The move, with a veiled "or else" threat carefully noted, was made at a press conference prior to the premier's departure for Europe.

Directed mainly against contractors, manufacturers and other heavy industries the threat was: "Bring an end to industrial overtime voluntarily or the government will pass legislation banning overtime in B.C. at the next sitting of the legislature."

The premier said his action was in response to a federal government plea that all provinces exercise restraint in the face of present inflationary trends.

"If we are going to stop Canada going into a recession there must be a change in attitude on money interest and in the ranks of labor," he said.

More Restraint or Recession

"I asked for restraint to be shown a year ago. If they don't show more restraint there is going to be a recession."

Mr. Bennett said he was too optimistic to think that his plea would go unheeded or that a recession would take place.

"We are not in a recession now, but we are in a pause," he said. "The decision is up to all the people in B.C. We can go into a recession or we can go on to higher prosperity.

"There must be checks and balances. We must show general restraint otherwise the benefits we have gained will be short-lived.

The premier said his ban on overtime would achieve two things.

"It will fulfill the natural yearning of people to work less hours and have more leisure," he said.

It will also, the premier added, create more jobs for the unemployed.

The premier said he had already sent out his order to abolish overtime among the ranks of provincial government employees.

Stop Issuing Overtime Permits

"And I have asked the minister of labor to stop issuing overtime permits and to check closely the permits already issued," he said. "I have also ordered that future contracts signed by the government and contractors carry a no-overtime clause."

Overtime regulations in the province are a complicated field, but basically heavy construction, manufacturing plants and other similar industries require a special permit from the department of labor before they can request employees to work overtime.

The company concerned applies to the department for the permit to work a certain number of overtime hours within a specified time.

It is these permits the premier has ordered withdrawn.

Trade unions and local contractors welcomed the premier's move.

Local contractor George Wheaton said the overtime ban would discourage construction men from heading for remote communities where the promise of overtime and extra dollars is the main prospect.

'FASCINATING VISIT' TO B.C., SAYS RAMSEY

Dr. and Mrs. Ramsey were escorted to their Air Canada jet by the Venerable D. P. Watmey, archdeacon of Vancouver. Dr. Ramsey presented the archdeacon with an autographed portrait as a memento of his visit.

"It was a fascinating visit," Dr. Ramsey said.

He said a highlight was seeing the new Simon Fraser University campus in suburban Burnaby—"a thrilling experience for me."

EXTRA TIME OUT

The British Columbia cabinet and B.C. Hydro appeared to clash today over Premier Bennett's no-overtime edict.

Premier Bennett said Wednesday all crown corporations would set an example in his drive to fight inflation by cutting overtime.

But B.C. Hydro co-chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside said this morning that the edict will not be observed on the Columbia and Peace River dam construction projects.

The Times transmitted this remark to Premier Bennett's office but was referred to Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

His reply:

"As far as I'm concerned the Hydro will have to comply the same as anyone else.

HAVE PERMIT

"They have an overtime permit until the end of the year. We would expect them, in the intervening time, to re-arrange schedules so as to comply with the eight-hour day and the 44-hour week."

Asked whether this means the hydro will continue to work overtime until the end of the year, the minister replied:

The indication that Premier Bennett's no-overtime rule would be broken a few hours after it was announced — and by a government agency — was carried in a Canadian Press story this morning.

OBLIGATION

Dr. Keenleyside said:

"In any of the projects covered by the Columbia River Treaty, we have to live up to an obligation, even if that means overtime."

Dr. Keenleyside said the same thing applies to the Peace River operation. Gordon Shrum, B.C. Hydro co-chairman in charge of the Peace project, was not available for comment.

Armed Negroes Arrested In Area of Royal Visit

GABERONES, Bechuanaland (Reuters) — Seven armed Negroes have been arrested in the Chobe Game Reserve in northern Bechuanaland where Britain's Princess Marina is due to visit this weekend, a government spokesman announced today.

The men, who were arrested Monday, are being held under the immigration laws pending investigation of their motives, he said.

A government official said the arrested men were armed with Chinese and Russian-made weapons. He said they surrendered without a fight.

The princess is due to leave Saturday for the reserve, reputed to have the largest game herds in the world.

The men can be held for 14 days under the immigration laws while inquiries are made whether they are prohibited immigrants, the government said.

They are being taken to Francistown, but probably will face trial at Kasane, near where they were arrested, on charges of illegal importation of firearms, illegal possession of firearms and offences against the customs laws.

RUMOR 12 ARRESTED

Earlier, uncomfirmed reports circulated here that two groups of Negroes totalling 12 were arrested near Askance, in the small area where the Bechuanaland, Rhodesia, Zambia, and Southwest African borders all meet.

There was speculation here that the group intended to

Canada in Key Spot to Bring Major Powers to Peace Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. Senator J. W. Fulbright said today Canada can play an important role in trying to bring the major powers and Hanoi to the conference table over the Viet Nam war.

Mr. Fulbright told a press conference that Canada has better relations with Communist China, entries into areas the U.S. lacks and a right to influence U.S. policy even if the administration dislikes this.

The senator said many Canadians have a more sensible attitude about ideological differences among countries than have many Americans.

It doesn't make sense to say that "this or that ideology should be stamped out."

He said a large country like the United States needs the advice and assistance of smaller powers although the administration dislikes receiving advice in certain instances.

He said his own sympathies were with Prime Minister Pearson when the Canadian leader called for a halt in U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam.

Senator Fulbright said the bomb pause that followed did not work. Another is worth trying now because circumstances are different.

29 KNOWN DEAD

Inez Slashes Across Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE (UPI) — Hurricane Inez claimed at least six more lives today, striking into Hispaniola with 160-mile-an-hour winds and 15-foot storm tides.

First reports from the hurricane strike zone reaching Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, listed at least six dead, 15 injured, 200 homes destroyed and 1,000 persons homeless.

It brought to 29 the number of known deaths caused by Inez. The hurricane killed 23 when it hit Guadeloupe Tuesday night, injured at least 500 and left 10,000 persons homeless.

After ravaging Guadeloupe, the hurricane moved across the Caribbean and hit with more powerful intensity at the Barahona Peninsula. Forecasters predicted it would move across Haiti's finger-like Tiburon Peninsula late today and strike extreme eastern Cuba sometime Friday.

All utilities, including lights and water, were reported out in the interior of the Dominican Republic.

Near the town of Haina, 10 miles from Santo Domingo, a ship broke loose from its moorings and sank, but it was not immediately determined whether anyone was aboard.

Military patrols in Santo Domingo itself were doubled as a precaution and armed forces units were assigned to evacuate residents from lowlands.

TERRORISTS 'TRAINED IN ALGERIA'

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP) —Eleven Negro terrorists were each jailed for 18 years by Bulawayo High Court today after one of them admitted they were trained in Algeria and instructed to fight and kill European police, soldiers and farmers in Rhodesia.

The 11, who had surrendered to Rhodesian security forces, pleaded guilty to unlawful possession of offensive weapons. These were stated to include six sub-machine-guns, four carbines, two rifles, large quantities of ammunition, 50 electrical detonators and 24 hand grenades. A police arms expert told the court the arms were mostly of Russian design but many bore Chinese markings.

Crew Escapes Sinking

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) —The 28-man crew of the Greek freighter Eleni K escaped today as the ship broke in two and sank eight miles off Cape Thevenard.

ANOTHER NIGHT OF HATRED AND VIOLENCE

'Murderers': Negroes Taunt Policemen

(See also Page 27)

The report was in error. The policeman had actually been struck by a thrown bottle which opened a nasty gash above his eye. But instantly, more than 100 officers jerked to attention in the parking lot that served as an on-the-spot headquarters. They grabbed their guns and moved out at a fast clip.

Three blocks away, hundreds of Negroes, mostly teenagers, were gathered in the street. One of them had apparently thrown the bottle which struck the officer.

Suddenly a fire bomb sailed out of the second-storey window of the Bayview community centre. It shattered at the feet of three policemen who barely escaped the exploding flames.

"Watch it," a burly policeman shouted in my ear, elbowing me to a position of relative safety behind him. "This is going to get rough."

Then it happened. A rifle shot pierced the air and most of us hit the ground. It came from about half-a-block away where a young Negro youth was seen ducking behind a car.

A second shot seemed to come from the second floor of the centre. Another volley by police shattered the windows and apparently scared off the sniper.

Dozens of persons were sprawled on the ground. The acrid stench of the gunsmoke was choking.

Once, when a chunk of plaster from the building hit my leg I thought I'd been hit.

Analyst's Comments — Friday Entries

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE — You could make a case for half a dozen here. Hasty Hug has been all around the money. Aban drew an inside post after two fair efforts. Able Lea hums a little now and then. Keno Kid shows signs and needed his last. Night Rambler showed hustle in a slow run race. After head-shaking we went to Same Affair. He's well handled and obviously courageous. The pull in weights doesn't hurt either. . . . SAME AFFAIR, Night Rambler, Keno Kid.

SECOND RACE — There's no standout here, but the way he finished sprinting after a fair blowout suggests that Lucky Spender may have found a likely spot. Buberlou showed a little lick and might carry it farther. Miss Avalon got running far too late but she belongs with these. Joe Pap seems to have lost his whap. Cinnamon Son and Hi-Ma-Dan have a long look with these . . . LUCKY SPENDER, Cinnamon Son, Miss Avalon.

THIRD RACE — The stable thought Anna-Cha-Tay was going to be a good one and she's begun to show she can run a little. If Milne can get her away well, she could be tough to overhaul. Triple Lady and Arigato will offer contention early. Speedy Fair gets Finley and off his Aug. 19 try to Red Ensign benefits if the early pace is hectic. Celerius and Pallofair rap hard occasionally in this society . . . ANNA-CHA-TAY, Speedy Fair, Triple Lady.

FOURTH RACE—Five weeks' rest didn't do Ky Winner any harm. He was all business against Red Ensign and should handle these if he repeats. Aleja has good speed but she appears to be tailing off. Mac Man needed that last. Avons Boss had to take the long way home or would have been closer. He seems sharper than many of them. All Smoke couldn't handle Highdorn but she's game in the stretch . . . KY WINNER, Avons Boss, All Smoke.

FIFTH RACE—They're putting Finley aboard in an attempt to shake up Fair Spin. He doesn't have the winning habit but he's consorted with superior and his last wasn't all that bad. If Jeaneeliz gets clear early, though, it may be all over. Pop's Fortune doesn't have her early zing but he's going well and doesn't surrender readily. Sir Lea and Border Spy are the dangers from behind. . . JEANEELIZ, Pop's Fortune, Fair Spin.

SIXTH RACE—There could be a real cavalry charge here. Except for Summit Talk, and perhaps Royal Kimbo, most of these don't get down to work until the three-eighths pole. Or later. Amazing Message came to life in his last but lacks a race over the course. Chekaj Chekaj figures to be fairly close but he's not his old self. Fraser Canyon gets miles out of it but benefits from Trejos, who finishes well. If Souzem and Inner Guard get in, the late traffic snarl will be compounded. . . . FRASER CANYON, Souzem, Royal Kimbo.

SEVENTH RACE — Some clocks will spin here as they mizzle. By the nature of their styles the race could be won or lost at the first turn. Lesjack has a class right to be considered although he didn't show his stuff the other day. Colonel Greenock, Swan Lady and Fair Count are sharp and can scat. Shezadorin made a bold move and hung. The pace duel suits All Danger but he acts as if he doesn't like the track. Off his fine first uot, we are inclined to lean to Bonus Ghost. He should not be too far away and if Trejos can find the holes that may be it . . . BONUS GHOST, Swan Lady, Fair Count.

EIGHTH RACE—Green Again won three in a row here last year. If he's ready, he could pick up where he left off. Razmi has a look off her last. Easy Joe is perhaps the one to beat but at the short price he's no gift. Lloyter may be overlooked; he's got a little class. Sunrise Gal would only need to run back to her Sept. 19 race to be prominent . . . GREEN AGAIN, Razmi, Easy Joe.

racetrack because Port Stanely has no airstrip.

A few hours later, Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez told the UN General Assembly his government is confident its dispute with Britain over the islands will be settled soon. He said the two governments are to resume talks on the issue next month.

Britain has held the Falklands since 1833 and rejected all Argentine demands that they be relinquished. They represent a refuelling station for the British South Atlantic fleet and a staging post for Antarctic surveys. About 2,000 persons — most of them of British origin — live on the two main islands, which have a total area of 2,700 square miles.

Meanwhile, in Vancouver, Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing said today Premier Bennett's no-overtime announcement will scare people.

The Liberal minister, commenting on the Social Credit government's plan to eliminate overtime in the province, said such action is "interference with the so-called free enterprise system."

"This move will be interpreted (by the public) that the premier is in possession of facts that they have not been told about. Its effect is going to be extremely scary."

BLOOM FADING

B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault said the move is an indication the government fears that the bloom is fading from B.C boom.

He said that while the overtime ban should serve to provide job opportunities for more people, it is a token gesture unless other more effective measures follow.

Mr. Perrault said the government should call a conference of labor, management and government to discuss economic problems.

Robert Strachan, provincial leader of the New Democratic Party, said unions have long demanded a change in overtime conditions but it took Mr. Bennett too long to recognize the need.

. . . MURDERERS

It ended as quickly as it started. Officers rushed the community centre and dragged dozens of persons to patrol wagons.

Most of the persons on the ground began to move. They got up quickly and headed off down the street. Nine were removed by ambulance for treatment of gunshot wounds, none fatal.

The incident was over, but another night of hatred and violence had started.

"Murderers," shouted the crowd.

'Jail Smith' Proposal Applauded

OTTAWA (CP)—A Ceylonese delegate to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association urged today that Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith be thrown in jail so the world will not have the impression there is one law for the blacks and another for the whites.

Dr. N. M. Perera drew applause from non-white delegates when he said that the British government had retaliated against colored groups when they tried to rebel in British colonies.

He said the impression is being created among Asian countries outside the Commonwealth that the organization has one law for white men and another for blacks.

IN RED PRISON

10 Come Back But 100 Die

SAIGON (AP)—Ten battered Vietnamese have been freed from a Communist prison camp that one American officer said "looked like Dachau all over again."

The prisoners had spent from one to 19 months in the Viet Cong stronghold in coastal Phu Yen province, about 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

They were suffering malnutrition, boils, pneumonia, skin infections and deformities caused by unset broken bones, said Capt. Stephen M. Wilson, a physician with the 101st Airborne Division which rescued the prisoners Saturday.

The U.S. command said today a South Vietnamese Army private who had escaped from the prison led American units back to it.

Americans killed two Viet Cong and wounded three in the camp. But the brief clash gave other Viet Cong the chance to herd more prisoners away.

"It looked like Dachau all over again," said Capt. Thomas B. Agezton, who led the force into the prison. He estimates that 40 to 60 captives were taken away by Viet Cong.

The emaciated prisoners included four South Vietnamese soldiers, two housewives, two farmers, a hamlet chief and a former Viet Cong who defected to the government and was recaptured.

Survivors said about 100 prisoners died in the camp.

. . . OVERTIME

"That will give us more choice of crews," he said. "It will be better for all of us."

The Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council representing 17 union, also welcomed the news.

A spokesman for the group said the council has consistently protested applications made by employer groups for overtime permits or exemption from the provision of the Hours of Work Act.

He added that the council would continue to press for more work for more people as opposed to overtime for those already employed.

"We recognize that there are times of emergency when overtime becomes a necessity," the spokesman added. In Vancouver Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, said he agreed with the overtime ban if it is applied to spread available labor.

He said the plan would be beneficial to many woodworkers now facing layoffs due to the federal tight money policies.

Asked if the no-overtime ban would affect work on the Peace River and Columbia dams Mr. Bennett said he didn't think so.

"The order has gone out," he said. "We as the government must set the example."

Overtime Bill Hard To Tally

Neither the premier nor Minister of Labor Leslie Peterson were able to say how much overtime was worked in the province at present.

Officials of the labor department also stated that it would require a massive check of all government departments to find out what the civil service overtime bill is annually.

Mr. Bennett said one of the major reasons behind his sudden move to halt overtime was the way wage increases were advancing faster than productivity.

He stressed that the move was also made in answer to the federal government's plea that the provinces lead the way in showing restraint.

"The federal government asked us to show restraint and we have volunteered to do so," he said. "There must be close co-operation in times like these.

B.C. has always been anxious to co-operate with the federal government."

Although the shadow of recession hovered constantly in his statements the premier said he was confident B.C. would shake off the threat.

"We shall live within our income and have another substantial surplus at the end of the fiscal year," he said.

The premier appealed to municipal leaders throughout the province to follow his lead and eliminate overtime among city work crews.

A spokesman at city hall this morning said the task would not be too easy for municipalities.

"Most of our overtime comes when there are emergencies such as fires, burst water mains or policemen spending their day off in court," he said. "I don't see how it can be eliminated."

CITY NIMRODS BACKING PROTEST

The petition was prepared by the Victoria Fish and Game Association and is collecting signatures in Stan Williams Hunting and Fishing Store.

It protests the granting of a licence to Western Mines to dump mine tailings and sewage into the lake, and requests the government to rescind the licence.

China Entry Pressed By Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin delivered another plug Wednesday for China's entry to the United Nations and suggested negotiations outside the world body to achieve it.

He told the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association conference that one of the factors that limits UN capacity to play a useful role in the Viet Nam conflict is that not all the parties to the dispute are in it.

Mr. Martin noted the difficulty of seating Communist and Nationalist China—each of whom claim exclusive jurisdiction over the same people—side by side in the UN.

At this point, he departed from his prepared text to say "it may be we will have to negotiate outside the UN" in order to get both countries a seat.

infiltrate into Ovamboland in Southwest Africa, as did a group which attacked and burned down two South African government-owned houses at Oshikango early Tuesday.

The attackers were driven off after the occupants of the houses had fired on a band of non-whites said to number between 12 and 20.

The attack at Oshikango was the second in Ovamboland within a few weeks. After the first one last month South African police said more such infiltrating groups could be expected.

It has not been disclosed exactly how the terrorist groups reached the northern part of Southwest Africa.

The South African Press Association said they were believed to have been trained in various African and Communist countries and their starting point was thought to be Tanzania.

Presumably they cross Zambia and then make their way along the Southwest Africa-Angola border, which, where it does not follow rivers, is only a line on a map and is not demarcated on the ground.

Blacks Kill 7 Rhodesians

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP)—Seven Rhodesian soldiers were killed in a clash between Rhodesian forces and Negro nationalists of the Zimbabwe African National Union, a report from Zanu headquarters here said today.

Winds Play Havoc

SAIGON (Reuters) — Violent winds in South Viet Nam's flooded Mekong River delta today killed nine persons and destroyed more than 400 homes, the United States Mission reported.

PACKED CATHEDRAL APPLAUDS AS ARCHBISHOP RAMSEY ENTERS

NEW FRATERNITY BETWEEN CHRISTIAN CHURCHES

'Gift of Peace' From Christ Ramsey Message to 1,400

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Church Editor

More than 1,400 men and women from many Victoria churches crowded into Christ Church Cathedral Wednesday afternoon to hear the Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Arthur Michael Ramsey.

"Christians," he told them, "should not be rivals or members of warring sects. They should be allies, working together to achieve God's purpose on earth."

The archbishop said he had seen many signs in Canada of a new fraternity between Roman Catholics and Anglicans and other Christian churches.

'Thank God'

"We thank God it is our privilege to be living at a time when powerful forces throughout Christendom are working together for unity."

Dr. Ramsey was escorted to the pulpit of the cathedral by Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia. Before beginning his sermon, he listened raptly — sometimes with eyes closed — as the huge congregation sang the famous hymn Praise to the Holiest in the Height.

Bright sunshine slanted through the high windows of the cathedral, burnishing the cross of Saint George and the flags of Commonwealth countries as they hung motionless overhead.

Gold Cross

A massive, broad-shouldered man, Dr. Ramsey wore a simple white surplis over his purple cassock and a gold cross which shone white in the sunlight. His text was "Peace Be Unto You," from St. John.

"These words are more than a greeting," he said. "They are a gift of peace which Christ brings to us. He taught us the peace of reconciliation with God, which is the first need of all men.

"He taught us the peace of bringing lives together in fellowship and binding them in joy and courage so that they could work together for the fulfilment of God's will on earth."

Harmony

"Christ came to bind up individual lives into true harmony and peace within themselves. He knew that so many lives are torn this way and that by fears and impulses which rend the true person."

Dr. Ramsey recalled his visit to Pope Paul in Rome last March.

"I went there, not just as an English Archbishop, but representing an Anglican communion of some 45 million people all over the world.

Dr. Ramsey said the outcome of his meeting with Pope Paul was a call to Anglicans and Roman Catholics everywhere to treat one another with honor, respect and charity as Christian brothers.

Problems

"There are still many problems to be settled. But it makes all the difference if we approach these problems, not as neighbors shouting at each other over the fence, but as brothers with a mutual respect for each other."

Replying to a welcome by Archbishop Harold Sexton of British Columbia, Dr. Ramsey said:

"I bring greetings from the mother church at Canterbury to this lovely island diocese, its bishop, its clergy and its lay people. And let me also bring greetings to the neighbor diocese of Olympia."

Met Clerics

After the service, Dr. Ramsey met ministers of many churches who were invited to the service.

Among them were Roman Catholic Archbishop Martin M. Johnson of Vancouver; Bishop Remi De Roo of Victoria; Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons, president of the Greater Victoria Council of Churches; Very Rev. J. Lewis McLean of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

RAMSEY TURNS OTHER CHEEK

And the Archbishop, Dr. Arthur Michael Ramsey, turned the other cheek.

"I'm sure they were sincere," he said later, "but they were carrying coals to Newcastle."

Dr. Ramsey was referring to a group of young people known as The Peace Action League who paraded in front of Christ Church Cathedral with signs which read:

"War is Blasphemy. Christ Never Preached War. How can you in any way support this immoral War in Viet Nam?"

Later, at a press conference in Government House, Dr. Ramsey said he had joined Popel Paul in pleading for an end to the war in Viet Nam.

"The young people may have misunderstood an earlier statement of mine," he added. "I said the Americans had gone into Viet Nam with a conscientious motive, namely the motive of withstanding Communist agression.

"But I have also said, several times, that this war is achieving nothing and that there is a terrible risk it may grow into something really appalling.

"I ardently hope there will be a settlement. But both sides must contribute to that settlement."

Dr. Ramsey said he agreed wholeheartedly with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson when he deplored the bombing of North Viet Nam by U.S. forces.

Told of the archbishop's statement, one picketer who refused to give his name, said it was "better than nothing," but that "Praying is sort of vague."

★ ★ ★

He has "an obligation to take a moral stand" on the war and should come out "either for it or against it" said John Warren, 19.

"They're quite right," said an elderly lady.

"Silly," said another. "They don't understand what they're doing."

"I like to see free opinions," said a man, "But I'm not sure it's courteous (to the archbishop)."

In the interview Dr. Ramsey re-affirmed a statement he made in Vancouver concerning Dr. Billy Graham's evangelistic crusade in London, England.

"I said the recent Graham crusade in England had won some converts," Dr. Ramsey said, "I also said that it had made no significant changes in basic religious habits.

"I still say that the Billy Graham type of evangelism is not what we need at the present time. We need a more intellectual thoughtful approach — not just emotionalism."

Dr. Ramsey said every Christian should be deeply convinced about his faith, but it needn't be a sudden conversion.

★ ★ ★

"I couldn't tell you when I was first converted. But I am always trying to follow Christ and suffering all kinds of ups and downs in the process. I don't think I became a Christian in a sudden blinding flash."

Dr. Ramsey said he was all in favor of simplified translations of the Bible and the Book of Common Prayer. But he did not agree that the pronoun Thee and Thou should be replace by modern terms.

"I believe it is right we should address God in traditional terms. That is a matter of grace and good feeling."

NEW AFRICAN NATION

Bonfires Blaze For 'Botswana'

By DAVID J. PAINE

GABERONES, Bechuanaland (AP)—Africa gets another nation one minute after midnight tonight as the British protectorate of Bechuanaland becomes independent Botswana.

It will be the first black-ruled country to border white-ruled South Africa. Prime Minister Seretse Khama, who will be sworn in as president, married a blonde British typist 18 years ago. They have four children.

Bonfires will blaze from the hilltops as the Union Jack is hauled down at midnight and the blue, black and white flag of the new republic is run up.

Bechuanaland, ruled by the British since the 1880s, is bordered by South-West Africa, white-ruled Rhodesia and South Africa. It is an arid country dominated by the vast Kalahari Desert and the Okavango Swamp.

Whites and blacks live in harmony here, in sharp contrast with the racist troubles in surrounding countries and territorities. Independence celebrations are being attended by mixed crowds of white and black citizens.

echuanaland's economy is based on the export of cattle. Several years of drought has reduced its stock by nearly 500,000 head, or about one-third of the total herd.

Both Khama and Chief Leabua Jonathan, prime minister of Basutoland, recognize that their economic and political survival depend in large part on friendly relations with South Africa.

Stonewall for Senator Moss

UNITED STATES SENATOR F. E. Moss, a Democrat from Utah, has added his voice to those interests in the United States which are looking thirstily at Canada's water resources and talking in terms of continental responsibility.

The sinister part of Senator Moss's remarks, as far as Canadians are concerned, is his implication that there is a moral issue involved —that it would be immoral for Canada to insist on keeping its pure water for its own use, and therefore moral for the United States to insist on sharing in the supply. History is full of "moral" wars, and the progress of Senator Moss's campaign will be something to watch.

Urging the plan whereby Canadian rivers would be dammed and piped southward to other parts of this continent, Senator Moss observes, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Billings, Montana: "There is a question in my mind about the right of one section of a country, or one section of a continent, to waste water—to allow vast quantities of it to run to the sea unused, while other sections do not have enough to meet the requirements of their growing population."

Coming from a member of the United States Congress, that is an interesting statement. The easy transfer of the argument from "country" to "continent" — as though the continent is subject to an overall government just as a nation is—suggests that Senator Moss already thinks in terms of Washington as the capital of North America as well as of the United States. That Canada might have long-range plans for the use of its water resources—plans for the "requirements of its growing population" in the future rather than requirements of the growing United States population today—does not seem to occur to Senator Moss.

And the Senator's indignation at those sections of countries or of continents which waste water might well be directed to the country which he helps to govern, for even conservationists of his own land deplore the shocking waste of pure water which has occurred in the United States through pollution by industry and otherwise. As the late General A. G. L. McNaughton, Canada's eminent expert on water resources, once observed, the United States does not lack water, only clean water, and much of its supply problem could be solved by reclaiming the waterways which have been befouled.

Noting that some Canadians "have strong reservations about exporting water to the United States" while others are willing to assess the supply and see how it might be shared with the neighboring country, Senator Moss brings the matter to a head with the comment—or is it a warning? — that the matter of transferring water from river basins with a surplus to those without enough "must be faced soon. We cannot duck the water importation question much longer."

The whole impression to be gained from the American Senator's remarks seems to add up to: you've got it, we want it, let's not waste any time getting this settled.

Both Ottawa and the provinces at the official level so far have been cool to any proposals for export of Canada's water resources. We do not know exactly what we have, we know still less about what we may need in the near and distant future. Once exported, with industries and populations in the United States dependent on the Canadian supplies, it would be impossible ever to regain control of the water flow. The time would come when Canada would bitterly repent any rash decision to sell its water at any price.

Water will mean life, both individual and national, and any thought that we are merely the custodians of a continental resource which must be shared with any other country should be firmly rejected from the beginning.

Letters

Letters will be considered for publication only if the writer is clearly identified to the editor, who may permit pen names at his discretion. Submissions will be edited and may be condensed. Short letters are favored. None will be returned.

Why the Warship?

I am curious to know why the Archbishop of Canterbury was accorded the singular honor of being transported from Vancouver to Victoria aboard a Canadian Navy warship.

He is, I agree, a very distinguished personage. But the Church of England is not the established church of Canada nor is the Most Rev. Mr. Ramsey the head of a foreign state—two protocol prerequisites for the kind of treatment accorded him.

And just by the way, I find it anomalous that the archbishop should have arrived here with his plea for prayers for peace aboard a ship of war. One would have thought it more fitting for the gentleman to mingle with the common people, as did his Master about 2,000 years ago.—Disestablishmentarian.

What's the Arithmetic?

Without having access to the facts and figures, I would think that the recent award of 40 cents per hour would give the carpenters something like a 13 per cent increase. They also won a 37½-hour week with the same take-home pay as for 40 hours—say another 6 per cent. This makes a total percentage increase of less than 20 per cent. I would estimate that carpenters' work on a school would be 25 per cent to 40 per cent of the total cost of the school, depending on the type of construction. Therefore, a 20 per cent wage increase for carpenters would add on the average, say, 6 per cent to the cost of a school. According to a Times report, a spokesman for the contractors said at Duncan that it will add 20 per cent.

Would someone, perhaps even a contractor's estimator, point out where my arithmetic is in error, and give some facts and figures as to how they arrive at their 20 per cent.—School-tax Payer.

Boat Safety

In the Times of recent date there is a story of a boat tragedy—four men drowned on Nitinat Lake.

Many people who go out in boats for whatever purpose, have very little idea of how to load them, and how to use them when they get out onto the water. Many people seem to treat the trip as fun and forget the dangers.

I would like to suggest to anyone going out on big lakes or the open sea, to read a book available from any of the Vancouver Island Library branches, called "The Lonely Land," by Sigurd F. Olson. This is not just about the land. It deals with a trip in three canoes by six men, two to each, in northern Canada, following the routes of the early traders 200-300 years ago.

The book provides a good lesson for those who go out in boats. It is a wonderful book on how to survive on the water in rough weather, and may be the means of saving one or more lives.—Tom Westwell.

One Rule

Would it harm world economy if the "Golden Rule" was universally observed — "As you would that men should do to you, do ye even to them."

Yet, trying to right wrongs, society has acquired some 35-40 million man-made laws.—S. N. Whitfield.

CAR PRICES AT OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Mr. Drury Is Excessively Polite

THERE is a marked difference in tone between Mr. Drury's rather gentle reminder to the automobile manufacturers and Mr. Mitchell Sharp's earlier, successful, warning to the Steel Company of Canada. It is true that the ministers were dealing with unlike situations. Mr. Sharp was faced with an actual price increase. He wanted a rollback and he obtained it with a short, blunt statement which voiced the concern of the government, asked that the decision be rescinded and concluded with a straight-forward notice that, in the event of non-compliance, the matter would be referred to the joint parliamentary committee.

Western

Mr. Drury was concerned, in his words, with "speculation . . . about automobile prices for the 1967 model year." This speculation owed much, however, to public statements by high officials of the Canadian automobile manufacturing industry.

Rambling

The admonition issued by Mr. Drury is somewhat rambling and by no means so emphatic as the frank statement by Mr. Sharp. It begins by recalling the minister's prediction that there should be a progressive narrowing of the Canada-U.S. differential as a result of cost savings and production efficiencies made possible by the automobile pact. It goes on to express pleasure with the results last year. (These, evidently, were clearer to Mr. Drury than to other, more critical analysts). The minister then refers to the strides which have been made towards achieving the objectives of the program and observes that savings should help to offset any added costs resulting from the incorporation of various safety items in 1967 models.

The key words are: "We would, therefore, expect that, when the prices for the 1967 models are established in Canada, we will see a further significant narrowing of the differential between automobile prices in Canada and the United States." This would be a "natural consequence" of the operation of the pact and is of special importance now because of the government's determination to resist inflationary pressures.

This seems excessively polite for two reasons.

No Identity of View

In the first place, it has never been clear that there is an identity of view between Mr. Drury and the manufacturers as to the objectives of the pact. On September 15, Mr. R. W. Todgham, president of Chrysler Canada Ltd., predicted that his company would probably fulfil its pact commitments about a year ahead of schedule. As reported in the Globe and Mail, he said that the commitment was to increase the Canadian content of its production by $33,000,000 by 1968. The report mentions nothing about prices although Mr. Todgham evidently had a good deal to say about exports, employment and the benefits to the economy of the trade agreement.

Then on Sept. 20, Mr. Earl K. Brownridge, president of American Motors (Canada) predicted price increases ranging from $50 to $100. Oblivious, apparently, to Mr. Drury's "natural consequence," he expressed doubt that there would be any narrowing of the Canada-U.S. differential.

No doubt Mr. Drury had such statements in mind, although he did not say so, when he issued his own words of caution. It would surely have been natural in these circumstances to make some reference to the special relationship between the automobile manufacturers and the government of Canada, a relationship which clearly distinguishes the automobile case from that of steel.

The fact is that the industry is in receipt of subsidies amounting to $50,000,000 a year from the people of Canada for the purposes of the program. Government and industry are partners (as they are not in the case of steel) and the government is therefore entitled to insist that the industry must respect all the objectives of the program and not merely those which suit its own book.

Due for Scrutiny

If the government stand ready to refer steel prices (in the event of increases) to the joint committee, it should have no hesitation whatever about submitting increases in the automobile industry to the scrutiny of the same committee. It would surely not have been rough or uncouth to mention the committee as one indication of the government's determination to restrain excessive pressures on prices. There is always the risk in excessive politeness that a message may not get through to those who ought to be hanging on ministerial words.

Sovereign Alchemist?

The Globe and Mail

While it might not be news to James Bond, it seems that hip-flasks have become essential to the armory of any well-equipped spy. At any rate, Soviet soldiers have been warned by their newspaper Red Star that United States agents are always ready to catch them out if they get drunk.

The newspaper said that instructions were found on a U.S. spy which said: "To get to know the person you need, have a drink with him. Pay for him . . . and that person will be yours."

It is not the first time that the Demon Rum has been conjured up in the Soviet Union, where drunkenness has long been a major social problem. But the editor of Red Star has notably advanced the cause of peaceful co-existence and mutual understanding between East and West, since his stern strictures on the evils of alcohol correspond so closely to our own official thinking.

If he ever chooses to defect, the Liquor Control Board of Ontario should snap him up.

More Than Money

ORGANIZED LABOR AND particularly union leaders, are blamed for much of the industrial strife in evidence these days. But it has also been remarked by more thoughtful observers that the union leaders are quite often not really leading the rank-and-file. The number of wildcat strikes carried on against the advice of leaders, the number of contracts negotiated by union chiefs and then rejected by the members, indicate that under the surface things are not quite what they seem.

Mr. Elmer Phillips, an executive of a Toronto-based industrial psychology consulting firm, pointed out in a recent address that there are other things besides money which motivate workers and that not enough attention is being paid to them. Mr. Phillips recalled that in the '30's, when jobs were scarce, it wasn't difficult to get people to work hard. The employee was dependent on the employer and he did as he was told or he was put out of his job.

But the situation now is quite different. With full employment, any person with any degree of skill can find a job and, if it is not satisfactory, leave it for another. "The management of many organizations," Mr. Phillips says, "find this difficult to accept. They think they can manage and behave as they did in the '30s. They are inclined to believe that money and fringe benefits alone motivate people to work."

In actual fact, Mr. Phillips' organization finds many people are bored by what they are doing—not only the rank and file workers but executives as well. Current research indicates that while people want to be adequately paid for their efforts, they also want interesting, challenging and satisfying work. The situation now seems to be that not only management but union leaders as well are out of touch with employees and out of touch with the social changes which are being forced by technological changes.

"Most people," Mr. Phillips said, "want to be productive . . . to be fulfilled . . . to be committed to the enterprise. Management will have to create the kinds of conditions and the climate that will permit people to get satisfaction and fulfilment from their work."

Helping Students, Helping Canada

THE CANADIAN IMPERIAL Bank of Commerce has chosen an excellent method of marking the centennial, not only of Confederation but also of the founding of the bank. It has made provision to grant international fellowships to fourteen Canadian students graduating next June, for further study in business administration at leading schools in France, England and the United States.

Applicants will be chosen—one from each province and four at large—not only for study at famous graduate schools, but also for attendance at travelling seminars in key centres of Western Europe and North America.

The purpose is twofold: to give Canadians specializing in commerce, finance, economics, and such fields an opportunity to advance themselves; and to equip young Canadians to contribute more effectively to the economic progress of this nation.

An imaginative and generous plan by a private institution, the program of fellowships promises substantial returns to Canada and offers an enlightened example of how contributions may be made to our national centennial observance.

BEHIND THE ABSTRACTS

By MARK FRANKLAND

Vietnamese People Might Be Important

VIET NAM all too often appears to the outside world as just a passive object. It is a sick man to be cured by the ruthless surgery of an international conference. It is a counter in the world strategies of America and China. Or it is an object of pity for people moved by the horrors of its war.

But after even a short visit to Viet Nam the paradoxical happens and the Vietnamese people themselves appear for the first time as a major factor in the "Viet Nam problem." The fascination of the Vietnamese lies in the contrast between their appearance and their achievements. Physically they are astonishingly compact, elegant and apparently delicate.

Tough

In fact, the Vietnamese are a turbulent and tough race. They are famous fighters who can boast of defeating the Mongols in the thirteenth century while the rest of the world was retreating before them. They have produced a series of formidable women ranging from the Trung sisters, who led the first national revolt against China, to the notorious Madame Nhu.

Peace in Viet Nam might be easier to achieve if the Vietnamese were more docile and less talented. Certainly the Americans would find life there a great deal more comfortable. As it it, the Vietnamese can be ignored only at peril. The facts of power are such that they cannot solve their own problem themselves, but they can certainly muck up anyone else's solution if it is not to their taste.

This makes it very important for outsiders to understand the basic facts of Vietnamese political life. Much had been heard of the prospects of Viet Nam's slow progress towards democracy since the Constituent Assembly elections there two weeks ago. Visions of a new constitution and an elected government have induced in some American politicians a mood of grand confidence in their little ally's democratic future. Yet the elections have not changed the structure of real power in Viet Nam one bit. The army has been the real ruler of Viet Vam since the overthrow of President Diem and remains so today not so much by its own choice as by default.

The politicians who complain against military rule are incapable of providing a stable alternative. The dozens of small political parties which split and regroup with confusing dexterity simply have no true popular base.

The four great religious groups — the Buddhists, Catholics and the two sects peculiar to Viet Nam, the Cao Daists and Hoa Haos—are split both among each other and themselves. A truly strong government needs their support. But their hostility cannot now bring down a government unless some disgruntled generals ally with them.

Misplaced Criticism

Seen in this light much of the criticism of Marshal Ky's government, both from Vietnamese and foreigners, is misplaced. What does matter is the government's popularity, or lack of it.

But what are the chances of the available South Vietnamese politicians doing much better (they have certainly muffed the few chances already given them since the fall of Diem)? Above all, what chance is there that they can produce an economic and social program for South Viet Nam that will win the enthusiasm of ordinary people, and in particular of the peasants?

Dr. Phan Quang Dan, a politician much liked by liberal Westerners and a possible candidate for the presidency in any future election, is pretty much on his own when he proposes a radical land ownership program. He would like ownership of rice land to be limited to 5 hectares. Under the existing land reform law, enacted under President Diem, the theoretical limit is 100 hectares.

The real position is rather different. One tenant farmer I talked to in the Delta paid a rent of 40 per cent of his annual rice crop (25 per cent is the actual legal limit) to a landlord whom he claimed owned 200 or more hectares of rice-paddy. He had never seen the landlord, who was a woman, but believed she lived in Saigon. She had no obligations of any kind towards her tenants.

The landlord living in Saigon is only one of the troubling characters of the Vietnamese scene. I find it hard to forget the doctor in a town in the Delta who runs a private maternity clinic that charges the equivalent of nearly £30 for a confinement. He drives to Saigon in an Alfa Romeo.

A South Vietnamese Government which tried to tackle these problems would come up against formidable barriers. The war limits freedom of action. The bulk of American aid is administered in such a way that it simply reinforces the existing economic structure. And perhaps less obvious, the fact that the war is against "Communism" makes almost any non-Communist left-wing thought suspect.

Resistance Low

South Viet Nam is not a country longing to go Communist, but its ability to resist Communism is still extremely low.

Americans in South Viet Nam often puzzle over what they like to call the Vietnamese "lack of motivation. Outside Saigon I met a CIA man with a startling resemblance to Mr. Khrushchev who declared: "There's nothing wrong with this country that good leadership and motivation couldn't put right."

It is already a danger sign that some Americans feel that they must inspire the Vietnamese to fight what is still at least partly their war. But there are in fact Vietnamese remedies to hand. An ancient axiom of Vietnamese government goes like this: the people first, the institutions second, and the king last. It would be an excellent principle for any Saigon government, whether of soldiers, politicians or bonzes. But if someone does not do something about it soon, the Vietnamese may well lapse into a passivity which no amount of American motivation can cure.

Looking Back

From the Times of Sept. 29, 1906:

There was trouble getting the competitors off the mark at the Victoria horse races yesterday. Besides two formal protests, themselves occasioning considerable delay, the horses dallied about the starting line in spite of the repeated warning and the threats of the starter. The crowd became thoroughly impatient. Finally several of the horses broke and went the course on their own which the officials wisely deemed a fair contest. The afternoon's races however were disappointing—they were more like processions than contests of speed.

John Carmichael Haynes used to carry more than 75 pounds of gold around in an old suitcase — but nobody ever bothered him. Because in those days he was the law in Wild Horse Creek.

But in the Okanagan he was best remembered as The Squire, The Baron or The Cattle King.

He came out from County Cork, Ireland when he was 27 to be a policeman for Inspector Charles Brew in 1859 during the early days of the Fraser gold rush. One of his first jobs was the collection of licence fees from miners, But he only managed to collect $80 before the rush died off. He became chief constable at Yale, then assistant gold commissioner and customs collector.

Haynes set up a headquarters at Osoyoos where as deputy collector of customs he was best able to check imports of miners' supplies from south of the border. But when gold was found in the Kootenays he was sent to Wild Horse Creek as a magistrate to keep an eye on 1,000 hard-bitten miners. His appointment to the Legislative Council took him to New Westminster but with a new mining boom reported in the Big Bend country he was soon off again.

When Big Bend petered out he returned to Osoyoos and in 1866 was appointed county court judge and was again appointed to the Legislative Council. He invested all his money in land and with a partner soon held 22,000 acres, raising horses and cattle in the south Okanagan. He married the daughter of an English lawyer in 1858 but she died in 1872. He married again in 1875. His home on Osoyoos Lake became a famous stopping place for travellers, missionaries and Indians. He was returning to his home from Victoria in 1888 when he was stricken and died on his 57th birthday.

Canadian Query on War Takes Middle Ground

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

In Canada, the public is divided closely as between those who want the U.S. to withdraw its troops from Viet Nam—and those who want the war attacks strengthened.

In Britain, the public wants withdrawal of U.S. troops by a three-to-one ratio over those who want an escalation of the war.

In the States, a majority of the public want war attacks increased—with a ratio of three to one over those who would like U.S. troops to be withdrawn now.

In all three nations the segment who think the war should carry on at its present level is almost identical—just under two in ten.

To establish viewpoints of the average man and woman, Gallup Affiliates asked the same question in Canada, Britain and the States:

"Just from what you have heard or read which of these statements comes closest to the way you feel about the war in Viet Nam? 1. The U.S. should withdraw its troops; 2. The U.S. should carry on its present level of fighting; 3. The U.S. should increase the strength of its attacks against North Viet Nam."

Results show that, as often happens, Canadian attitudes take a middle course between those of Britain and the U.S. It is interesting to note that while there is wide disagreement between the three nations as to whether U.S. troops should be withdrawn, or war attacks strengthened, and while the segment wanting the present level of warfare to be maintained is almost identical, those with no opinion to give in Canada and Britain are high, compared to this segment in the States.

	Britain	Canada	U.S.
The U.S. should withdraw its troops	42%	31%	18%
The U.S. should carry on its present level of fighting	17	18	18
The U.S. should increase the strength of its attacks against North Viet Nam	16	27	55

Sir Edmund Hillary Off to Sherpaland

By GEOFFREY MOORHOUSE
Manchester Guardian Weekly

LONDON — The frame had rather more flesh and the manner was much more assured than in Coronation year. Otherwise Sir Edmund Hillary seems unmarked by the years.

The forelock is still jauntily tufted and the lower lip still pouts prodigiously. He still looks a lot of man.

He was in London, this time, not to tell of his plans to knock off another so-and-so — as he triumphantly referred to Everest after the big climb — or even to raise funds for another expedition. He just wanted us know about his new scheme for Sherpaland.

No Hospitals

He was about to go out to Nepal as a sort of medical missionary. It seems that the 4,000 Sherpas of the Khumbu area have never had a hospital; just the usual crop of nasty diseases we all know about and some misfortunes that are endemic to themselves, like goitre and a high rate of miscarriages.

So Sir Edmund is going back to build a hospital at Khumjung, only 12 miles from Everest. And then, when he and his 10-man party have finished it, a New Zealand doctor will be left in charge — for the first year at any rate.

After that other applications will be welcomced. So if any young Health Service dissident is really desperate for emgiration at any price he knows where to apply.

Sir Edmund is doing this because he is now, as he well might be, pretty fond of the Sherpas. He was telling us about it because he believes the wealthier nations ought to be more aware of difficulties in the underdeveloped nations.

Sir Edmund would not, of course, someone else suggested, be actually building the hospital himself would he? "I certainly will," said that robust knight. "I reckon to be pretty handy as a carpenter and bricklayer and so forth." Lady Hillary stifled a giggle. What an effete and priceless of the English are, to be sure.

A last question. Did Sir Edmund think he could still climb Everest? He was damn sure he couldn't. Too old and decrepit now. Too many speeches and banquets and so forth since 1953. But he still looks a lot of man.

The Diefenbaker Tenacity May Eclipse His Brilliance

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, is a lecturer in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

OTTAWA — Is it sacrilegious to contrast the Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker with Mr. Leo Lewis, the Winnipeg Blue Bomber halfback? If it is we can only ask understanding from the admirers of the Tory leader.

Fisher

The wonderfully exciting football player retired early this football season, because he could no longer do well the plays which made him the most thrilling runner of the past 10 years. Mr. Lewis put over on television and in press reports a neat, modest, unbleating presentation of his retirement and his future plans.

As the Bible says, there is a time and season for everyone and everything. Leo Lewis knew it, and to those who cherish the superb, his summary withdrawal has cast an even warmer glow over the memories of his deeds.

Crowe

All right. So we think John Diefenbaker is over the hill and should go quickly and quietly. Not quite. The contrast isn't that complete, nor are the parallels, with Leo Lewis. Mr. Diefenbaker has been supreme in the House of Commons and still seems as good (or as bad, if you are a Liberal) as ever.

His dominance is real, especially over his own party colleagues. The invective seems as prime, the wit as ready and sharp, the mind as keen and the memory as sound as ever.

To stand bestriding the House of Commons, however, is not everything for a party leader. Let us take two examples from last week.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Diefenbaker attacked the decision to take away the horses from the RCMP. It was done with flair and an appeal to the noble past in the West. It made a sentimental point but an anachronistic one.

Then he dusted off Sir John A. Macdonald again as an exemplar for himself, fighting and winning two elections in his 70s. All put in fighting, colorful terms.

But was it effective in a country whose sense of history and deification of past great men is so incomplete?

The index for Hansard of the first 6½ months of this Parliament is at hand. As usual, Mr. Diefenbaker has the most entries, slightly more than Mr. Pearson. He spoke or questioned on more than 400 different topics. Their range was phenomenal.

But some melancholy points must be made. First, almost all the remarks are informed by the experience of several generations in partisan politics and very few, even in the many major speeches (there were over 20 of them) have any crispness from recent research and topical reading.

None of it has a long vision of the Canadian future and too much of it has a long vista of the Canadian past, particularly from 1940 on. Clearly, none of the speeches were supported by the close advice of economists or political scientists or sociologists or any other expert.

Second, the virtuosity and scale of this Diefenbaker performance in the House has snuffed out the aspirations or at least the potential contributions of his followers. Not one is close to him in participation. Not one is consistently at work, presenting fresh material or new insights. It seems there can be only one whopper of a fish and a school of minnows in the Tory parliamentary lake.

The pity of this last image comes from the odd glimmer a reader of Hansard can glimpse of possibilities. Once in a while Alvin Hamilton, Gordon Fairweather, Heward Grafftey or Erik Nielsen demonstrates tenacity and imagination.

It is cruelly easy to say, and not quite true, that Mr. Diefenbaker doesn't speak for or to Canadians any more. He does represent and articulate something, mainly to his own generation and to many humble people, mostly those with lesser opportunities in rural areas.

While Mr. Diefenbaker hares from point to point in the parliamentary diary, his enemies, the Grits, are in process of choosing both a new leader through a convoluted but exciting chase and a new set of party planks for the next five years or so. The Tories are not matching this. Oh, of course a contest is shaping up and a few are talking program but the inhibition of the dominating leader is outweighing both these prospects.

The most regrettable feature of these circumstances concerns Mr. Diefenbaker's stature as it will settle in political history. By insisting on one more election, by not openly and carefully preparing for his succession and new lines of policy for his party, he is eclipsing the brilliance of his own career. We shouldn't but we will lose sight of his brilliance and his accomplishments for he is not to be like Leo Lewis, leaving memories of a man who was still the best when he retires.

Who Saved the Commonwealth?

Wilson Adjournment Threat Was Deadly

History will record that the Commonwealth of Nations was saved—at least temporarily—at a midnight conclave in the British Prime Minister's Office in Marlborough House on Monday, Sept. 12.

But, when Harold Wilson comes to write his autobiography, he will wish it to be thought that the turning-point came two days later, on Wednesday morning, when he spoke sharply to the Afro-Asian-Caribbean Commonwealth leaders—the non-Caucasian caucus.

However, it suits Mr. Wilson's book to mark the historic turning-point as occurring on Wednesday — just as it suits him to present himself as the leader who, single-handed and alone, saved the Commonwealth: if, indeed, it has been saved.

There were, in fact, only two weak points in the way Mr. Wilson handled this critical Commonewalth meeting; otherwise his performance — as a performance — was widely rated by those best able to judge as having been immaculate.

Has Flaws

A non-admirer who stands close in the counsels of Mr. Wilson says: "He is entitled to a great deal of the credit for saving the Commonwealth; but like all great men he has serious flaws: not the least of these is his inability to give credit to others."

Mr. Wilson's worst lapse came after dinner on Monday night — at a special late session in Marlborough House after a reception given by the Commonwealth Secretary-General, Arnold Smith — when he came near to wrecking the entire conference.

Earlier that day, Mr. Wilson had made his second major speech to the conference, effectively replying to the previous week's trenchant attacks on British policy.

Armed with eight proposals endorsed by the previous Saturday's Cabinet meeting, he had gone a long way toward breaking the weekend's deadlock with package-deal proposals for increasing pressures on the rebel Rhodesian regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith and especially because he had moved forward some way toward meeting the overwhelming demand for an assurance on NIBMAR — No Independence Before Majority Rule.

No Consensus

He had re-interpreted the existing fifth principle to make it clear that the majority must specificially approve any settlement on independence. For the first time there was some possibility of stitching together a communique that could be signed by the whole conference—even though the proposals themselves did not reflect a consensus of Commonwealth leaders.

The conference had adjourned on Monday afternoon in a weary mood prior to a special late-night session. But at the intervening reception, given by Arnold Smith, Mr. Wilson had become involved in wrangles with several delegates.

He had been up to 3 a.m. that morning and he was reported to be in low spirits. Relations were prickly by the time he took the chair for the resumed meeting.

Once bland in the face of criticism he grew quickly irritable and quarrelsome. The session became a shambles. Finally, it bogged down in a divisive argument over what precisely was meant by Mr. Wilson's fifth principle, which referred to the need for "the people of Rhodesia as a whole" to recommend a constitution leading to majority rule.

Hopeless

The situation seemed hopeless when the session broke up at 11 p.m. The Afro-Asian-Caribbean caucus decided there should be no further discussions, and that their own draft propositions should be put to the conference, leaving Britain and its few supporters to draft their own separate statement, thus leaving the conference to speak with two voices.

Mr. Wilson needed nobody to tell him he had blundered. Although it was already past 11 p.m., he summoned his closest associates to meet in his room at Marlborough House.

Among those usually present at these conclaves are the new Commonwealth Secretary, Herbert Bowden—still anxiously feeling his way among unfamiliar non-British faces; his high-powered deputy, Mrs. Judith Hart, who warms officials' hearts by her readiness to disagree with Mr. Wilson when necessary; the quiet, authoritative but firm Cabinet Secretary, Sir Burke Trend, an independent-minded civil servant; and Malcolm MacDonald, Britain's special representative in East and Central Africa, who marvellously retains the trust of African leaders.

It was then that Mr. Wilson decided on a crucial change of tactics. He stood still on the eight points which the Cabinet had approved on the previous Saturday; but he decided the time had come to make some change in meeting the crucial demand for NIBMAR.

If Ian Smith refused to negotiate within the terms laid down by the British government, then Britain would no longer be bound by the previous formula, allowing for independence under minority rule with suitable safeguards.

The Cabinet had agreed there should be no concession on this point, unless Mr. Wilson felt it absolutely necessary. Now he did. So, final shape was given to a package deal which would allow Britain to retain its initiative and primary responsibility for handling Rhodesia, while committing the Commonwealth to support its efforts at the United Nations.

Took Fright

But Mr. Wilson was not the only Commonwealth leader who had taken fright over Monday night's performance. The Kenyans, too, were alarmed. Vice-President Jo Murumbi and Tom Mboya were briefed to urge Mr. MacDonald early the next morning to impress on Mr. Wilson that things could not go on as they were.

And so the Kenyans' and Mr. MacDonald's paths converged. An immedjate meeting was arranged for Wilson, Murumbi and Mboya. They quickly agreed.

Mr. Wilson then asked to see Uganda's President Milton Obote—who had quietly emerged as the elder statesman among the Commonwealth Africans—and Sierra Leone's Prime Minister, Sir Albert Margai, whose efforts behind the scenes were much more constructive than would appear from the bombastic interventions with which he taunted Mr. Wilson in the conference.

HAROLD WILSON

MILTON OBOTE

LESTER PEARSON
. . . no adjournment

Indian Joined

They were joined by the Indian Foreign Minister, Swaran Singh, who had originally invited himself to join the African-Caribbean caucus—and had been welcomed as its chairman.

At the same time, the two leading Canadians at the conference, Prime Minister Lester Pearson and Arnold Smith, were engaged in the bridge-building task which has come to be the special forte of the Canadians. Mr. Pearson's unpushful role was crucial at several awkward moments.

Thus, by the time the Tuesday session got under way, the danger of the Commonwealth rift had largely passed. It became possible, once again, to contemplate negotiations to put together the two rival communiques—Mr. Wilson's proposals (backed by Australia, New Zealand, Malawi, and Malaysia; Malta, an earlier supporter, had fallen by the way) and the Afro-Asian-Caribbean declaration calling for force, mandatory sanctions and a pledge against independence before majority rule.

By Tuesday night no significant progress had been made toward a composite communique although Mr. Pearson had by then started to work on his own draft.

At this point Zambia's Foreign Minister, Simon Kapwepwe, returned home to report, and en route threw out his gratuitous insult, calling Mr. Wilson a racialist (later he added imperialist).

By Wednesday morning things were looking decidely bleak again. Deliberately or not, Mr. Wilson had worked himself up into a fine old lather over Kapwepwe's remark. He encountered the Kenyans in the lobby and told them he prosed to adjourn the conference for three months.

The Kenyans told him the Commonwealth was not his to order around. Nevertheless, he said the same thing to Mr. Pearson, who said that in that case, he for one would refuse to attend the next meeting.

(In Ottawa, a spokesman for the Prime Minister said that Mr. Pearson had told Mr. Wilson that an adjournment of the conference would not only be inconvenient but that there was a definite possibility that some members would not attend.)

Caucus Late

The mood of Mr. Wilson and his supporters was not helped by the Afro-Asian-Caribbean caucus cooly ignoring the official starting time of the session to continue its own meeting. What Mr. Wilson did not seem to know was that the prolonged caucus meeting was preparing the ground for a majority decision calling for another effort to reach agreement, if at all possible.

When the session finally got under way, Mr. Wilson delivered himself of some strong language. When he finished, he found there was general agreement for a start on drafting a communique. Mr. Wilson chooses to believe that it was his tough lecture that produced this result; in fact, the previous caucus meeting had paved the way — and the leader of the band of negotiations was, improbably, Sir Albert Margai himself.

It was quickly agreed to set up a nine-man drafting committee, under Mr. Pearson's chairmanship, and by 6 p.m. an agreed draft was ready.

Led Chorus

Sir Albert claimed the floor. Mr. Wilson glowered at him. But his brief intervention at once cleared up an awkward drafting point. As the delegates went through the draft paragraph by paragraph, it was Sir Albert's booming voice which led the chorus of "agreed" and which stamped out any possible pleas for amendment.

Although its leaders had united to save the Commonwealth, there were few illusions that they had made any substantial progress toward solving the Rhodesian crisis.

Faced with a clear-cut choice between having a Commonwealth or not, only the Zambians — who had their own problems — failed to close ranks.

It was the brown and black Commonwealth leaders who were emphasizing the value of the Commonwealth while the Australians and New Zealanders were saying loudly off stage that they did not much care for club members. Only Mr. Pearson among the older Commonwealth leaders was tuned in to the new Commonwealth. And, of course, Mr. Wilson.

ACCORDING TO SHARP:

Anti-Inflation Drive Starting to Pay Off

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian measures to cool off the economy "only now are having their main effect and they may be more successful than we had hoped." Finance Minister Sharp said Wednesday night.

The fact that the United States held off imposing a tax increase to fight its inflation, coupled with Canada's sharp rise in exports to the U.S. and elsewhere, threw out Canadian calculations made at the start of the year, Sharp told a press conference.

He said Canada had hoped the U.S. would impose a tax increase, a step President Johnson has resisted, relying instead on tight money and other measures.

Sharp was commenting on word that Canada's gross national product for the second quarter had flattened somewhat. Sharp siad he had expected it and "I hope it protends somewhat less pressure."

But the budget measures of last March could not withstand the double impact of rising exports and the continuing U.S. boom.

The minister was ending a visit to the annual meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

He said the government's entire anti-inflation effort, including postponement of medical care insurance and the successful appeal to rescind a steel price increase, seems to have been "extremely well receivd."

GAVE THREE REASONS

There were three main reasons for postponing medical insurance.

It had become plain in working on the 1967-68 budget that whole programs would have to be dropped to make ends meet. It was a question of postponing medical care or the increase in old-age pensions.

Second, medical insurance was vulnerable in the pending federal-provincial conferenee on tax revenues. If the government argued for economy and limited additional allotments to the less wealthy provinces in tax sharing, some provinces could point to medical insurance as a questionable big addition in expenditures.

Finally, postponing medical insurance was "dramtic evidence of our determination to try to keep the inflation situation under control."

WASHINGTON (CP) — Modest hopes for progress in setting up a new international currency unit or system were expressed Wednesday night by Finance Minister Sharp.

He said France, the main dissenter, is at least willing to talk about the matter in a meeting bringing together the International Monetary Fund and the 10-nation group which has been working on it.

"French gold policy is not in the interest of the world community." Sharp said of the French practice of salting away gold which it obtains by cashing in its American dollars. That has increased the heavy drain on the U.S. gold stocks.

Nobody Told Workers Big Wage Boosts Bad

MONTREAL (CP)—Recent labor unrest and militancy might have been contained if management had explained better the economic situation to employees, said Henri Joly, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

He told association members today that employers must bear part of the blame for not educating workers to the fact that wage increases of 20 or 30 per cent can have a drastic effect on Canada's competitive position in world trade.

"Had we, along with union leaders, done a better job of keeping in touch with rank and file employees and of explaining and listening and understanding, the situation might not have developed quite the way it has."

Mr. Joly said that although many union leaders feel corporation profits are high and have climbed more rapidly than wages, there have been few specific instances in recent years of excessive profits being made in manufacturing.

Labor income before taxes rose 75 per cent between 1956 and 1965, while corporation profits rose no more than 55 per cent in the same period.

A better industrial climate could be created if the average Canadian could be given this picture instead of being fed misleading figures about the size of corporation profits.

Probers Hunt Culprit In Soaring Expenses

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Are food growers, processors, wholesalers, distributors and retailers the main culprits in the rising cost of living?

The Senate-Commons special committee on living costs heard food prices branded as the culprits at its first meeting Wednesday in a comment by one of its co-chairmen, Senator David A. Croll (L—Ontario).

But R. B. Bryce, deputy minister of finance, said rising demand for all types of goods and services as demonstrated by consumer, business and government expenditures, was generally to blame. The first expert witness called before the committee, he didn't like blaming any segment of the economy as the culprit.

Outside the committee, a prominent Ottawa food wholesaler and distributor, who will be called later as a witness, said he is unable to affix the blame for higher food prices to any element between the farm and the table.

Bertram Loeb, president of M. Loeb Ltd., speaking at a reception for 500 of his firm's suppliers, said introduction of new materials, handling equipment and data processing computers is offsetting some higher costs within his organization.

Working with a profit margin of less than one per cent of sales, Mr. Loeb said his firm faces higher prices paid to suppliers and higher costs of transportation, packaging, and labor. These higher prices had to be passed on to consumers but the firm had not used its own margin.

PROVIDES STATISTICS

The committee, composed of senators and members of Parliament drawn from all parties, received a bulky set of statistics Wednesday from Mr. Bryce, analyzing the national economic accounts of Canada since 1949.

They showed, for instance, that while the gross national expenditure — the value of all spending on goods and services in Canada—has risen 7.5 per cent a year, a large part of the increase has been due to increased spending by governments and business. Prices have risen 2.7 per cent a year over the period since 1949, but four per cent in the first half of this year over the first half of last year.

Still, the amount of gross national product spent on wages, salaries, and supplementary labor income has been virtually unchanged at 49 to 50 per cent over the whole period.

When asked by Senator Croll about the culprits, Mr. Bryce said spending, representing increased demand for goods and services, has been pervasive through all segments of the economy. This has pulled prices up.

The solution, as he saw it, is to moderate the demand pressures now, until new policies and programs to encourage productivity have taken effect.

He said Canada has to learn to live with prosperity.

'Company Presidents Losing to Experts'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The autonomous power of big business has moved from the hands of a few men of great wealth to groups of men with scientific and technological skills, Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith, a leading U.S. economist, said Wednesday night.

Dr. Galbraith, professor of economics at Harvard University and former adviser to President John F. Kennedy, told a packed audience at the University of British Columbia:

"Power has passed from those who supply capital to those who supply technological skills and experience."

Dr. Galbraith said large corporations today are controlled by committees of experts. The company president, he said, is no longer responsible for making major decisions and delegates most authority to the proper group of experts.

He said the company president's major function now is to make sure the right committee makes the right decision and to ensure the autonomy of individual committees.

"We shall never again know the name of the president of General Motors," Dr. Galbraith said.

'Lean Times' Prediction Supported by Companies

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Council of Forest Industries of British Columbia has joined the Truck Loggers' Association in predicting lean times ahead for the forest products industry.

In a cautious but openly pessimistic statement the council, which says it speaks for the majority of producers, said a drop in demand for lumber, plywood and shingles in Canadian and foreign markets is expected to cause further curtailment of logging and production.

The Truck Loggers' Association said basically the same thing some weeks ago. Neither group specified the extent of the curtailments, but both said they can be expected this fall and both said prospects for an immediate 'resolution to the problem are remote.

The Council of Forest Industries blamed a curious roundabout situation for the drop in demand.

In its statement, the council said the steady decline in housing starts in Canada, the U.S. and the United Kingdom has been evident for some time, and some of the drop in demand was to be expected.

It said, however, that governments in Canada, Britain and the U.S., which are traditional markets for 90 per cent of B.C.'s wood products, are planning fiscal moves to eliminate the "tight money" effects which caused the drop in housing starts.

Earlier this year, however, lumber buyers, fearing an industry-wide strike, stocked up. This temporary increase in volume was further swollen by supply purchases for the Viet Nam war.

"The result has been low demand and steadily falling prices since July," the report says.

The only solution, it points out, is to reduce inventories and improve the pace of housing starts. In the meantime, times will be a bit thin.

"Despite the present temporary slackening, there is a growing need for new housing and the steps to alleviate the shortage of mortgage money should strengthen wood products demand to normal levels once more," the report concludes. It dosn't say when this can be expected.

Hardest hit are expected to be those companies engaged in only one or two phases of the industry, such as logging or sawmilling. However, some large companies are still expected to scale down production of building products.

Crown Zellerbach told its employees in a company publication that it has not altered its production schedules, but it is "examining requirements with respect to some production curtailment."

MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., the giant of Canadian forest products companies, declined comment beyond the forest council statement.

An industry spokesman said companies heavily committed to sales in the U.S. Atlantic seaboard are having greater difficulties than those who have wider diversification.

In any case, the forest industry in B.C., while still on a solid footing, appears to be going into a slump.

The industry currently employs 75,000 men — 22,000 in logging, 28,000 in sawmills, 8,000 in plywood, 2,000 in shingle mills and 15,000 in pulp and paper mills.

SUSPECT IN FRAUD, EX-MAYOR DIES

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Former mayor Chester C. Kowal, 61, under indictment in connection with a grand jury investigation into refuse disposal, died Wednesday at his home.

Cause of death was not announced.

In June, 1965, he was indicted by an Erie County grand jury on charges of conspiracy, taking unlawful fees, violating the state law regarding public officials and perjury.

The indictments arose from an inquiry into alleged links between city officials and a private contract for development and operation of a private dump.

About 10 hours after he was indicted, Kowal was found unconscious in his office. Several days later, police chemists said Kowal had taken aspirin.

Uvic Student Enrolment Up; Good Response to New Courses

University of Victoria enrolment has reached 3,413 for the winter session, an increase of 431 over last year's registration.

The gain is more than 12 per cent in the arts and science faculty where 2,410 students are registered compared to 2,145 last year, and nearly 11 per cent in the education faculty with 927 students from 837 last year.

Uvic's new school of fine arts accounts for 37 students, the school of graduate studies, also new this year, has registered 39 students who are working towards postgraduate degrees in eight fields of study.

President Dr. Malcolm Taylor said enrolment in both new faculties was "a most encouraging response."

There are more than 1,000 first year students registered in the arts and science faculty.

Education students taking elementary teacher's training number 717, and an additional 226 are registered in the secondary teacher's training program.

Twenty-five of these are on the graduate one-year program for students who have earned a previous degree.

HOME GARDEN

Anemones Fill Most Needs

By HILDA BEASTALL

A gardener could have some member of the genus anemone to bloom in any part of a large garden, for there are kinds to thrive in rich, moist shady spots, others for open gravelly sites, and still others for the rock garden pockets.

Hilda

Anemone (pronounced an-em-o-nee) roots may be tuberous or fibrous, according to the species.

Druing the latter part of September and throughout October we can plant all the various kinds of these showy lovely plants — for they are of perennial nature, and once planted will continue to give pleasure for years if given the right conditions.

Anemone japonica, or A. hupehense, (Japanese anemone) is the tallest of the anemones, reaching five feet in September, with saucer-shaped blooms up to three inches across in shades of pink, and pure white. These like a shady place, and rich moist soil. The roots are fibrous, and if given an annual mulch of well-rotted compost and manure in April will increase into a fine large group.

These are tuberous rooted, and while the dried pieces of root do not deteriorate out of the soil, the main planting is usually made at this time for flowers in May, June and July.

The colors are splendid, in blues, purples, reds, all shades of pink, and white, on strong stems about a foot in height.

A. St. Bavo, and A fulgens somewhat resemble coronaria, though flowers are not so large. Plant a few of each to get aquainted with all.

For the rock garden is a gem called A. blanda, with smaller flowers and more refined leaves, almost fern-like. Colors are deep blue, pink and white, on stems no more than four inches high.

If given sun for most of the day, these little anemones are delightful at the base of rocks, or clustered around some of the smaller shrubs in a large rock garden. Flowering time, according to season and exposure, from late February to April.

We used to include the Pasque flower or Prairie-crocus as an anemone, but now we must remember its re-classification as Pulsatilla vulgaris. Plant it for its lovely furry buds, opening to deep purple goblets filled with golden stamens in early spring.

Five Fined For Lacking Lifejackets

A sunny September Sunday afternoon proved a costly one for five local fishermen.

Caught without adequate lifejackets in their craft Sept. 4 they were fined a total of $55 when they appeared in central court Wednesday.

All pleaded guilty to charges of failing to supply adequate life jackets for each person in the boat.

William Skibo, 2759 Belmont, told court he had two lifejackets bought at an auction and not of the approved variety. There were four people in his boat. He was fined $10.

Paying the same fine was Ronald Yardley, 266 Glenarlie, who was found wearing a water-ski-belt life jacket. His passenger had no jacket at all.

THREE FOR EIGHT

William Thompson, 202 Dundas, paid $15. He had three jackets for eight people, some of them children.

Fred Gale, 4178 Morris, was a jacket short for one of the passengers on board and was fined $10.

All five men were fishing on Finlayson Arm.

Lillian Smith Dies

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lillian Smith, author of "Strange Fruit" —a novel which created a storm of controversy 20 years ago because of its mixed racial theme —died Wednesday after a long illness. Miss Smith, 69, who never married, was the author of such other well-known works as "Killers of the Dream," "The Journey" and "Now Is the Time."

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, SEPT. 29, 1966 —PAGE 13

'Hellyer's Hoax' Gives Single Men Parity With Married Co-Workers

Hellyer's Hoax was how one Victoria serviceman today described the new armed forces' pay scales.

He was referring to the long awaited upgrading of wages by the defence department announced by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer in Ottawa.

Certainly the juicy carrot which was promised may lose a lot of its flavor on pay day.

Only people openly happy at the new deal were Victoria's bachelor servicemen who will benefit from the plan to give them equal pay with their married counterparts.

For the average seaman this will make a difference of around $30 a month.

LITTLE HAPPINESS

For the rest, there was little cause for rejoicing.

The proposed 9.8 per cent increase in an average which means that some lower ranks receive only six or seven per cent more.

And under the new set-up, marriage allowance which was formerly untaxable and subsistence allowance which was two-thirds taxed, will now be lumped into the pay packet subject to full tax.

Said one officer after a careful calculation of the new pay scales: "It looks like I'll be getting an extra $14-a-month."

For him that means an actual increase of only six per cent.

ROOM AND BOARD

While the plan also provides for single men to live off base, those living on base will have to pay room and board. Rents for married quarters will also be revised, "in due course."

What the plan will do is provide incentive to five-year men to make a career of the services.

The re-inlistment bonus is out and in its place is a considerable pay raise after the first five years.

Obvious from a quick check of the new rates is that higher ranking officers and single men will get the best of the deal—receiving in most cases substantially more than a 9.8 per cent increase.

BACK IN TAXES

But even in their cases, many of the extra dollars will be fed back to the government in the form of taxes.

Of Mr. Hellyer's announcement that the pay raises will cost $63.6 million in the next fiscal year, one officer said:

"I think he should mention that much of that is going to be paid back in taxes."

The new deal allows for another 4 per cent increase next year and the immediate promotion to corporal (the equivalent of a leading seaman) of 14,000 men.

It also calls for a reduction in the number of service trades from 350 to 100 which will mean a possible upgrading for some.

What the plan has done is to remove some of the bones of contention regarding unequal pay for men doing similar jobs.

700 SINGLES

It has also removed the bug of single men receiving less than their married counterparts, although these only amount to just over 10 per cent of the total force—some 700 in Victoria's three services out of a total 5,100.

The general attitude among officers and men at Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt today seemed to be: "Let's wait until payday and see."

Certainly in most cases there was no way of knowing in actual dollars and cents just what the raise would mean, though one private said:

"According to my reckonings I'm going to be $10-a-month out of pocket."

First of the new pay packets will be handed out in mid-October.

Until then, everyone's keeping their fingers crossed.

POOR BOY NOW LORD MAYOR

Modern Dick Whittington

The Lord Mayor of London, who will visit here in November, is a modern Dick Whittington.

Remember Dick, the legendary poor country boy who tried to make it in the big city and failed? He was cutting out when he heard bells pealing and they seemed to say, "Turn again Whittington, Lord Mayor of London."

So he turned again and sure enough, one day be became Lord Mayor.

Well today in London, they elected a former poor boy who left school at 14 and started life as an office boy.

His name is Sir Robert Bellinger and he is 639th to hold that office. His election today ended a problem for protocol planners here who knew the Lord Mayor was coming but they didn't know what his name would be.

He will be a witness to the 100th anniversary celebration Nov. 20 of the formal union of the Crown Colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia, at Memorial Arena. Various other B.C. functions are also planned to include his presence.

He told newsmen today, "The idea that only the extremely rich can be Lord Mayor is wrong . . . I'm not all that wealthy."

BENNETT ASKS RETURN TO JOBS

Striking PGE Workers to Vote On 'Final Offer' by Province

Striking workers on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will answer by ballot an appeal Wednesday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett to return to their jobs.

The workers, on strike since Monday, were asked by the premier to return to work "for the good of the province as a whole."

The premier made the plea at a press conference called on the eve of his departure for a two week tour of Bavaria, Switzerland and England.

"I ask them (the striking workers) as the premier of the province to return to work," he said. The premier is also the president of the PGE.

LAST OFFER

The railway has been idle since 400 non-operating employees rejected the company's latest offer.

Mr. Bennett said the offer, equal to the rate increases recently granted workers on Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, was "the last and final offer of the Pacific Great Eastern."

In addition to increases matching national railway workers, the premier said the PGE workers had been offered a wage floor in terms that would ensure than no increase is less than 50 cents an hour for tradesmen and not less than 40 cents an hour for non-tradesmen after two years.

Half of the increase would be retroactive to last January, he said.

FAIR TREATMENT

"I think the government is treating these workers very fairly," he said. "I appeal to them to recognize this and return to work."

A 14-day strike by PGE workers last year cost the railway $1 million in lost revenues.

The present strike, now in its fourth day, is also proving costly to the general economy the premier said. But he added that the government would not intervene.

"No commissioner will be appointed," he said. "We have made our final offer. It is now up to the workers."

Dave Chapman of the Federation of PGE Employees, said in Vancouver today that a new vote would be called so that the workers could make their own decision on Mr. Bennett's plea.

The Federation has been under some criticism from rank and file members who claim the strike was called before some members had a chance to vote.

"In answer to this criticism membership meetings will be held as soon as possible in North Vancouver and Squamish and ballots will be mailed to members in the north," he said.

The PGE runs from Vancouver to Fort St. John providing many isolated communities en route with their only source of heavy freight supplies.

Asked if he would call in trucking services to provide a temporary link if the railway strike was prolonged Mr. Bennett answered "No, the PGE doesn't own a fleet of freight trucks."

3-NATION SWING 'JUST LOOKING'

Premier W. A. C. Bennett will take a close look at federal government system of Bavaria, West Germany, next week — but not with any ideas of imposing a similar system on the people of B.C.

The Bavarian visit, being made at the invitation of the Bavarian government, is one of three countries to be visited by the premier in his flying trip overseas.

Mr. Bennett leaves on the first leg of his trip today.

After studying Bavarian federalism — "we can all learn something from other governments" — Mr. Bennett travels to Switzerland for a round of talks with international bankers.

"I'm not going to raise money — we're not raising money in Europe," he said. "It's just to exchange ideas and study the general economy of the world."

Asked whom he would be seeing in Britain Mr. Bennett declined to answer.

"I'm going at their invitation," he said. "I don't think it would be right for me to be talking about the men I'm going to see."

The premier will return to Canada in mid-October in time to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree — his fourth — from the University of New Brunswick, his home province.

ARTHUR MAYSE ON VACATION

Negligence Contributed To Car Death

Excessive Speed Cited by Jury

A coroner's jury Wednesday night laid some of the blame for the traffic death of a 68-year-old widow, September 18, on the driver of the car involved.

Mrs. Nancie Wicks, 1638 Quadra, died in St. Joseph's Hospital two days after she was hit by a car as she crossed Blanshard at Fisgard. She suffered multiple fractures in the the accident."

The jury ruled that the driver, Gary Anderson of HMCS Mackenzie, was "imprudent in driving at excessive speed in view of the wet weather, amount of street lighting and volume of traffic at the point of the accident.

Evidence suggested his car was moving between 30 and 35 miles an hour in the 30 mile-an-hour zone.

A "small degree" of blame could be attached to inadequate vision through a smeared windshield, said the jury in ruling that negligence was a contributing cause in the death.

80-Year Resident Of City Dies

Mrs. Jeanette Cusack, a member of two well-known Victoria families and a resident of the city for more than 80 years, died Wednesday aged 92.

She was the widow of Thomas R. Cusack, a printer and publisher in early Victoria, and the daughter of William Luney, founder of the contracting firm of Luney Bros., now Luney Bros. and Hamilton Ltd.

Three generations of her family were contractors.

Born in Toronto, she came to Victoria in 1885 and in her younger days was well-known in musical circles in the city.

Mrs. Cusack was a member of the Metropolitan United Church choir for many years, and was one of the earliest members of the Women's Canadian Club here.

She is survived by a daughter Noel at home, 931 Pemberton; a brother Walter Luney, also of Victoria; a sister Mrs. Minnie Davidson of San Diego, Calif.; nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in McCall's main chapel. Rev. Albert King will officiate, and interment will follow in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Driver Sent To Jail In Fatality

The driver of a car which slammed into a tree last June, killing a passenger, was jailed for three months today when sentenced for dangerous driving.

Douglas Morrison, 22, of 1608 North Dairy was also fined $40 when sentenced for careless driving in another accident.

Lee Williams, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Williams of the Goldstream Inn, died 12 hours after Morrison's car slid broadside into the tree on the edge of the Glen Lake Road near the Sooke Road, June 4.

The accident was caused by speed and drink, said Magistrate Byers. Morrison had three previous speeding convictions.

He was barred from driving for six months.

Servants Sound Strike Warning

Militant Members Want Union Status

The provincial government could find itself without a civil service on the opening day of the 1967 session of the Legislature if the militant wing of the British Columbia Government Employees Association has its way.

The association is to hold its annual convention in Vancouver on Friday and Saturday next week.

Buried in the spate of 137 resolutions to be discussed by the 68 convention delegates, including seven from Victoria, in the Ramada Inn, are a number of expressions of a new militancy among provincial servants, warnings of storms to come.

Sandwiched between resolutions on nepotism and automation is a proposal by the Essondale branch of the association complaining that:

NO RESULTS

"Year after year resolutions have been submitted to our conventions demanding the return of the dues check-off and the right to collective bargaining, shift differential, overtime for statutory holidays and . . . year after year our employer has refused to recognize these fair conditions which are enjoyed by all in outside industries."

Impatient with the lack of results the resolution would empower the executive to try once more to obtain these concessions, and failing that: "then sufficient time should be allowed prior to the opening day of the Legislature in 1967 for the provincial executive to take a strike vote among the membership and have it concluded (with results) on that opening day."

Hardly more cautious is a resolution submitted by the nearby Vancouver-New Westminster branch declaring that:

"Whereas our employers seem determined to keep provincial civil servants' wages at a low level;

"Therefore be it resolved that the incoming executive of the B.C. Government Employees' Association be instructed to explore means other than petition to increase our wages to parity with others and to prevent our present lowly position from deteriorating further in the face of mounting inflation."

CHECK-OFF SYSTEM

Five other resolutions insist on the return of the check-off system for association dues.

Three other resolutions call for collective bargaining rights for all B.C. government employees and two call for a closed union shop clause in bargaining agreements with the government.

Other resolutions would reduce the voluntary and compulsory retirement ages, increase pensions, lengthen vacations, shorten hours (the Essondale Branch "demands a 34-hour work week") raise wages, increase overtime, and speed up pay cheques.

SEAT BELTS

"Seat belts have not proven 100 per cent effective in preventing injury or loss of life," the resolution notes, and "seat belts have been known to contribute to loss of life due to inability to free oneself," and above all, "can infringe on one's rights by possibly placing his life in some danger in some instances" and therefore provincial employees should not be required to wear them.

Elk Lake's First Teacher At Opening

An 87-year-old former teacher intimately connected with Elk Lake school history will be special guest at the opening of the new Elk Lake Elementary tonight.

Mrs. Gladys Gabb, now a Brentwood resident, was the first teacher at the original school which opened in 1897.

The school was closed in 1914 and torn down later in the First World War.

Several Victorians who attended the original school will also attend tonight's ceremony.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis will officially open the school at Alderley and Cordova Bay Roads, which has been in use since the term's beginning earlier this month.

Built on the cluster plan with a central courtyard, the school was designed to make future additions blend with the present structure. The plan is considered a new concept in school architecture.

Architects were Peterson and Lester, and Patterson Construction Ltd. were contractors for the school.

HONORED WITH Certificate of Gallantry by Governor-General is 12-year-old Grant Baird, of 3925 Tudor, here being congratulated at Scout executive meeting Wednesday by Greater Victoria Regional Commissioner Wilf Gibson. The lad saved his father's life following water-skiing accident in 1965. Grant, of 14th Garry Oak Scouts, along with Douglas Ayres, 15, of 7th Juan de Fuca, awarded Certificate for Meritorious Conduct will receive certificate at formal ceremony October 7. Ask The Times

Q. Is the percentage of Canada's French-speaking population larger now than it was the year of Confederation? M.N.

A. No, says historian Donald Creighton. At the first census, 1871, the French-language community was 31.06. per cent of the total population, and in 1961, it was 30.37 per cent.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

UVIC FORUM SPEAKERS

Dissenters Coming Here

So is Sgt. Donald Duncan, the Viet Nam veteran who protested U.S. warfare there.

They are the latest names added to the imposing list of guest speakers at University of Victoria's political science forum.

The announcement was made by Forum president Gordon Pollard, a graduate student at the University. "We are delighted at Mr. Levesque's acceptance," he said.

Mr. Levesque was a key member of the recently-defeated Lesage regime in Quebec and is widely regarded as the leading spokesman for Quebec's Quiet Revolution.

He will address the Forum in mid-January.

Maste. Sgt. Duncan is the Canadian who fought in Viet Nam with the Green Beret special forces group and now campaigns against the American policy in the war.

He is slated to speak on Oct. 20.

The Forum last week played host to James Meredith and Laurier La Pierre and this week will be addressed by Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith, author of The Affluent Society.

Dr. Galbraith will speak in the University gymnasium tonight at 8.

Cash Need Overcomes Royal Exclusiveness

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today launched a pre-Christmas drive to sell rich Americans the same luxury goods the Royal Family buy.

China tableware from the firm which supplied King George III, silver from the Sheffield smiths whom King George V awarded a royal warrant, tea first blended especially for Queen Mary and hair lotion prepared by Princess Margaret's hairdresser are among 200 Christmas gifts offered.

The sales drive was launched at Gorringe's store, close to Buckingham Palace, the Queen's London residence.

Catalogues emblazoned "a present from Buckingham Palace road" are being sent to more than 300,000 selected American credit-card holders.

The gifts will be flown over in boxes bearing royal crests and fastened with red velvet ribbon and a red seal.

Officially, using the Royal Family's patronage to sell goods has been frowned on since the first Queen Elizabeth banned it four centuries ago.

But the Board of Trade approved the new project to bring Britain much-needed dollars.

Disaster Drill . . . Don't Panic

It's going to be a busy night for Saanich civil defence forces.

At 7 p.m. an earthquake is due to hit, knocking out all area telephones.

Shortly thereafter there'll be a landslide at Saanich gravel pit, a major fire on Lambrick Estate, a capsized pleasure craft at Elk Lake and numerous small fires throughout the municipality.

For two-and-a-half hours, the CD will have the job of rescuing trapped persons and restoring order.

Local residents seeing fire engines, food units and divers are reminded it's only an exercise and there's no cause for panic.

Pied Piper Set for Tour To Olympia

Bastion theatre's touring company has been asked by Olympia Junior Programs to take Marge Adelberg's musical The Pied Piper to Olympia, Washington, Nov. 3, 4 and 5.

Last December's touring production of Pinocchio played to 4,500 children in five Olympia performances, with busloads of children from as far away as 45 miles outside the city.

Marge Adelberg is the author of School for Wives (and others) Bastion's current hit production playing until Saturday at McPherson Playhouse, 8:30 nightly.

Twin 'Improving'

TORONTO (CP) — Crystal Ann, the surviving McGee siamese twin, was reported steadily improving Wednesday but still on the critical list.

The twins were separated in a 6½-hour operation Sept. 17. The other twin, Sherri Lee, died eight hours after the operation.

Heavy Metal Space Shield Eliminated

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet space scientists reported today that spaceships can be protected from radiation with an electromagnetic field, ending the limitation on space travel resulting from the weight of the heavy metal shields now used.

"The proposed electrostatic protection is much lighter, with its weight consisting only of the electrodes, insulators and sources of power," said a scientific report distributed by Tass news agency.

The report did not say when the new type of shield would be used or whether it would be tested first on animals. The Soviet Union has not put up a manned spaceship since March 18, 1965, when it achieved the first walk in space.

OFFICIAL greeter for the city of New York promised Spanish dancer Manuela Vargas she would do anything to make Miss Vargas' stay in the big city more enjoyable. Today, Miss Vargas mounted the steps of City Hall and called on the official to get back her car which was towed away from a no parking zone near the theatre where she is appearing.

Teens, Parents See New Slant On Problems

Victoria teenagers and parents may wave goodbye to some set ideas after seeing the film Nobody Waved Goodbye Friday.

The free screening is sponsored by First United Church, Theatre at 8 p.m. It will be followed by discussion of the flim by small groups, of eight to ten parents and youngsters.

Conclusions reached by each discussion group will be mimeographed for members of other groups to take home and study.

Steel Output Up

HONG KONG (Reuters)—The New China news agency reports China's output of steel, rolled steel, pig iron and coke was more than 20 per cent higher in the first eight months of 1966 than in the same period last year.

FREE BABYSITTING

Offer Swamps Crystal

Crystal Garden manager William Young wouldn't have believed it until Wednesday.

But he does now.

Three-hundred-and-fifty of them turned up at his pool for a swim — and along with them came equally as many babies.

The trouble began when Mr. Young advertised women's swim classes. Along with the classed he offered free babysitting.

SITTER'S PANIC

"But I never expected anything like this," he said today. Memorial Arena staff had to loan babysitters.

"We were so busy trying to look after the children we hardly had time to handle the swim classes."

So great was the response he's had to divide the women into three classes on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Even so, his four instructors will still have between 90 and 100 women per session — and four babysitters will have about and equal number of children to handle.

While the women are doing two hours of keep fit exercises and swimming, the children will play around the pool's perimeter.

AMAZING RESPONSE

"The response is absolutely amazing," said Mr. Young. "We had 289 registrations for the classes and another 60 just turned up. It was utter chaos."

"It's a pretty fair cross-section," said Mr. Young, "and it just goes to show the demand there is for this sort of service."

The classes will run until Dec. 21 and resume after New Year until Mid-June.

FINGERED BY WIDOW

Did James Bond Kill Author Ian Fleming?

NEW YORK (Reuters) — James Bond, "a bit of a bore," probably drove her husband to an early death at 56, Ian Fleming's widow says in a magazine article.

Writing in the October issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, Mrs. Fleming says:

"Sometimes I hated James Bond. Ian should certainly not have written the last book. I implored him to rest. The doctors warned him time and again. It was far too much of a strain for a man who had suffered a bad coronary attack.

". . . He didn't need the money. But with publishers, film-makers, the press and the public all seemingly insatiable, the writing of the next Bond fantasy, and then the next, became a compulsion. Bond was his Frankenstein's monster.

". . . His consititution was unequal to the pace and to the burden of trying to cope with the never-ending demands. No one knew this better than he did. He was an impossible patient, he flatly refused to slow down; even to a normal living pace . . . I suppose it was almost deliberately suicidal."

Maharishi in Person

A sage of India speaks on Deep Meditation, key to unfoldment of the power and creativity latent in man.

- Not hypnosis, not concentration, not contemplation. Not a recluse system.
- True meditation goes beyond ordinary thought. It is innocent, simple.

When questioned on the philosophy of Existentialism, Maharishi said, "I call it death-ism. If we speak of existence, then we should not talk in terms of futility, but in terms of Eternity."

Bomb Suspects Arrested

NEW YORK (CP) — Two men wanted in Montreal on coroners' warrants for non-capital murder were arrested by New York City police Wednesday while they were picketing across the street from the United Nations building.

City police identified the pair as Charles Gagnon, 27, and Pierre Vallieres, 28. A police spokesman said the two, who were carrying placards on behalf of the Quebec Liberation Front when arrested, distributed an announcement in the UN Press Gallery Tuesday that they had started a hunger strike which they would end only with achievement of special status for imprisoned members of the Quebec Liberation Front.

In Montreal, a spokesman for the Criminal Investigation Bureau said that Gagnon and Vallieres will be returned to Montreal within the next few days.

They were found criminally responsible in absentia last week at a coroner's inquest into the death of Jean Corbo, a 16-year-old student who died July 14 when a bomb he was carrying apparently exploded prematurely outside a Dominion Textile plant here.

Five other young men were also held responsible for the death.

Earlier last week the two were also held criminally responsible along with six others for the death of Therese Morin, 64, who died in a bomb blast at a Montreal shoe factory May 5.

Coroner's warrants for Vallieres and Gagnon were issued follliwin, the inquests.

The CIB spokesman said these later were changed to warrants for non-capital murder by the Montreal police court.

The CIB spokesman said Vallieres and Gagnon will be arraigned on non-capital murder charges when they are returned to Montreal.

Club Names New Officers

Dave Foster has been named new president of the Capital City Speakers Group, which will hold meetings Mondays at 6 p.m. at Langham Court Theatre.

Named a chief critic in Frank Hunter, a member of the group for 22 years.

Campbell Again Defends Action To Allow Mine Waste Dumping

VANCOUVER (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Wednesday the dumping of mill waste and treated sewage into Buttle Lake on Vancouver Island will not cause pollution.

Anti-pollution groups have scheduled a mass meeting Sunday in Port Alberni to protest a decision by the Pollution Control Board to allow Western Mines Ltd. to dump waste into the lake.

Mr. Campbell said objectors to the plan could still make a presentation to the board if they had technical evidence the dumping would pollute the water.

Harold Wright, president of Western Mines, said in an interview objections to the dumping of tailings in the lake are based on emotion, not fact.

However, Howard Paish, manager of the B.C. Wildlife Federation, said the technical information on which the board based its decision does not stand up. He said the board turned down the federation's offer of additional technical material.

Mr. Wright said "we are not going to foul our own nest. We live on the lake and some of us are citizens of Campbell River." He said the technical evidence had been checked with the federal fisheries department.

PTAs Ready To Spread Word On Activities

Next week is "Parent-Teacher Week," announced by the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation and designed to focus attention on schools, students and their needs.

Contributions made to education by local PTA's will also be put in the public spotlight throughout the week.

Monday is "blitz day" when mayors and reeves throughout B.C. have been asked to kick off a membership campaign for their local PTA's.

New courses and teaching methods, rising education costs, and student choices in their school career all come up for study at PTA meetings.

PTA membership will provide not only "improvements in your family life, but gains for your school and community," said Mrs. Gordon Redgrave, president of the B.C. Parent-Teacher Federation.

Dart GT 2-Door Hardtop — 111-inch wheelbase

NEW COMPACT: DART

Dart is an altogether new kind of compact. It's small enough to be a compact; big enough to be by Dodge. Dart's 111-inch wheelbase is the biggest in its class. You see, Dart says owning a compact doesn't mean giving up things. Like big room, luxury, performance and comfort. Dart gives you another thing that other compacts don't in '67 . . . a choice of 2-door hardtop and a convertible. Just about the only thing compact about Dart is its price. See Dart. The compact. Dodge is proud to put its name on.

INTO EACH LIFE . . .

. . . some rain must fall. And plenty fell Wednesday on golfers in the Pro-Am preceding the Canadian Open golf championship at Vancouver's Shaughnessy. Looking more like a glum advertisement for rainwear than his usual happy, bantering self, Chi Chi Rodriguez contemplates his five-over-par 76. (CP Wirephoto.)

Hot-Putting Knudson Gets Pro-Am Win

VANCOUVER (CP) — "I almost set a personal putting record," George Knudson, of Toronto, said Wednesday after touring the much-maligned Shaughnessy Golf and Country Club layout with a two-under-par 69.

The lanky professional one-putted nine greens and covered the 18 holes in 28 putts to finish one stroke off the pace in the pro-am tournament which preceded today's Canadian open golf championship.

Knudson said he expected to find fairways where there should have been greens after hearing comments from fellow professionals earlier in the week that the greens were too small for the length of the fairways on the 6,907-yard course.

The pro-am was actually a best-ball affair with each playing professional teamed with three amateurs.

Knudson and his team of Del Sinclair of Toronto and William Hill and Alfred Heaslip, both of Vancouver, finished with a 58 total to win the tournament.

Billy Martindale of Dallas, Tex., and Jim Ferree of Savannah, Ga., tied for first place in the individual honors with 68's.

Knudson won $400 as a member of the low team and an additional $375 as third low professional in individual scoring. Martindale and Ferree split first money of $500 and second of $425 into $462.50 each.

Some Canucks Predict Native Win

Last Canadian to win the open was former Saskatoon pro Pat Fletcher with a four-under-par 280 at the neighboring Point Grey Golf Course in 1954.

The 134 pros are shooting for $100,000 in prize money in the four-day Open. The winner's share is $20,000. Ten amateurs fill out the entry.

The golfers were to go out in groups of three, spaced eight minutes apart. Half the 144 entries started on the first tee and the other half on the 10th, alternating on the second day.

The field will be cut to 70 and ties on the final two days. If a tie develops, an 18-hole playoff will be held Monday.

Billy Casper and Jack Nicklaus, the two top money winners of the PGA circuit so far this year, go into the tournament as favorites because of their powerful tee shots, well suited to the long course.

Casper, Nicklaus Fourth With 70s

Casper who has lined his pockets with more than $110,000 this year, shot a 70 in the pro-am to tie with Nicklaus and two other pros for fourth place in the individual honors.

Nicklaus has won more than $89,000 in play this year.

Also shooting one-under 70s were Rod Funseth of Spokane, Wash., and Chuck Courteney of LaJolla, Calif.

Nicklaus disagreed that he or any golfer could be considered a favorite.

"It's silly to say this course is fitted to any golfer. Any of us can play golf and the one who plays best this week will be the one to win. When they say this course is bad for Nicklaus I usually win, but then they say this course is suited for Nicklaus, I'm usually lucky to make the cutoff."

Ferree, one of the first on the course Wednesday, said the wet conditions made play tricky.

Entertainer Bing Crosby, who played in the pro-am with pro Ken Venturi said Shaughnessy "will examine the powers of the pros."

WETNESS TAKES TOLL

The wet course also took the measure of several of the pros including Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez of Puerto Rico and Venturi, the 1964 U.S. Open champ. Both shot five - over 76s.

Among the other Canadians expected to finish in the money are Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Al Balding of Toronto. Leonard had his card lifted by the PGA last week for failing to compete in at least 10 required tournaments in one year, but he refused to comment Wednesday on his future plans.

. . . Done In By Rookie!

Jaster Cools Dodgers; Pirates Only 1½ Back

(UPI)

Pittsburgh Pirates' chances for winning the National League pennant are as unlikely as a rookie firing five straight shutouts against the defending world champions.

But that's exactly what happened Wednesday night when St. Louis' 22-year-old freshman hurler Larry Jaster stopped the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0 for his fifth straight whitewash over the league-leaders.

Jaster's continued mastery over the Dodgers plus Pittsburgh's 2-1 and 4-2 doubleheader victory over Philadelphia have suddenly transformed a Los Angeles cakewalk to the pennant into a dogfight.

The Dodgers held a comfortable three-game lead over the runner-up Pirates going into Wednesday's action and could have possibly clinched their second consecutive flag by beating St. Louis while Pittsburgh dropped a twinbill to the Phils.

MAGIC NUMBER — 3

But today Los Angeles' magic number remains at three with four games to go and the Dodgers own a 1½ game advantage over the Pirates, who have only three games left.

Without having to face Jaster this season, the Dodgers would have been recovering from a victory celebration already. But without Los Angeles, Jaster would be just another pitcher today instead of the holder of a major league record.

His five consecutive shutouts over the Dodgers snapped the mark of four set by Fred Fitzsimmons over the Cincinnati Reds in 1929. Jaster also tied the standard established 50 years ago by Grover Cleveland Alexander, who blanked the Reds five times but not successively.

"It's really unbelievable," Jaster said after his four-hitter improved his record to 11-5. "I knew about the record but I tried not to think about it. First of all I wanted to win the game and then after the first couple of innings I really wanted that shutout."

Elsewhere in the NL, San Francisco downed Atlanta 5-2, Houston nipped Cincinnati 4-3 after losing the opener 7-1, and Chicago beat New York 4-1 before dropping the nightcap 1-0.

In the American League, Cleveland blanked Minnesota 4-0 and Detroit edged California 5-4 in 10 innings.

Jaster, blanking the Dodgers 2 April 25, 2-0 July 3, 4-0 July 29 and 4-0 Aug. 19, hasn't fared as well against other opponents and possesses an unimpressive 4.67 era against the rest of the league.

Don Clendenon slammed his 28th homer of the season in the fourth inning and Steve Blass pitched 4 1-3 innings of shutout relief ball in leading the Pirates to victory in the opener. Manny Mota also drove in a run off Jim Bunning, who had beaten the Pirates five previous times.

Leafs Lack Defence, Still Win

Toronto Maple Leafs downed New York Rangers 2-1 in a National Hockey League exhibition game at Kingston Wednesday night without the services of three veteran defencemen.

The Leafs learned from doctors earlier in the day that Bob Baun and rookie Jim McKenny will miss the next few days of practice.

Baun suffered a broken nose when he fell into goaltender Johnny Bower's stick during a scrimmage at the Leafs training base in Peterborough. It isn't known how long he'll be out.

McKenny had an abscess on his foot lanced and will be off skates three or four days.

The pair joined veteran Allan Stanley, out with an injured knee, and Kent Douglas, who will miss two weeks with a shoulder separation.

REDUCED TO THREE

The injuries reduced the Toronto defensive corps momentarily to three but coach Punch Imlach drafted rookie Doug Dunville for Wednesday night's contest. Dunville, trying out with Tulsa Oilers of the Central Professional League, joined Tim Horton, Larry Hillman and Marcel Pronovost.

Also sidelined is forward Brit Selby, who suffered a groin injury Tuesday night in Toronto's 3-1 victory over Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

The Rangers, who earlier in the day announced the signing of defenceman Bob Plager and centre Earl Ingarfield, were without team captain Bobby Nevin for the game. Nevin, in hospital in Kingston with stretched knee ligaments, will be released Friday and can resume skating Saturday.

SCORERS GO WILD

In London, Ont., Boston Bruins went through routine drills but in Montreal, defending Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens went on a scoring binge in practice games. Leo Thiffault from Houston of the CPHL scored four goals, Dave Balon and Yvan Cournoyer three each and Jean Beliveau and Henri Richard two each.

"They've all been scoring goals," said coach Toe Blake, "but none of them seemed interested in backchecking today. It looks as if they had a deal going today: "You let me score and I'll let you have one."

Detroit Red Wings, without Gordie Howe for their first three preseason games, worked out in Detroit for tonight's game against Boston at Hamilton and Saturday's contest in Montreal against the Canadiens.

In tonight's only other game, Chicago Black Hawks take on Portland Buckaroos of the Western Hockey League in Portland, Ore.

TUGMEN WIN PLAYOFF SPOT ON COIN TOSS

Deadlocked after two drawn games with University of Victoria Norsemen, Island Tug moved into the second round of the McGavin Cup soccer tournament on the toss of a coin.

A replay Wednesday of a 2-2 tie game Sunday ended up 1-1 at the end of regulation time. The Tug team captain called the toss and beat the deadlock.

HOLD YOUR HEAD HIGH, HONEY

'Sure Things' Get Surer

By HAL MALONE

They say betting on horses is speculation, but Pils Friday and Red Ensign are demonstrating at Sandown that a bob on their beaks is like having the only beer concession in the Sahara.

You can't lose.

Meeting better horses Wednesday than those he handcuffed by three lengths last Saturday, Pils Friday won the first division of the sixth race by 15 lengths.

This was Pils Friday's sixth win in 20 starts. With three seconds and four thirds he has earned over $6,000. Not bad for a nine-year-old plater.

★ ★ ★

He may well be, but he wasn't the form players' darling Wednesday. They let him go at better than 5-1 and cringed as he came bursting through the stretch to win his third straight.

The victory was doubly appreciated by his new owner Art Andrews. Earlier in the day the B.C. Racing Commission upheld a stewards' decision validating the claim of Red Ensign by Andrews last Friday.

Red Ensign's earnings total more than $5,000. Larson had claimed him for $1,500, the same sum Andrews paid.

This also happened:

● Jockey Maurice Milne miraculously escaped serious injury in a first race spill. In tight quarters on Mill B going into the far turn, Milne suddenly cartwheeled through the air and landed heavily.

Apart from a "terrible headache" and shock he was unscathed. He couldn't recall what happened.

"It's all a total blank," he said.

● Six races required camera scrutiny by the stewards before hanging up the winning numbers.

LADIES' DAY ON FRIDAY

B.C. Jockey Club will admit ladies, with or without escorts, free . . . to the grandstand or clubhouse.

● The stewards objected to the bodychecking of apprentice Robert Leung and reversed the order of finish in the fourth race.

Leung won it with Court Glamor in a stretch duel with Some Royal Flush. But after checking the movies the justice department ruled that Leung had bumped Some Royal Flush, throwing him off stride near the 16th pole.

MUTUEL MURMURS . . . With Milne taken off his mounts, Freddy Finley vaulted ahead in the jockey derby with two winners. Some Royal Flush and Red Ensign . . . Sandy Shields (Seven L and The Mouse) and Ron Arnold (Mister Pistol and Pils Friday) were also prominent . . . The mutuel handle was $99,847, up $1,454.

BREWER'S LAWYER CARRIES THE BALL

WINNIPEG (CP)—Carl Brewer's next step in his bid to regain amateur status—and sign with Canada's national hockey club—will hinge on what happens when his lawyer talks to NHL president Clarence Campbell.

"I'm not sure what my next move will be," the former Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman said Wednesday.

"I will be in contact with my counsel, Alan Eagleson, in due course, probably after he sees Mr. Campbell later this week.

"If this meeting proves unsatisfactory, I would think that we will have to pursue another course of action.

"I hope this entire matter is settled soon as I am anxious to get into uniform for Canada's National team."

Brewer's prepared statement at a press conference followed one by Nationals' coach Jack McLeod, who said:

"We feel certain that with the support of Toronto and Montreal and earlier indications from other NHL teams and their affiliates, the way will soon be made clear for Brewer to join the national team."

Meanwhile McLeod reported that Jack Bownass has been reinstated as an amateur and the 36-year-old defenceman now is skating with the club.

Rain, Course, Close Open For U.S. Pro

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dave Hill of Jackson, Mich., has pulled out of the $100,000 Canadian Open golf championship because of weather and course conditions.

"This kind of damp, cloudy weather gets to me," he said Tuesday. "I don't feel right mentally and I don't like playing under these conditions."

Hill, winner last week of $2,250 when he finished fourth at Everett, Wash., said the Shaughnessy course is a great championship course but "it's too damn wet and too damn long for me."

The 29-year-old golfer was excused from the tournament by the United States Professional Golfers' Association. Phil Rodgers and Mike Souchak also withdrew.

. . . FALL COLLISION

Leafs to Open Hot . . . Or Out Cold

By ERNIE FEDORUK

It was mid-morning in Memorial Arena and throughout the Pacific Time Zone. Victoria Maple Leafs were well into their scrimmage session, and that's when a high stick suddenly parted Sandy Hucul's hair.

Hucul rubbed his forehead for signs of blood, and at the same time looked away to see a player wearing a No. 2 sweater moving along the boards.

"Neil Clark," Hucul noted mentally, then went about his business of warming up for the Western Hockey League season.

A few line shifts later, Hucul noticed the determined Clark speeding in high gear along the boards. Sandy, team captain last season, cut over towards the boards, braced his shoulder, and took aim . . .

Clark made a move to duck in behind a linemate, then cut sharply and changed gears.

Two bodies crashed into the boards.

"Sandy doesn't like to be high-sticked," said Houle. "He missed on that run because Clark made a smart move.

"But it's going to be a long camp, and that's when hockey players are made."

And Houle chuckled again.

The "making" began Wednesday. In addition to the bumping between Clark and Hucul, veteran defenceman Bill Shvetz also started to flex his muscles.

Chevy twice belted Bob Barlow to the ice after the winger zigged when he should have zagged.

Thus, coach Frank Mario has stepped up the scrimmage tempo in preparation for the Leafs' first exhibition game. The first of five pre-season games against WHL opposition will be ticked off Saturday night against San Diego Gulls in Chilliwack.

SANDY HUCUL

ILL HEALTH was reason given for sudden resignation Wednesday of Frank Johnston, B.C. Lions' offensive coach. Club directors reportedly will deal with future of head coach Dave Skrien at meeting tonight.

'View' XI Atop Prep Mountain

The club climbed over Mount Douglas 2-0 Wednesday at Mount View and put themselves two points on top of the league.

Sharing second place are Victoria High, idle Wednesday, and Esquimalt, 2-1 victors over Oak Bay.

Scoring both markers for the Hornets was Ralph Storey, with goalie Harold Cliff, in his first seeason in organized soccer, keeping out the Mount Douglas drives.

CAGETTES 'PLUMB' HAPPY

Tooby's talent, including members of the 1965 junior champions Uvic Vicettes, Sylvia Campbell and Mary Coutts, former captain of the UBC team, Marilyn Rice, and ex-Winnipeg senior "A" hooper, Doreen Lusk, won't find itself in powderpuff company.

Its three mainland competitors are three-time Canadian champion Molsons, UBC, and a strong quintet from Mt. Pleasant Legion.

The Victoria club had its first workout Wednesday. Anyone with backboard ambitions should telephone Mary Coutts at 658-5732.

Esks' Quarter To Wear Cast

EDMONTON (CP) — Quarterback Randy Kerbow of Edmonton Eskimos will have a cast when the Western Football Conference club meets Hamilton Tiger-Cats here in an interlocking game.

Kerbow injured his hand Sept. 19 on the last play of the first half of a 49-21 loss to Ottawa Rough Riders and aggravated it five days later in an 18-18 deadlock with Calgary Stampeders.

BOWLERAMA SWINGS SATURDAY

Just a Good Night...

Did you ever have a yearning to beat a champion?

If you are one of the growing army of guys and gals who hurl bakelite bombs at fivepins or tenpins during the winter months on southern Vancouver Island bowling lanes, Saturday's the day.

That's the starting date for the fourth annual "Bowler of the Week" competition.

Launched three years ago by The Daily Times for the purpose of creating even greater interest in the flourishing pin-busting pastime, the contest will again continue for 27 weeks, not including a two-week recess during the Christmas season.

It will wind up with a flourish next May with a "Bowlerama" that will decide four "Bowlers of the Year."

Everyone who heaves bowling balls down the lanes in league play has a chance to qualify for the championship rolloffs. Each of four rolloff champions will receive a trophy and any rolloff winner who is a daily subscriber to the Times will receive a bonus prize of $100.

Each week of the competition will run from Saturday until the following Friday night. Bowlers registering the top three-game, scratch scores in each of four divisions during regular league play will be named "Bowlers of the Week."

Their scores and pictures will appear in the Times and each will be eligible to compete in the Bowlerama.

Bowlers will again compete in four divisions — women's and men's fivepins, and women's and men's tenpins — at lanes in Greater Victoria, Sidney, Sooke, Duncan, Chemainus, Lake Cowichan and Youbou.

No contestant can win more than one Bowler-of-the Week award in any category. This will make 27 bowlers in each division eligible for each of the four finals.

Should a former winner top a weekly list, the runner-up in that week will qualify for the rolloff and receive the weekly award. In the event of a tie in any week, the bowler with the highest single-game score will be named the winner.

League secretaries will be responsible for submitting high scores to lanes' managers, who, in turn, will forward leading scores to The Time.

* * *

Experts will naturally have the best chances of grabbing bowler-of-the-week awards but results of past competitions have proved almost any league player has a chance of earning a berth in the rolloffs.

There have been some embarassed experts and jubilant novices in each of the past three contests.

Almost every bowler has one or two of those happy nights during a season when everything seems to go right — and that's all it may take to propel you out in front.

In each of the other seasons, several of the city's more talented rollers have failed to make the grade. Some were left on the sidelines each time.

That's the way it will probably be again. Many of the "average" gals and guys of the lanes are going to soar above the stars in weekly competitions.

SAANICH BOYS ASSURED OF ICE TIME

Despite the Victoria Minor Hockey Association's decision to reject non-resident players' applications, Saanich youngsters will have ice time this winter.

Saanich Minor Hockey Association officials have booked prime time at Victoria and Esquimalt arenas for its young puckchasers.

Saanich minor hockey players may register the next two Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. in the Saanich Fire Hall, Vernon Avenue. All boys are to be accompanied by a parent and have a birth certificate.

VITRA Men Capitulate To Speedway

Members of the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association capitulated to the owners of Western Speedway at a meeting Wednesday.

They decided to continue to race at the Speedway despite the owners' decision to allow non-sanctioned racing.

The track syndicate, however, agreed to allow a closed sanction race, Oct. 8, for the VITRA championship.

Next major event at the one-mile track is the Vancouver Island 75-lap championship Saturday at 7 p.m.

Final race of the season will be the Thanksgiving sports and jalopy meet.

Crucial Match On Sunday

Defending champion Vi Sinclair faces medalist Dorothy DeGiralamo Sunday in a match that highlights semifinal activity in the ladies championship at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

11:58—Ritchie vs. Dye; Crawford vs. Fry.
12:09—Harlan vs. Spandler; Smith bye.

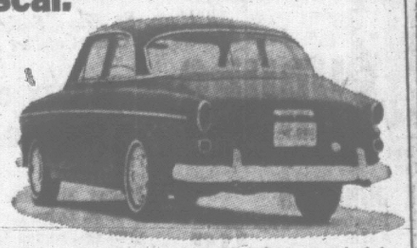
So you've actually got your wife convinced that you save money by trading cars every two or three years.

You rascal.



Why don't you cut that out.

There are cars that will hold up longer than two or three years, as you well know.

A Volvo will hold up quite a bit longer than two or three years.

In Sweden, where there are no speed limits on the highways and over 70,000 miles of unpaved roads, Volvos are driven an average of eleven years.

Keep a Volvo just six years and you'll make out. That'll give you three years to pay for it, three years to put money in the bank after you've paid for it.

A Volvo will give you something else you may never have experienced before: performance and economy. Volvos run away from every other compact in their class... yet deliver over 30 miles to the gallon, even with automatic transmission.

And if you're concerned about having a six year old car sitting in the driveway, don't be. Your neighbors won't notice its age any more than you will. Volvos aren't given a new look every year. So you're not stuck with an older look every year.

Besides, your neighbors won't be wondering why you have a six year old car in the driveway.

KNEE INJURY

United Loses Injured Ball

The Victoria O'Keefe forward, at 20 a three-year veteran of Pacific Coast Soccer League warfare, has been sidelined indefinitely with a knee injury.

Also on the doubtful list is Peter Brett, a newcomer who has been most impressive in Victoria's first two games. Brett twisted a knee in last week's 3-0 victory over Columbus.

Brett's ability to stay in the lineup will depend on how quickly "some stiffness" can be worked out of the ailing limb.

'OTHER ONE' HURTS

Ball has been sidelined for lengthy stretches in the past two years with ligament woes in his left knee. That one was operated upon during the off-season, and seems as sound as ever.

Now, however, it's the right one that is acting up.

JUNIORS DEBUT

While O'Keefe's will be out to extend their unbeaten streak through a third game, Sunday will also mark the day Doug Day's team makes its debut in the Inter-City Junior League.

Red Sox Emphasize Youth By Signing Dick Williams

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox placed added stress on an all - out youth movement by naming 37-year-old Dick Williams manager Wednesday in a bid to regain baseball respectability in the American League.

Williams, a former journeyman utility player in the major leagues, was picked to guide the Red Sox' flock of young prospects after leading Toronto Maple Leafs, Boston's top farm club, to two straight International League playoff victories in his first crack at managing.

Williams, who joined the Boston organization in the twilight of his 13-year playing career, becomes the Red Sox' fifth manager since the team's fortunes began to dwindle in 1959.

After slipping to ninth place in 1965 with a 62-100 record, the worst in Tom Yawkey's 33 years as owner, the Red Sox showed remarkable improvement under Manager Billy Herman this year. However, Herman, 55, was fired abruptly Sept. 9 while working on the second half of a two-year contract.

★ ★ ★

Mentioned prominently as Herman's successor were Ted Williams, Sam Mele, Bill Rigney, Del Crandall, Gene Mauch, Bob Lemon, Jim Hegan, Yogi Berra and others. However, Dick Williams was the top candidate from the moment Yawkey said the Toronto pilot "definitely is being considered."

In two years as manager at Toronto, Williams developed such outstanding prospects as first baseman George Scott, third baseman Joe Foy, catcher Mike Ryan, outfielder Reggie Smith, infielder Mike Andrews and other youngsters. Scott and Foy had fine rookie seasons with the Red Sox this year.

Williams began his major league career with Brooklyn Dodgers in 1951. He later was with Baltimore Orioles, Cleveland Indians, Kansas City Athletics and Houston Colts before being obtained by the Red Sox in 1962.

He played every position except pitcher and catcher.

After hanging up his glove and announcing his goal was "to be a major league manager" in 1964, Williams was named player-coach at Toronto when the Red Sox transferred their farm franchise from Seattle.

Firemen Held by 'Birds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Defending champion Vancouver Firefighters and the UBC Thunderbirds played to a scoreless tie in a Pacific Coast League soccer contest Wednesday.

The single point earned by the tie gave the UBC squad a share of first place in early season standings with Victoria. Each has three points from two games.

Firemen are tied for third place with North Shore and St. Andrews, each with two points.

Neither team was able to mount a sustained attack with play mostly confined to midfield. The shutouts were the first of the season for goalies Ken Pears of the Firefighters and Thunderbirds' Bruce Ballem.

KELLY RETURNS

Zip Off a Couple of Novels a Night

By GLEN ALLEN

Teddy Roosevelt used to read three books a day—novels, history, the whole works.

You can too, says Kenneth Ruff, B.C. director of Reading Dynamics Ltd., in Victoria this week to talk to readers who read maybe a book a month and go to sleep over it at that.

An engaging young-looking man with a mid-west accent and an M.A. in reading problems, Mr. Ruff says you can read 10 times as fast as you do and still understand.

"Most people read about 250 words per minute and have about 75 per cent comprehension," Mr. Ruff told a small crowd of the serious and the not-so-serious at the Empress Hotel Tuesday.

"I can get you up to 2,500."

Mr. Ruff said he reads difficult material at a rate of about 800 words per minute.

"But I can handle novels at 4,000."

An equally engaging lady assistant from Vancouver gave a not-very convincing demonstration, reading the first 13 pages of Ellie Abel's "The Missile Crisis" and paraphrasing its contents for the audience. She took about 3½ minutes.

"Twelve of your Ministers of Parliament have learned it," he said.

Someone in the room asked why, if the method was so good, it wasn't used in the schools.

"It will be," he answered. "They're not ready. After all, they knew about the new math in 1897."

"This thing is catching on. To misquote Victor Hugo—'There's nothing as powerful as an idea whose time has come'."

Mr. Ruff offers eight lessons at $150 for the course, less for family groups.

One man in the audience won a free course in a draw. He said he was going to take the course.

"We refund if you don't read much faster after a few lessons.

PRINCESS MARGRETHE TO MARRY

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Princess Margrethe, 26-year-old heiress to the Danish throne, is to become engaged officially to a French nobleman-diplomat next Wednesday, it was announced Wednesday.

The official announcement that King Frederik's eldest daughter has decided to marry Count Henri de Laborde de Monpezat will be made in the state council.

The 32-year-old Frenchman, third secretary in the London embassy, is a Roman Catholic but plans to become a member of the Danish Lutheran state church. His princess is bound by the constitution to be a Lutheran.

Colors, Styles Run the Gamut in Show

'NO HOLDS BARRED' IN FASHION

For fashions this fall, designers have unashamedly "snitched" colors from poor Jack Frost's palette, raided Mother Nature's year-round stock of hues, and even travelled to Italy to borrow tones from that country's wine industry.

The result appeared in a "Harvest of Fashions," Wednesday evening, at the McPherson Playhouse when the Alumnae Association of the Royal Jubilee Hospital School of Nursing sponsored a show of the latest in autumn styles.

The flame, gold and russet tones of the season were echoed in a pant suit featuring slim-fitting dull gold slacks, topped by a swinging, hip-skimming overblouse in a brilliant print, ruffled at the cuffs and slashed straight across at the neckline.

PANT SUITS 'IN'

Making as dramatic an entrance as Cinderella in her pumpkin, was a model in a pumpkin-toned two-piece ensemble. A sheer shaft of brilliant orange, it was given added drama by a squared neckline filled in by a black turtleneck insert.

Giving an unexpected preview of the movie, "Dr. Zhivago" was a "troika" coat in soft pearl grey, trimmed at the cuffs with "fun fur"— and with similar accents supposedly at the hemline . . . But when the model removed her coat, the fur was on the hemline of the slightly A-line sleeveless dress beneath!

CAPE CAPER

And not to be forgotten was "pow zowie" Batman — whose influence appeared in a floating cloud of chiffon. The deep V-ed back of the dress was caped from the shoulders, forming sleeves to the elbow, and the slightly raised bodice styled with a straight neckline, and skirt were softly fitted.

Imports from sunny Italy drew raves from the audience as models stepped out in suits, dresses and pant suits designed for the more mature figure as well as smaller sizes.

A classically styled sheath dress of rich plum shade was given added interest with self-fabric detail at the scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The simple straight lines were designed to be flattering as well as flattering.

CHECKMATES

Black and white teamed in a three-quarter-length coat and dress ensemble. The black and white check coat, belted in front and free-flowing at back, was faced with white at the wide lapels. Beneath was a dress featuring the same check on the eased skirt, and a bodice of black, extending to a dropped waistline.

The "tent" look appeared throughout the show, belted in front and swinging in back, in a variety of shades and styles, many trimmed with real or fake fur. The same idea, slightly modified was also shown for the "over-35" set.

An exquisite after-five outfit for the matron was a cloud of violet chiffon, which swirled freely to the knees, featuring a "peek-a-boo" idea, both showing and concealing the figure. The moth sleeves glittered with every movement as the spotlight hit the spangled detail.

Full and filmy, or slim and shapely were the evening styles shown in one and two-piece gowns and there was even an after-five outfit featuring culottes.

In charge of the event was Mrs. R. Eldridge and co-convener was Mrs. Phil Roberts.

Modelling the styles from Roma's Ladies' Wear were Sheila Nicholson, Betty Forgie, Laurie Thomas, Barbara Owens, Clementine, Carol Lang, Sybil Bateman, Anne Straith, Betty Benton, Mickie Allum and Jackie Fayad. Commentator was Adele Lewis.

The 70 wives who accompanied their husbands to Victoria to attend the Northwest Public Power Association convention in the Empress Hotel this week found their calendars crowded with numerous social activities planned for them. Tuesday and Wednesday, they attended a coffee party and toured points of interest in Victoria. This afternoon they were entertained at tea in Government House, given by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes. As a wind-up to the three-day meet, they will attend a banquet and dance in the hotel ballroom. Among those attending from out of town are, left to right, Mrs. Keith Woodward, Goldendale, Wash.; Mrs. A. Clifford Tyler, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Bruce Stacy, Tillamook, Ore.; Mrs. Gus Norwood, Vancouver, Wash.; Mrs. Joe Dressel, Goldendale, and Mrs. Louis Benson, White Salmon, Wash.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Engaged Couple Has Lot to Learn

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and my fiance is 20. He is in the navy. When he was home last we became engaged with intentions to marry when he gets his next leave. This meant nearly a year's wait which is a long time for a girl to sit home, so I went out with his best friend. It wasn't anything serious, just a friendly date, so I wrote my fiance and told him about it.

He wrote back saying he didn't want me to date ANYBODY, and if I did, our engagement was off. Well this isn't fair because when he wrote and told me he dated a couple of girls to keep from going nuts, I didn't get mad, so why should he? Where do we stand?

ENGAGED

DEAR ENGAGED: In trouble. Where I come from, when a couple becomes engaged, neither dates others. But since you don't want to "sit home," and he has to go out to "keep from going nuts," don't look now, but that sound you just heard was your engagement cracking up.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and here is my problem. Our school is having a dance and I would like to go but I don't know how to dance. I don't have anybody who can teach me either. I just don't know what to do because at this rate I will never learn, so how do I get started?

JEFF

DEAR JEFF: Since when do you have to know how to dance to go to a school dance? Go anyway, watch the other kids, and do what they do. After shuffling around the floor a while with a girl of your choice, if SHE doesn't offer to give you a few lessons, ask her.

DEAR ABBY: I need a woman's point of view on this. I go with a girl I think a lot of. I am 28 and she is 23. I admit we know each other very well, and we don't try to kid each other about our past romances, but here's the problem. She wants to know ALL about every girl I've ever gone with. I don't ask her about any of the fellows SHE'S gone with. I don't even care. But she has made such a big thing out of this, it's beginning to bug me.

She nags me to tell her things about other girls that are none of her business. She says if I "loved" her I would tell her. I do love her, but I think she's out of line. Or am I?

BUTTONED LIP

DEAR LIP: You're right, and hooray for you! Tell her you never kiss and tell, for which she could consider herself lucky.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "INFORMATION PLEASE?" Each has his own definition of "good mannerrs." This is my favorite:

"Good manners is the art of making those people easy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest people uneasy, is the best bred in the company." (Jonathon Swift).

THE BETTER HALF — By Bob Barnes

There is something planned for people of all ages, Saturday, when St. Patrick's Parish holds a bazaar in the school auditorium, Trent Street. Not only will there be a large variety of stalls, offering everything from white elephants to good clothing, but a tea room is also featured. There will be bingo games—and while Mom and Dad are browsing inside, there will be races and outdoor activities for the "younger set", supervised by the men of the parish. Archbishop H. E. Sexton will officially open the event at 2 p.m. Admiring several of the stuffed "pets" which will be offered for the youngsters are, left to right, co-convener Mrs. A. J. Romano, convener Mrs. F. Fischer and men's convener Mr. W. W. Brown.

To Study Present and Future

Members of Beta Sigma Phi will take an intensive look into the future of the sorority, Saturday, when they gather in the First United Church Fellowship Hall for "Friendship Day".

The objective is to give members a "refresher course" on the aims and purposes of the international sorority and to discuss a broader means of community service. The sessions begin at 9:30 a.m. Guest speaker Miss Elizabeth Forbes will discuss "Parliamentary Procedure," to be followed by buzz sessions.

After a luncheon, Roma's Ladies' Wear will present a preview of fall fashions.

Attending the event, sponsored by the sorority's city council, will be chapter members from all over Vancouver Island and from Port Angeles, Wash. An invitation is also extended to former members.

For further information, contact Mrs. J. Flamank, 477-5059

SHOPPING GUIDE

Lose No Sleep Over Hair Care Treatment

By Penny Saver

"What am I going to do with my hair?" By now this must be one of the most popular phrases in a woman's vocabulary, especially if she is like me. It always seems that on those days that I take special care to set and curl my locks, it goes unnoticed. But wait until the day that I walk into the garden and into the water sprinkler, and I can be certain that something will come up that requires a hairdresser-perfect coiffure. For example, that horrible phrase, "Dear, I'm sorry I couldn't call sooner, but I have an important client who is dropping over for dinner. See you in about 15 minutes?"

Your hair can look perfect every day with the fantastic new way to give a home permanent that I found the other day. It looks so easy—no drip, no mess. It's the push-button permanent that every beauty-conscious woman has been waiting for.

Just push the button on the new container and puffs of waving foam saturate each curl. This can be used with either curlers or rollers to produce a long-lasting wave.

The applicator bottle has double rows of teeth and the surface is about an inch long. This allows the foam to cover each curl evenly, making the permanent so much lovelier.

This should be used with plastic, smooth-surfaced rollers and pins for the best results. Metal curlers, pins or clips may cause discoloration.

Complete instructions that are easy to follow and a bottle of a neutralizing solution come in each package. This complete permanent sells for $2.75.

Another "find" in this store is a special home permanent kit for women with grey or white hair. This produces a soft, natural permanent and contains a special beauty treatment which prevents dryness and dullness. It keeps your wave soft and manageable, sparkling with natural highlights for months.

Make your hair your crowning glory with this home permanent. Give Penny a call at 382-3131 if you want to know where she shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Golf Is Enjoyed as Popular Sport During Fall Season

Golf is as popular among sports as bridge is among card games. Nothing else can quite take the place of either. One of the nicest things about both is that you can play them at any age. Most people have to give up the more strenuous sports as the years accumulate.

Lowman

Many folks who find summer too hot for golf enjoy it tremendously during the glorious fall days. Therefore, my mind turned toward feet and shoes. The kind of shoes you wear when playing can make the greatest difference. With this in mind I turned to Robert A. Eaton who is vice-president of a firm which makes shoes for many professional golfers.

Remember that the average golfer when playing an 18-hole course walks from six to eight miles. Therefore, care of the feet and the proper selection of golf shoes is of primary importance. This will cut down on fatigue and can even insure better play.

Here are some of the things Mr. Eaton told me. Golf shoes are not just walking shoes with spikes. They are as different as day is from night. They are built on a different last that provides more space inside for the great amount of walking. The shoes should fit snugly at the heels to prevent chafing and blisters and still permit plenty of toe freedom. Golf shoes should never have to be "broken in." If they are not comfortable on the first wearing, they do not fit correctly.

Weather-sealed construction is important to keep the feet drier and more comfortable. Vulcanized sole seams dam out moisture. A one-piece cushioned inner sole is a comfort feature. So is a built-in foam rubber pad between the tongue and the lining so the golfer won't feel the shoe laces.

Look for a golf shoe which has the spikes placed close to the edge of the shoe where the pressure is greatest, Mr. Eaton recommends. This offers the golfer far less slipping on the swing, more power and greater accuracy. Centre spikes seem to merely collect mud and grass clippings.

Spikes made of case-hardened steel, with a heavy coating of chrome are excellent because the spikes are not brittle, they will not rust and they will last a long time.

In golf shoes, comfort and style can go hand in hand, or foot by foot. There are saddle shoes, moccasin types and others which come in a variety of colors as well as two-tones.

Now I have helped you with your golf shoes, and your feet shouldn't be uncomfortable, but remember that alternate hot and cold foot baths are very refreshing after a day on the golf course.

If you have any foot weakness, you may want to try my exercises for the feet. If so send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Soldiers Told Shoot to Kill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Negro rioters and snipers broke out of control again Wednesday but were put down quickly by national guardsmen with "shoot to kill' orders.

The temperature hit 95 degrees as 1,200 guardsmen helped police to patrol Negro district streets. Another 1,300 stood by in the city and still another 2,000 were posted in suburban areas.

Lt.-Col. Harland Smith, their commander, told guardsmen: "If you are attacked or fired upon, shoot to kill. Don't fire over anybody's head." About 75 per cent of his heavily armed men had helped put down racial rioting a year ago in the Watts area of Los Angeles.

They immediately moved against tense knots of young Negroes in the streets. All right, this is it—move. Now!" they ordered.

Mayor John Shelley and Gov. Edmund Brown declared a state of emergency and imposed a curfew Tuesday when the first rioting followed the killing of a Negro youth by a white policeman. The patrolman, Alvin Johnson, said the youth, Matthew Johnson, 16, fled from a stolen car and refused to halt despite warning shots.

CALLED FOR HELP

Police controlled the Tuesday rioting after guardsmen moved into the city armories. They called for help Wednesday as gun-sniping, rioting, arson, lootings, beatings and brick throwing continued in the Hunters Point-Bayview area in the city's southeast corner and in the Fillmore district, five miles to the northwest.

Police said 42 persons were injured Wednesday, including three policemen.

More than 80 persons were arrested and many stores, including several selling liquor, were looted.

More than 20 police cars; two California highway patrol cars, eight fire department vehicles and two buses were damaged.

As guardsmen sealed off the Negro districts, forcing everyone from the streets, police patrols concentrated on nearby areas against hit-and-run attacks by Negro youths in cars.

Police Killing Blamed

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A crowd roamed the streets in downtown St. Louis Wednesday night, throwing objects at cars and store windows after a demonstration at police headquarters.

Police estimated the mob at 100 persons, and said most were Negro youths. They were dispersed. Several car and store windows were shattered. A fireman was struck on the chin by a rock.

It was the fourth straight night of demonstrations by small crowds in St. Louis. Picketing of police headquarters began Sunday night in protest of the fatal shooting during the weekend of a Negro youth, Russell Hayes, 24.

A detective shot him while he was in custody. Police said Hayes threatened officers, and bolted while being taken to headquarters for questioning in a holdup.

Earlier Wednesday, demonstrators interrupted an inquest in which the city coroner ruled the shooting justifiable homicide. The inquest was delayed an hour when demonstrators refused to leave.

The demonstration in front of police headquarters followed. After a half hour, officers said, the marchers began dispersing.

Ensigns Take Over U.S. Navy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy has a critical shortage of experienced officers for surface ships and is looking for ways to interest them to stay in uniform longer, officials said today.

Naval statistics show that the over-all retention rate among officers has fallen to a low of 38.7 per cent, meaning barely one in three officers decides to stay on in the service.

As a result, there is a shortage of 4,500 officers—about 43 per cent — among the commander, lieutenant - commander and lieutenant ranks of the submarine and surface services.

To make up for this shortage, the navy has about 2,500 more ensigns than authorized serving at sea.

"The navy may be sailing at full strength quantitatively, but qualitatively most assuredly not," one naval officer said. "We just don't have enough experience aboard destroyers, cruisers and minesweepers."

The navy is considering a series of retention-boosting plans, including proposals that would provide for added sea pay, on the - job educational programs and more opportunities for family life.

Judge Delays Trial Decision

Judgment has been reserved to Friday in the trial of Samuel Semple, 66 View Royal, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of dangerous driving.

Semple was driver of a car in a collision on Four Mile Hill Aug. 20. The driver of the other car, Murdo Gillies, died following the accident.

Thursday in traffic court Semple testified the Gillies' car came into his lane as he was about to make a left turn, colliding with him.

In Wednesday's evidence, Dr. E. L. McNiven who examined Semple two hours after the accident said he found Semple under the influence of alcohol, but in a condition to drive safely at the time of examination.

Rathie Joins UBCM Critics

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Bill Rathie told city council the municipal affairs minister's attitude is that the Union of B.C. Municipalities is largely wasting its time.

Mr. Rathie was referring to last week'es UBCM convention in Penticton where Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell presented 19 proposed amendments to the Municipal Act. The convention endorsed 15 of them.

Mr. Campbell announced that the amendments would be placed before electors at meetings throughout the province this fall.

The mayor said that if Mr. Campbell respected the effectiveness of the UBCM he would have accepted its direction on the proposed amendments.

OWNER MAY FACE CANADA-U.S. CHARGES

Crown Impounds 40,000-lb. Halibut Catch

VANCOUVER (CP) — The fishing boat Misty Moon, skippered by owner Elmer Norman arrived in port Wednesday from Alaska and had her cargo of more than 40,000 pounds of halibut impounded by the crown.

The vessel was seized by U.S. Coast Guard Sept. 16 near Carlisle Island in the Aleutians and escorted to Sand Point, Alaska.

It is alleged she was fishing in American territorial waters, and in violation of the international convention closing the halibut season in the area on Sept. 10.

Mr. Norman was arraigned in court at Sand Point on a charge of violating U.S. waters. He was ordered to appear in U.S. district court in Anchorage at a future date and released on $10,000 bail. He was also ordered to sell 4,000 pounds of halibut, representing the vesel's catch on the night of Sept. 16 and deliver the proceeds to a U.S. officer.

The Canadian fisheries department is preparing to lay charges against the vessel and her eight-man crew for fishing for halibut out of season, said W. R. Hourston, area director of fisheries.

Mr. Norman said he expects to plead not guilty to any charges against him.

'SEARCH FOR SOLUTION'

Labor Warned: Avoid Strikes

OTTAWA (CP)—One of the senior statesmen of the Canadian labor movement warned union leaders Wednesday that they soon may face "a fairly stiff demand" for some method of avoiding strikes that injure the public interest.

Dr. Eugene Forsey, 62, told a Canadian Labor Congress conference on labor law that many "reasonably decent and sympathetic people" are becoming worried about what has been happening in certain key industries.

Stressing that he was speaking personally and not in his official role as CLC research director, he said labor must face up to this issue and search for a solution or find itself saddled with new labor legislation "formed by our enemies."

It was not enough to say merely that unions oppose compulsory arbitration of disputes. Labor must put forward alternatives designed to do as little harm as possible to the economic strength of workers.

The railways were a prime example of the situation.

"I have been convinced for some years that no government will allow a railway strike to last more than a few days," he said. It was practically certain that some continuing form of compulsory arbitration would be devised for rail disputes.

WOULD LIKE MORE DATA

Dr. Forsey said he would like to know a good deal more about how compulsory arbitration works in specific industries in Australia. The labor movement there had been able to live with this kind of legislation.

Some of the 125 union leaders in the audience appeared a little startled when he said it has become apparent that some union officers are no longer in a position to speak for their members.

He cited the incident during the recent railway strike in which leaders had difficulty persuading members to continue essential ferry services to Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Earlier, David Lewis, deputy leader of the New Democratic Party, said there have been "vague but disturbing" references to compulsory arbitration in recent statements by Prime Minister Pearson and Labor Minister Nicholson.

But he argued that the increase in major strikes this year is no cause for public alarm.

"They have, on the whole, been the result of the general prosperity, the very large increase in corporate profits over the last few years, and dangerous rise in the cost of living," Mr. Lewis, MP for York South, said.

"We should not be panicked into abridging freedom for all workers" through the imposition of compulsory arbitration.

Thomson To Expand News Empire

LONDON (UPI) — Lord Thomson of Fleet, Canadian-born newspaper magnate, announced today he is launching two new evening newspapers as part of a major extension of his $176.4 million publishing empire in Britain.

The new Evening Post and the Evening Echo will start rolling off the presses for the Luton and Watford areas respectively next spring at a cost of about $5.6 million, Thomson said. They invade one edge of the circulation territory covered by the two big London evening newspapers.

LOCAL NEWS

Thomson started up another evening paper with a strong bias for local news last year at Reading, also near London. He said he planned perhaps to make it up to a dozen new ones in years to come, in the Midlands and the north as well as the London area.

Local evening papers were "a sound principle," he said. "I have seen it work out many times before in Canada and the United States. It will work here."

He said his company was prepared to lose money while they set up new papers and got them on their feet.

Queen to Be 'Drummed Out' of Town

Even if it kills them.

To bring home the national crown besides being beautiful, she has to show some showbiz talent.

"But we can't send her down there with just one drum," said a perplexed Junior Chamber president Grant Johnstone today.

"She'll have to have a full set. Cymbals and all. Which she doesn't have."

Jaycees will be happy to rent a set from some vacationing drummer (or even happier to borrow) for about three weeks.

'THIS IS CHARLIE BISHOP CALLING'

First Reporter-Senator Dies at 89

OTTAWA (CP) — Charles L. (Charlie) Bishop, 89, the first working reporter to be named to the Senate, died in hospital Wednesday afternoon. He was the oldest active senator.

A reporter on Parliament Hill right to the time of his appointment and a bit beyond, Senator Bishop maintained a lively interest in day-to-day political events.

His familiar "this is Charlie Bishop calling" was a frequent signal to Press Gallery news desks that their former colleague was following the latest, fast-breaking story on a minute-to-minute basis.

He scooped his parliamentary Press Gallery colleagues on his appointment, but only just. He had gone home to supper after a day which included covering a prime ministerial press conference.

His caller was Mackenzie King and the then prime minister informed him of his appointment. He managed to get the news to his editors just before the other reporters learned of it.

Characteristically, he said of his appointment April 18, 1945: "I appreciate this honor fully as much as an honor to the parliamentary Press Gallery as to myself."

His reporting career on the Hill spanned nearly 50 years, beginning in 1898, for the Ottawa Citizen. He was subsequently correspondent for the Southam newspapers. At the time of his appointment to the Senate he was chief of the Southam bureau here. He retired as an active reporter a month after becoming a senator.

His period on the Hill included brief service as private secretary to Hon. W. S. Fielding, finance minister in the Laurier government, in 1896.

Looking back on his years as a reporter, Senator Bishop once said about the 9 a.m.-to-midnight round: "I had a bellyful." But he quickly added "they were good years."

He wrote his first story for the Digby, N.S., Courier before the turn of the century.

Born in Bear River, N.S., on the Bay of Fundy, he was educated at Horton Academy and Acadia University at Wolfville, N.S.

As a reporter, he wrote for many newspapers besides the Ottawa Citizen. They included the Montreal Star, Winnipeg Tribune, Hamilton Spectator, Calgary Herald, Edmonton Journal, Vancouver Province, London Free Press and Toronto Telegram.

CRUSADE PROMPTED SURRENDER

CALGARY (CP) — Beverley Gail Harding, 21, attended the Leighton Ford evangelistic crusade Tuesday night, then went to police headquarters and surrendered.

Police said Miss Harding reported she and another woman escaped three weeks ago from the Oakalla prison farm. The other woman was captured earlier.

Miss Harding said she had been staying with friends here after escaping while serving a sentence on a drug conviction.

200 AT MEETING

Indians Continue Fight for Homes

The second mass meeting of band members in a month was held Wednesday night and more than 200 Indians attended.

Abraham Joe, chairman of the grievance committee, won uanimous support for a protest brief being sent to Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, and J. V. Boyes, Indian Affairs Commissioner for B.C.

'CRASH' PROGRAM

The brief demands a greater allocation for new houses for Cowichan reserve. A federal "crash" program for the next five years gives Cowichan only four houses.

Mr. Joe said there is immediate need for 40 new houses.

Mr. Boyes is to be invited to tour Cowichan reservations Sunday, Oct. 16 and to address a general meeting of the band.

Wednesday's mass meeting endorsed the grievance committee action in canvassing the reserve for funds to charter buses to take members to Vancouver for the Dec. 2 protest March.

WANT ACTION

Mr. Joe said: "We don't want to have to stage the march but will if we don't get action before then."

A Cowichan petition has the support of Chemainus Bay and Kuper Island Indians.

Mr. Joe took the petition to North Cowichan council Wednesday and got individual councillors to sign it.

He said a large number of non-Indians have voluntarily signed the petition.

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal council may spend $3,000 to allow Casper Joe to cultivate 77 acres of Indian reserve land.

Because of a too high municipal culvert on Khenipsen Road, the acreage is flooded most of the time.

Abraham Joe argued his father's case before the council Wednesday afternoon. He said if the water was controlled the land could be cultivated and used to raise cattle.

Coun. George Whittaker, public works chairman, said the municipal culvert was set inside the old Indian-built culvert 15 years ago.

To give the land the protection it perhaps had 50 years ago would require facing of the dike with clay and installation of a culvert with a sluice gate at the lower level. This would cost $3,000.

Mr. Joe asked: "Is the council trying to get out of its responsibility? It took over Khenipsen Road."

Councillor Criticizes UBCM Meet

NORTH COWICHAN — Too many of the resolutions at the UBCM convention last week were a case of municipalites going cap in hand to the senior governments for more money.

This opinion was expressed Wednesday by Coun. John Cannon, North Cowichan.

The UBCM executive rejected the resolution but Mr. Cannon succeeded in getting it referred back for study and report to next year's meeting.

He said Wednesday: "It was one of the few resolutions which called for increasing efficiency in local government.

"There is a fefinite need for increased financial aid to municipalities from the senior levels of government, but the executive was weak in not accepting my resolution."

Mr. Cannon said the unanimous support for referring it back indicated a concern among delegates that local government should be more efficient.

He said: "Perhaps the answer is in more amalgamation."

Mr. Cannon is a staunch advocate of amalgamation of North Cowichand the city of Duncan.

SEARCH CALLED OFF FOR COLWOOD HUNTERS

NITINAT LAKE — The search for four Colwood men believed drowned here last Sunday has been called off by Lake Cowichan RCMP.

Cpl. Scott Coxen said it was impossible to drag the 700-foot deep lake because of tidal shift and a surface search had not uncovered any bodies. Pacific tides wash through a narrow channel at the head of the lake.

Council Stung, But No Action

MAPLE BAY—Juli Porter is maintaining her fight to stop the municipal council cutting down pear trees at the Maple Bay public beach.

Wednesday she once again stalled council action.

The reprieved trees are blamed for harboring bees which all summer long stung many of the children and adults who used the park.

Mrs. Porter said it would be a "great shame" to cut down the 60-year-old trees which afford shade. She said: "They are a beautiful shoreline decoration."

Coun. Gerry Smith asked council to stick to its guns and have the trees cut down. He said Mrs. Porter would agree if she too had been besieged by phone about youngsters stung by bees.

Mr. Smith said council had been dickering on this question for years but having now made a decision should stick to it.

Coun. George Whittaker said he understood there is a spray available which would stop the pear trees blossoming and bearing fruit. This would keep the bees away and retain the trees.

The rest of council were unmoved by this plea, but agreed to let Coun. Dennis Hogan, parks chairman, take yet another look at the situation.

Sooke Feeling Pinch

Sooke merchants are beginning to feel the pinch with 10 per cent of the area wage earners out of work and out of money as a result of the Cowichan Copper Mine closure.

Chamber of Commerce president John Slemko says the 100 families affected by the closure have been without income for the past two weeks.

"Another thing which is hurting us is that the logging companies have slowed production because of the export situation.

"Most of us in business here are beginning to feel the pinch, particularly grocery stores, hardwares, barber shops and beauty parlors."

Mr. Slemko said some of the families have already moved away and others are making plans to move.

Neighborly Act Saves Parkland

NORTH COWICHAN — A neighborly act Wednesday saved this area five acres of land for recreational development.

The land adjoining Pioneer Park was offered jointly to the municipal and city of Duncan councils and Cowichan Exhibition Board.

The price was $35,000, and the option expires Sept. 30.

Cowichan Exhibition Board put up $5,000 and asked the councils to share the balance.

It appeared as if the land would be lost by default when Duncan council decided it would have to seek the voters' consent to spend money outside its boundary.

This was where N. Cowichan stepped in. At Reeve Donald Morton's suggestion council agreed to pay the full $30,000 to complete the purchase.

And the city will pay its share if and when it can.

FISHERMAN FINED FOR HAVING COHO

ALERT BAY—George Iverson, of Coquitlam, was fined $1,000 in magistrate's court Wednesday and had his net seized on a charge of illegal fishing.

He was found at Port Neville, September 24, with a load of coho salmon aboard his ship 10 days after the official closure of coho net fishing.

NIGGERTOE NOW NKWALA

Governments Drop Undesirable Names

Names like Niggertoe Mountain, B.C., Nigger Lake, N.B., and Squaw Creek, Sask., are fast being banned from the Canadian scene.

"They are very undesirable in a modern civilization;" J. P. Drolet, assistant deputy minister of mines and technical surveys in Ottawa, said here Monday.

For that reason, he said, Niggertoe Mountain in the Osoyoos district has been changed to Mount Nkwala, Nigger Lake has become Negro Creek and Squaw Creek is Iskwao Creek.

"These changes are going on in every province of Canada," Mr. Drolet said.

He is in Victoria to attend a meeting of the Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names—a federal body which meets in different provinces every year.

The committee is concerned, not only with modernizing names, but with creating thousands of new names to fit mountains, lakes, rivers, bays and streams all over Canada.

It has given approval to a new B.C. gazeteer to be published here in November. It will contain more than 60,000 place names, of which some 5,000 have been added since 1953.

"One of the committee's rules is that names must be concise, euphonious and in good taste," said Dr. W. K. Fraser, chief of toponymy in the federal department of mines and technical surveys.

"We also insist that personal names shall not be used unless it is in the public interest."

Dr. Fraser said in many cases attempts have been made to advertise a particular product or industrial enterprise in the choice of a new place name.

"Our job is to prevent this," he said. "We are also on the lookout for names which appear discriminatory from the viewpoint of race, color or creed."

During the past year, hundreds of new places in Canada and B.C. have been named after servicemen who gave their lives in the Second World War.

"We find this system works very satisfactorily," said W. R. Young, chief of the geographical division, of the B.C. surveyor-general's department.

"When such a name is used, we immediately notify the next-of-kin and they are usually very happy with the choice."

'PADDLE HOOLIGANS' INVOLVED IN VIOLENCE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ald. Ernie Broome said Monday whippings should be meted out to young offenders involved in acts of vandalism and violence.

"I'd like to see the paddle and strap used on these people," he said.

Ald. Broome said there was a case of a young man who beat up a storekeeper and received a suspended sentence.

"Our police are doing a magnificent job," he said, "but they are hampered by magistrates who pamper these hooligans."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jerry Prosnick, age 13, of Gilbert, Minn., for his question:

What Causes Those Foamy Deposits On Tall Grasses?

A female frog or toad may deposit a gob of foamy-looking stuff in the moist greenery. Close inspection reveals that the clear bubbles are balls of jelly surrounding round, black tadpole eggs. Those air-filled bubbles of frothy foam found on grasses are deposited by insects.

Gobs of this foamy froth can be found clinging to grassy blades of the fields and wayside, among the needles of pine trees and on the leaves of certain shrubs. Most of them appear in the summer, but a few survive through the winter. They are deposited by cercopids of the insect family Cercopidae, named for an agile, tree-hopping monkey of the Old World.

About 30 cercopid insects are native North Americans. Some people call them froghoppers because the adults resemble frisky little tree frogs. Others call them spittlebugs because of their foamy deposits on the greenery. The average adult is a wide, squat bug less than half an inch in length. Two similar pairs of wings are neatly folded to his sides, but he seldom flies. He is an agile jumper who prefers to travel from leaf to leaf in sprightly hops.

The female cercopid lays her eggs in early spring, but they do not hatch until the following spring. She may cover them with a shield of fragile-looking foam that actually is tough enough to survive the winter. The eggs hatch into small, pale, wingless copies of their parents. If you investigate a summery gob of the foam, chances are you will find one or two of these helpless cercopid nymphs inside.

Bubble Protects Insect

The ghostly green creatures sit there completely submerged in their own bubble bath. It screens out the fierce summer sun, hides them from their enemies and raindrops slide off its slippery surface. The newly hatched nymphs create their own bubble baths. A gummy substance is made by glands in the seventh and eighth segments of the abdomen, a thin liquid comes from an opening near the tail and air comes from under the hard, abdomen skin. The three substances are squirted out at the same time and mix together to form the mass of frothy foam.

Cercopids are sippers and suckers with jointed beaks to take sap and juices from their favorite plants. They tend to weaken the grasses, clover, shrubs and other plants of their choice. Some cercopids select evergreens and harm growing pine trees by stealing their juicy sap.

The Cercopidae family is a subdivision of the Homoptera order of insects. The order name refers to the two similar pairs of wings that most, but not all, of these insects have. One family includes the camouflaked leafhoppers, ranging from modest little leapers of brown to gaudy fellows striped with reds and purples. Some look like leafy green tents. Aphids and scale insects are also sap-sipping cousins of the frog-hopping spittlebugs.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Janet Pribilski, age 12, of Houston, Tex., for her question:

What makes water hard?

All water, of course, is a wet liquid, and liquids become hard only when they freeze solid. But when we speak of hard water, we are not talking about ice. We mean that our water supply is hard to use for washing hands and faces, for taking baths and doing the laundry. This is because it has dissolved chemicals that refuse to form foamy lather with soaps and detergents.

These chemicals are dissolved in fragments too fine to be seen. But they mix with the soap to form grimy scum, and boiling water makes them form a hard crust inside the kettle. They are mostly limy calciums. The water dissolved them from the rocks and river beds on its way to the reservoir.

Woman Plans New Bid For School

A kindergarten owner said Wednesday she will make a fresh application for rezoning to Saanich.

"I am not satisfied with things as they stand," said Mrs. M. I. Aaston. "I am not going to give up."

At a public hearing Monday, council voted 5-to-4 to reject her bid for a grade school and kindergarten from her home at 305 Cadillac Avenue for 15 kindergarten children and 15 grade school children.

Despite figures given the hearing on minimum space required, she said she has more than enough square footage to meet regulations.

She also said she needs only two teachers for the planned expansion and not three.

(The provincial regulations state that where all children are five or more there shall be one supervisor for every 20 children

SEPTIC TANK

(Where some are under five, there shall be one supervisor for the first 15 children and one additional supervisor for every 10 children above this number).

At the hearing, only one member of the public was opposed because of septic tank effluent draining onto his lower property.

Ferries Reduce Daily Sailings For Winter

While B.C. Ferries are already running on winter schedule, Washington State Ferries will revert to winter times Oct. 1.

The new schedule will mean one sailing daily from Sidney at 1 p.m., arriving Anacortes 4:30 and in the reverse direction leaving Anacortes at 9:15 a.m., arriving Sidney 12:45 p.m.

The summer schedule will not be back in operation until next June 15.

B.C. Ferries will maintain an hourly schedule on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m.

But during the rest of the week the ferries leave every two hours between 7 a.m. and 9 p.m.

The Black Ball Ferry service between Victoria and Port Angeles has also gone to winter service. Instead of four there will be two sailings each way every day. The ferry leaves Victoria 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. and Port Angeles 7 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Pilots Pay Tribute To Fallen Allies

A group of Canadian fighter pilots of the Air Force Officers' Association of Vancouver Island, who served in First and Second World Wars, will fly to Seattle Friday.

They will place a wreath on Seattle's war memorial in memory of flyers of the United States Air Force who lost their lives.

VIETNAMESE BAR GIRL . . . . . OLD AT 25 YEARS

Many Thousands of 'How You?' Into Oblivion

A Vietnamese bar girl makes a lot of money by local standards but she is getting old at 25 and has little hope of marriage. The life of one such girl is described in this story by a Canadian Press reporter.

By DOUGLAS AMARON

SAIGON (CP) — Lee is a bar girl who may become a Vietnamese millionaire if she and the war last long enough.

A 25-year-old Chinese with a heart as big as a mint, she is No. 1 girl in a group of about 20 in the bar she frequents. She has made as much as $25 a night on drinks alone which is pretty good going at the 50-cents-a-drink she receives.

Anything under $10 is a bad night.

Some of her friends who have been in the business longer than Lee's seven months have already banked their first 1,000,000 piastres (about $9,250) and she should make it before long.

One of a family of four, Lee lives in Cholon, the Chinese section of Saigon, with her father and mother, both of whom are in poor health and unable to work. Her two brothers are in the army and her sister is a war widow with three young sons and two daughters.

Lee's money from her night work in the bar and day work as a seamstress helps to support her sister's family as well as her parents.

Bar girls are an accepted part of the society of Saigon. Most of them are prettier than average, slim as the chopsticks they teach you to use, dress well on the job, speak a smattering of English, form real attachments for men they see frequently and are extremely jealous.

Lee's bar is in a hotel frequented by Westerners and her first pitch is made in the restaurant where any empty seat beside an unacompanied man is her target.

"How you?" is the usual approach, followed by "Where you from?" "How long you stay?" An unusual pen, or watch or cigarette lighter, a book or magazine the man may be reading then are brought into the conversation.

By this time, Lee usually has wheedled her first 110-piastre glass of Saigon tea, a non-alcoholic herb drink that the girls never finish. That means 55 piastres for Lee and 55 for the hotel.

If the man is receptive, he may be good for two or three drinks and later turn up in the bar where lights are so dim you can't recognize a face across a table and waiters use flashlights when serving drinks and collecting money.

The blackout preserves the anonymity of the men who know, after their first visit, that as soon as they sit down there will be a girl in their lap or at least holding their hand. What progresses after that is up to the man and his pocketbook.

SHE KEEPS MOVING

As No. 1 girl, Lee rarely spends more than 10 minutes at a time with a man before moving on. She finds girls for men as they come in, sits with customers until their "regulars" are free, skips back and forth between bar and restaurant and frequently has three or four Saigon teas going at different tables at the same time.

Most of the girls develop short-lived but intense crushes on some man and frequently they break into tears if he fails to show up. There are near brawls if a girl tries to cut in on a "regular."

The girls work from 4 p.m. until bar closing at 11:30 p.m. seven nights a week. Tfo or three usually share a taxi home and their departure is always a rush because they have to beat a midnight curfew.

Most wear slacks or blouse and skirt to the hotel, then change into long brightly-colored high - neck native dresses or, in a few cases, tight-fitting Western dresses and mini-skirts.

They are reluctant to pose for pictures. One did once and a clipping came back from a United States newspaper. The girl was hurt that her occupation as a bar girl had been recorded in the press.

BUYS JEWELRY

At 25, Lee knows she hasn't much time to make her fortune. There are too many 18- and 19-year-olds waiting for a spot to open up. She buys good jewelry — bracelets, watches, necklaces, rings—and refuses to have anything engraved.

"I may have to sell some day," she says.

After seven months she is fed up with the nightly make-believe. She wants to get out but has nowhere to go. Uneducated, she took a typing course for two weeks hoping she might get a job as a secretary. But she couldn't master the keys and quit.

Lee loves children and buys toys and oranges for youngsters who occasionally stay at the hotel. But she has little hope of marriage for herself. She has tasted the rich life and doesn't fancy the living standards of the only type of Vietnamese likely to ask for her hand.

"Maybe some day American marry me and take me to States," she says. "I cook, do housework, sew, anything for that."

Such things have happened and it is the dream of all the girls, but they all know it is just a dream and behind their smiles and their warmth is the dread of a future that for them holds little hope.

Insurance Firms' Blacklist Scored

VANCOUVER (CP)—Provincial car insurance was demanded Wednesday by the regional convention of the International Woodworkers of America.

Delegates gave unanimous approval to a resolution calling for a government plan after speakers levelled a scathing indictment of private insurance companies.

George McKnight, a Port Alberni delegate, said insurance companies have a blacklist and a person denied insurance by one company is also turned down by others.

Mr. McKnight said he had his insurance cancelled after a dispute over whether his son should drive.

"They sent me a cheque in the mail and said my policy was cancelled," he said.

Mr. McKnight said he went to five or six othen companies and was turned away by all of them after they learned one company had cancelled his policy.

'NAILED TO CROSS'

"It's time we nailed these companies to the cross," he said. "They have a pretty effective blacklist and a system of detection right through the province."

Victoria delegate Jack Groves said insurance companies often cancel policies and refuse to give reasons.

He said they discriminate against Indian drivers.

"If an Indian is convicted of Impairec driving and his insurance company has to pay a claim, they will cancel his insurance."

Another speaker said he knows of one driver who had his insurance cancelled despite the fact he had driven from 1940 to 1965 without an accident.

"The company took the position that he was overdue for an accident," said Wyman Trineer, president of the New Westminster local.

Insurance Ombudsman Proposed

VANCOUVER (CP)—J. L. Kinneard, secretary-manager of the B.C. Automotive Retailers Association, told the Royal Commission on Car Insurance that the superintendent of insurance does not have enough power.

"We believe an informed person should be attached to the department who could give guidance and advice to the public on insurance matters," he said.

Commission counsel Gordon S. Rae asked if he meant there should be a complaints department for the motoring public.

"Something like that," said Mr. Kinneard. "I believe an ombudsman would be helpful."

Visitor Fined For Impairment

A North Vancouver man who pleaded guilty to driving while impaired Sept. 20 was fined $400 Wednesday.

Central court was told Harry Mark lost control of his car while driving along Foul Bay Road, striking a stone wall on the side of the road and carrying on to come to rest on a boulevard.

Magistrate William Ostler also placed the man on a six-month peace bond and restricted his licence to driving during business hours only.

Quebec Groups Urge Caution On Separation

QUEBEC (CP) — Two labor groups and a farmers' organization, all with province-wide membership, announced jointly Wednesday they feel Quebec independence needs study and would be "gratuitous and poorly thought out" if introduced immediately.

Meanwhile, Premier Daniel Johnson announced plans for the drafting of a Quebec constitution without the intervention of the federal government.

A joint statement by the labor and farm groups came in a brief submitted to Mr. Johnson by the Quebec Federation of Labor, the provincial arm of the Canadian Labor Congress; the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions, and the Catholic Farmers' Union.

The QFL and the CNTU usually make statements separately, in line with their long-standing rivalry for the loyalties of Quebec workers.

The brief said the present constitution and federal system should be maintained but with additional features.

MEET REALITY

Canada, the three organizations said, needs a federal system adapted to existing realities. They spoke of a constitutional crisis which, though not a catastrophe, is "a sufficiently serious warning."

They rejected the idea of greater federal power and said the idea of a new constitutional arrangement based on the concept of associate states is not an empty slogan.

The question of independence for Quebec is still hypothetical and not sufficiently analysed or discussed, said the brief.

"In the perspective of immediate action . . . this step, so radical and so little studied, would appear to us to be gratuitous and poorly thought-out."

Mr. Johnson said he will enlarge the mandate of a committee which will pave the way for a new Quebec constitution "so that it will be able to attack the problem of the constituent assembly."

The assembly, a Union Nationale election promise, will establish a constitution for the province of Quebec without the intervention of the federal government, Mr. Johnson said.

Its decisions would be submitted to a province-wide referendum.

The labor and farmers groups submitted another brief to the premier Wednesday asking the Quebec government to create a universal, compulsory and public health insurance scheme as quickly as possible.

Second Apollo Crew Announced

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A veteran of two space trips and a pair of newcomers have been picked to fly the second three-man Apollo mission in the U.S. drive to land men on the moon by 1969.

Crew for the flight to last up to 14 days in earth orbit are Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and R. Walter Cunningham, one of the civilian spacemen.

Their trip, scheduled for next spring, will be the second in the series of practice missions in the roomy Apollo spaceship, like the one to some day carry men on a lunar landing mission.

The first three-man voyage, also to last up to two weeks, currently is set for mid-December. The pilots are Air Force Lt.-Col. Virgil I. Grissom, Lt.-Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lieut. Roger B. Chaffee.

The two missions will be similar in that both will have the tasks of giving the Apollo vehicle a good work-out, testing its suitability for taking men on long flights in space. At the same time, the astronauts will practice some of the techniques to be used for the moon journey.

IWA CONVENTION

B.C. Unionists Look to South

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America is considering a plan to develop international negotiating teams to keep pace with company expansion across the Canada-U.S. border.

Ron Roley, international second vice-president, told the union convention here Wednesday: "We should field negotiating teams to ensure that when we negotiate with MacMillan, Bloedel Ltd. in Pine Hill, Alabama, there can be representatives from B.C. across the table."

He said expansion of corporations into the U.S. Midwest and South is becoming a threat to the security of IWA members in the heavily unionized areas of the Pacific Northwest and B.C.

He said there are more than 20 operations in new low wage areas now producing pine plywood, which is going to the same markets as B.C. plywood.

"This international union, along with the regional council involved, is going to have to put forth every effort to organize these workers," he said.

The union passed a resolution calling for redoubled opposition by the B.C. Federation of Labor and the New Democratic Party to the provincial government policy of allowing industrial activity in provincial parks.

The resolution said: "The provincial government has not paid any attention to the briefs submitted to them by various labor organizations and rod and gun clubs concerning logging and mining in provincial parks. It appears there is more effective pressure being put on the government by the big businesses and their greed for profit. We condemn the provincial government for yielding to pressure from these exploiters."

THEY CALL IT PSYWAR

S. Viets Scatter Leaflets on North

SAIGON (Reuters) — The South Vietnamese government is intensifying its psychological warfare campaign against North Viet Nam, mainly by littering the country with some 40,000,000 leaflets a month.

The campaign, known as Psywar for short, is financed and directed by the United States. Senior U.S. officials in Saigon believe that it is beginning to have an effect on the morale of the North Vietnamese.

North Vietnamese radio and newspapers carry full reports of meetings held all over the country condemning the United States for dropping the leaflets. Officials here say that the North Vietnamese are being told that the leaflets are poisoned and warned not to pick them up.

Most of the leaflets stress the futility of the war and ask families to urge their conscripted relatives to defect once they come south. They also tell the North Vietnamese that it is Hanoi, not Washington, which refuses to negotiate an end to the "fratricidal war."

Since the leaflet drops began two years ago, more than 350,000,000 leaflets have been dropped over North Viet Nam.

American officials quote captured and defected North Vietnamese soldiers as saying that the leaflets helped them to decide to surrender.

FORD MAN:

Cars Made To Crumple For Safety'

TORONTO (CP)—A Ford Motor Co. safety engineer says cars are deliberately made to crumble easily to east the shock of collisions for passengers.

Dr. John Versace of Dearborn, Mich. told 600 doctors at the College of General Practice annual convention Wednesday that cars are made "to attain a sort of folding effect" to cushion shock.

In another speech, Dr. Morton Shulman, chief coroner for Toronto, said a four-year study done by his office revealed that the Volkswagen has the worst death-percentage record among the various makes of cars involved in fatal accidents in the city.

"The Volkswagen has stood out every year with its death percentage running at double the rate of its percentage on the road."

His report showed 5.2 per cent of Toronto's cars were Volkswagens. They accounted for 11 per cent of the fatalities.

"The figures confirm previous studies which indicate that smaller cars are more dangerous to drive in than larger models."

Dr. Shulman said the ratio of cars on the road and death percentage for other models were: General Motors 47.1 and 41.8; Ford 22.1 and 17.8; Chrysler 11.1 and 14.1; American Motors 3 and 1.2. Dr. Shulman said the ratio for other makes, excluding Volkswagen, was 11.5 and 14.1.

Dr. Versace said the proposed super-safety car will produce new ways to injure and kill people. "It's inconceivable that you can crash at 30 or 40 miles an hour and get off free."

Dr. Shulman also said Ontario could reduce traffic deaths by half if the legislature passed laws to keep drinking drivers off the road.

Witness Murdered

BOSTON (AP) — Gangland gunfire Wednesday killed a man due to be a prosecution witness in a murder trial, the second witness in the case to meet that fate. John W. Jackson, 47, was ambushed by gunmen early Wednesday in a parking lot behind his apartment building. He recently testified before a Suffolk County grand jury investigating the 1964 slaying of a Boston woman in a downtown restaurant.

Store Founder Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Bernard F. Gimbel, retired chairman of the board of Gimbel Bros. department stores, died early today after a long illness. He was 81.

Court Rejects Freeze

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Labor government today lost the first legal challenge to its voluntary wage-price freeze when a judge ordered payment of a pound-a-week ($2.80) salary increase to an electronics company foreman.

The decision opened the way for hundreds of similar legal challenges — unless the government implemented existing legislation to make the freeze compulsory by law, action it is known loathe to initiate.

Anti-freeze labor leaders hailed the verdict as a critical defeat for the government and a personal slap in the face to Prime Minister Harold Wilson, who viewed the voluntary standstill as the backbone of his 500 million pound ($1.4 billion) deflationary package introduced July 20 to rebuild the economy.

Wilson was meeting with his cabinet on the economic situation when the court decision was announced. Political sources said the ruling might well force the government into declaring the freeze compulsory within the next few days.

Air Strike Delayed

NEW YORK (AP)—The Transport Workers Union (AFL-CIO) announced Wednesday. It was postponing its scheduled strike against American Airlines for 12 hours "in view of progress" made during all night negotiations.

—And Sudden Death

Did you know that car accidents, last year, brought sudden death to almost 5,000 Canadians and injured another 150,000? Each one of those numbers meant HORROR—and unless you're careful your number might be included in this year's figures. The current Reader's Digest features a startling article, "AND SUDDEN DEATH." It's something you should read and it may well save your life. It originally appeared in the Digest thirty-one years ago and it shocked the world with its gory details; but it saved many lives! It's now reprinted by special request. The article will shock you because the facts are revolting. But, if you have the nerve to drive fast and take chances on the highway you ought to have the nerve to read "AND SUDDEN DEATH" in October Reader's Digest — on sale now.

IN UNIFICATION BATTLE

Legion to Observe Firing Lines

The Royal Canadian Legion will play the role of watchdog to unification of the armed forces, Legion national president Ronald MacBeath promised here Tuesday.

"The process must go ahead slowly and every move be debated in full," he said.

Mr. MacBeath was in Victoria as part of a nation-wide tour of the 300,000-member Legion's facilities throughout Canada.

He was a luncheon guest at Government House during the afternoon and spoke to 250 Island Legion delegates at the Trafalgar Branch in the evening.

He said that a letter from Prime Minister Pearson, guaranteeing that no unification moves would be made arbitrarily and that a standing committee of parliament would study all proposals, was a "fair letter."

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Age is never a barrier when the person carrying it has something fruitful to offer.

This was most definitely proven this week in two separate but outstanding performances. The examples turned up on "Where It's At," the ABC Stage 67 revue and "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E."

Stephen

Frank Sinatra? The stance is definitely one he has made famous, but could he tear himself away from home just to appear on a low-budget show? Mama, Mia, was it possible?

Then Delow Jewkes sang September Song with a strong vibrant voice filled with emotion. Throughout, the camera stayed on his face as, through a split-screen process, the producer portrayed beautiful young girl faces next to his.

The comparison in age was striking. In all, a moving moment as the old man sang of past activity while youth sported itself in close proximity.

The other example came through on NBC-TV's The Girl From U.N.C.L.E. Boris Karloff, 78, played the role of an elderly "lady" meany trying to obliterate Napoleon Solo and April Dancer.

Karloff, a horror figure from another picture yet, was almost lovable as he minced his way through the hour with relish.

The old codger seemed to be enjoying himself as much as viewers who took delight in watching a master work! And, believe me, if it weren't for Karloff's appearance in the spy-spoof, "Girl" wouldn't have stood a chance on our set.

These two artists, Delow Jewkes and Boris Karloff, in their own way, showed the young a thing or two.

ALL ROADS LEAD TO ROME
SH-H-H OAK BAY
The designer who planned this 2-yr-old home was surely inspired by the expression that "ALL ROADS LEAD TO ROME" because he had created as the central core of this home a large family room around which the activity of the whole house seems to revolve. HERE ARE A FEW OF THE OTHER FEATURES I KNOW WILL EXCITE YOU:
- The entrance hall with its commanding wall mirror and elegant chandelier beckon you on to more and more beautiful things all planned for practical family living and gracious entertaining.
- An expansive living room — 24x16 — having two fine features: a floor-to-ceiling natural stone fireplace and a bay window obviously positioned to take advantage of the high open outlook.
- A truly intimate "candlelight and wine" dining room dominated by an italian crystal chandelier. Sliding glass doors lead onto a natural slate patio, ideal for formal or informal dining.
- 4 generous bedrooms with oodles of closet and storage space. The master bedroom has its own 4-piece bathroom (no need here to queue up for the bath).
- As well as the bathroom in the master bedroom there are TWO other intelligently planned bathrooms; the family bathroom has 5 pieces with a divisioning door separating the toilet and tub from the twin washbasins. And tucked away conveniently beside the family room and den is another 2-piece bathroom.
- Only a woman could have planned this kitchen; double sinks, portable dishwasher, mono-unit built-in range and oven, budget planning area and breakfast bar.
- A den for Mom and Dad to hide away in AND a big, big, big rumpus room to let the children have all their fun and games.
- Over 2,100 sq. ft. of enjoyable living PLUS the double garage and laundry room.

Castro Lashes Out At Rebels in Party

HAVANA (Reuters)—Premier Fidel Castro Wednesday night warned "servile spirits" within the Cuban regime who oppose an independent approach to communism they will suffer the same fate as counter-revolutionaries if they go too far.

Although Castro did not say to whom he was referring, observers here said he appeared to be attacking old guard Communists in the party hierarchy who prefer a more orthodox Soviet line.

Speaking to a rally of hundreds of thousands of machete-waving Cubans in Havana's Revolution Square, Castro said:

"There are servile spirits, domesticated spirits here—I repeat, here—who take offence when we say "we will make our revolution, the people will make its own revolution," he said.

"They consider this a sort of program a crime . . . a sort of Marxist-Leninist sacrilege . . ."

"Those who do not want us to make our own revolution will have the same fate as the pseudo - revolutionaries or the counter - revolutionaries or the reactionaries, because they sink to making the same criticism as the counter - revolutionaries . . ."

Radical Ousts Moderate

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Lester G. Maddox, a segregationist running a shoestring campaign, has captured the Democratic nomination for governor—upsetting a moderate candidate and Georgia's middle - road racial course.

Maddox, a furniture merchant who quit the cafeteria business rather than serve Negroes, decisively defeated Ellis G. Arnall, a former governor, in Wednesday's primary runoff to pick the party candidate in the November elections.

"God and the people are my campaign managers," said Maddox, 50, after pulling off a major upset without big-money backers or the support of high-ranking politicians.

Green Light For Red Lights

SAIGON (AP) — The Army-People Council of South Viet Nam approved today a woman lawyer's proposal to legalize prostitution, but rejected her suggestion that some of the prostitutes' earnings be set aside to help them start a new life.

The council, an advisory body organized to improve civilian-military relations but without lawmaking powers, approved proposals by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Vui that prostitutes be put in recreation centres.

EIGHT-FOOT MAN STILL GROWING

LONDON (Reuters) — Suleiman Ali Nashnush, a 22-year-old Libyan who is more than eight feet tall, has entered a London hospital in an attempt to prevent enlargement of his hands and feet, it was announced today.

Suleiman, who weighs 392 pounds, is one of the eight tallest men in the world at eight feet ¼ inch. Doctors said continued growth of his hands and feet possibly will result from the hormone responsible for his height.

Colored Cardinal Snubbed

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Laurean Cardinal Rugambwa, the Roman Catholic Church's first Negro cardinal, was once refused a haircut in a barber shop in New York City because of his color, the vatican weekly L'Osservatore Della Domenica reported today.

The report said the incident occurred while the cardinal, who is a Tanzanian and a prince of his Bastia tribe, was still a bishop. He was elevated to the College of Cardinals in March, 1960.

L'Osservatore said it had just learned of the incident and felt it should be told because of "the climate of hate that still poisons several states in America."

It said the prelate entered a barber shop, waited his turn and then was told: "Here we cut only white men's hair."

Bishop Rugambwa froze, then walked out, and "since that day, he recites a prayer every day for that New York barber," the account said.

N. Cowichan May Hire Full-Time Engineer

NORTH COWICHAN — This municipality may have grown sufficiently to justify employing a full-time engineer.

Coun. Gerry Smith had given notice of motion for the October meeting and said he will recommend a salary of $12,500 be allocated in the 1967 budget.

He said: "We have talked about it for four years and in the last two years have passed the buck."

Reeve Morton said Mr. Smith should not get the idea he had succeeded in getting something by hammering away at it.

The reason a full-time appointment had been rejected in previous years was because council did not feel the district was ready.

He said: "We may be at that stage now."

CRITICS TOLD

Anti-Smith Act Perilous Path

By CARMAN CUMMING

OTTAWA (CP)—British legislators have warned Commonwealth colleagues that they may be pushing Britain to dangerous ground with their pressure campaign for action against Rhodesia.

As the 12th Commonwealth parliamentary conference opened Wednesday, three British delegates spoke of possible dangers in the approach the Commonwealth is taking to overturn the breakaway white government.

A succession of speakers from other countries berated the British for not using force against the Ian Smith regime as soon as it declared independence from the Commonwealth late last year. Some called for use of force if necessary to cut down the regime, but there were no demands for immediate military action.

Zambia, the former colony of Northern Rhodesia and the most outspoken advocate of force when Commonwealth leaders met in London earlier this month, is not represented here.

The tone of Wednesday's debate was moderate after Prime Minister Pearson asked in an opening speech that the Rhodesian problem be kept in perspective with other major issues.

ATTACKED BY MP

Some of the sharpest criticism of Prime Minister Wilson came from a member of his own Labor party, William Winter Hamilton, who said the government was guilty of serious misjudgments and miscalculations in dealing with Rhodesia.

But even Mr. Hamilton had a word of caution, saying Britain's internal conditions had to be taken into account in considering tough action against Smith.

He also said he hoped that members would not indulge in any kind of empty gesture such as leaving the Commonwealth.

Two British Conservative members, Nigel Fisher and Sir Stephen McAdden, carried the warnings several steps farther.

Mr. Fisher said use of force against Rhodesia by the British government was not politically possible because it is not acceptable to the British people.

He also believed that the policy of demanding unconditional surrender from Smith would alienate the white moderates in Rhodesia.

FAVOR PROGRESS

Sir Stephen criticized blanket denunciations of the Rhodesian whites. There were many of them who favored progress towards rule by the African majority and the British government should do its best to secure their support.

Sir Stephen said he doubted the wisdom of turning the Rhodesian issue over to the UN, since some UN members who advocate forceful action are not willing to put up the money and manpower to back it.

Britain was also mildly reproached by a New Zealand delegate for staying out of the Viet Nam conflict.

James B. Gordon of the National party said New Zealand troops "engaged in the defence of freedom" in Viet Nam were doing so for the first time without British comrades-in-arms.

Mr. Gordon defended the Australian and New Zealand participation in the Vietnamese war after two members of Australia's Labor party attacked participation as unjustified interference in South Viet Nam's internal affairs.

CIA Boss To Testify At Trial

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A federal court judge ordered Wednesday that the director of the United States Central Intelligence Agency be subpoenaed to testify in the trial of three men—one a Canadian—charged with conspiring to export illegally seven B-26 bombers to Portugal.

Judge John O. Henderson directed the subpoenas be issued for CIA Director Richard Helms and 10 others, including Richard M. Bissell, past deputy director of the CIA.

PART OF DEAL

The government says the seven planes were part of a deal in which 20 of the bombers were to be ferried to Portugal.

Hawke, a former British Royal Air Force pilot now living in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is alleged to have flown the aircraft to Portugal.

Hawke says that he was arrested by federal agents even though the CIA backed the venture. The government has denied this.

WINNIPEG MAN

Hawke said the planes were to be used to quell a Communist-inspired uprising in the Portuguese colonies of Angola and Mozambique.

Also on trial with Hawke are Henri de Montmarin, 58, a Paris businessman acused of ordering the bombers, and Woodrow W. Roderick, 47, a Winnipeg businessman now living in Tucson, Ariz., who is accused of executing the contract.

Bombing Halt Wise Course —Fulbright

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. Senator J. W. Fulbright said today it "would be wise" for the U.S. to stop bombing of North Viet Nam as a gesture of good faith towards ending the Southeast Asia war.

He told the Commonwealth parliamentary conference that he deplored the negative response of North Viet Nam and Moscow to the U.S. offer to scale down the war.

Senator Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, said the proposal by Arthur Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the UN, was given "in a most moderate fashion."

However, the negative response should not be allowed to be the end of the matter.

Since the U.S. is the most powerful participant in the conflict it is the responsibility of the U.S. to continue taking the initiative towards a peace conference, he said.

Senator Fulbright said that "because our opponents are intransigent and rude," it should not deter pursuit of that goal.

SIGH OF RELIEF

4,000 Evade Taxes But It's All Legal

MONTE CARLO—Monaco's 4,000 native citizens heaved a sigh of relief today after the principality's economic council threw out a plan to tax them for the first time.

The economic council Wednesday night unanimously decided against a proposed real estate tax on all private property.

Monaco's local population feared that if the tax was introduced, it would herald more taxation.

For more than 70 years, natives of Monaco have lived tax-free, thanks to the profits of the Societe des Bains de Mer—the company which owns most of the principality's gambling and tourist interests.

The real estate tax measure was reported to be one of several under study by Prince Rainier to scrape up the $10,000,000 to $39,000,000 necessary to secure control of Monaco's economy

POWER BID

Financial control of this half-square-mile of valuable property was in the hands of shipping tycoon Aristotle Onassis who has persistently blocked Rainier's wish to modernize Monaco's tourist industry.

Monday, Onassis dumped on the market the 650,000 shares of 's company which controls the Monte Carlo casino, the luxury hotel de Paris and other choice real estate, challenging Rainier to buy them if he can.

BUY ALL SHARES

The challenge was effectively telling Rainier to put up or shut up since Rainier rammed a bill through the Monaco parliament last June compelling the state to buy any share put on the market.

For Rainier, who has already spent over $8,000,000 to wrest control of the Societe des Bains de Mer company from Onassis, digging up the rest of the money could present a problem, according to observers.

The face value of the 650,000 shares totalled $10.4 million for a price of $16 per share. But Onassis had previously stated he would not sell them for less than $60 a share which would bring the total price to $39,000,000.

Plot in Argentina To Kidnap Philip?

(Times News Services) -

BUENOS AIRES — Argentine extremists fired on the British Ambassador's residence Wednesday night while Prince Philip was visiting and unconfirmed reports circulated of a plot to kidnap the husband of the Queen and demand the Falkland Islands as ransom.

Bullets from automatic weapons, fired by two carloads of gunmen, sprayed the building where Prince Philip is staying for the Argentine Republic's 150th anniversary celebrations.

The gunfire damaged the ground floor of Ambassador Sir Michael Creswell's residence but no one was hurt.

The report of a plot to kidnap Prince Philip and offer to swap him for the British-ruled Falklands came from a local Argentine news agency. British officials said they had no information about the report.

CONTINUES VISIT

A British embassy spokesman, asked about reports that the Prince was preparing to return home, replied: "Certainly not. We are just preparing his program for next week."

Wednesday night's shooting climaxed a day of dramatic moves by extremist nationalists to press Argentina's claim to sovereignty over the lonely Falklands in the South Atlantic 300 miles from the coast of Argentina.

A group of 18 young armed Argentine nationalists seized an airliner with 48 persons

PRINCE PHILIP

aboard Wednesday and forced it to land on a racetrack in the Falkland capital.

The four-engined Argentine DC-4 was stranded on the 3,600-foot racetrack, with one wheel stuck a foot deep and the track apparently too short to permit a safe takeoff with passengers and fuel aboard.

The nationalists were reported holed up in the airliner, while 25 passengers and five crew members were lodged in homes in Port Stanley, the Falkland capital.

EMPHASIZE CLAIMS

The armed nationalists, from the right-wing El Condor organization, seized the plane over the South Atlantic Wednesday to emphasize Argentina's claim to the bleak islands, 300 miles east of Tierra del Fuego.

The nationalists radioed from the plane that they are determined to remain in Port Stanley — "Either we secure our future or we die for the past."

But later reports from Port Stanley said British authorities quickly took control of the situation and there was no violence.

Argentine and British officials had not decided early today how to get the nationalists and other passengers, including three children, back to Buenos Aires. They may come on a British ship which sails Monday on a monthly voyage from Port Stanley to Montevideo, Uruguay, or smaller planes may be sent to get them.

The seizure coincided with the presence in Buenos Aires of Prince Philip who arrived Monday to attend the world horse jumping championships as the guest of Argentina's military president, Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania.

CONDEMNED ACTION

Gen. Ongania strongly condemned the seizure and said those involved would be put on trial.

Prince Philip played polo as scheduled Wednesday, protected by 100 policemen and six patrol cars. Demonstrators supporting Argentina's claim to the Falklands pelted him with eggs during a visit to Buenos Aires in 1962.

The airliner, owned by the Argentine government, was flying from Buenos Aires to Rio Gallegos, 1,700 miles to the south, when it was seized. The plane landed on the

EXCHANGE CRISIS . . . . . SEEN BY ECONOMIST

Wage Hikes Real Culprit

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases are placing new inflationary pressures on the economy at a time when the danger from overspending is subsiding, an economist told the special parliamentary committee on living costs today.

Unless these pressures level off the eventual prospect may be an exchange crisis for Canada and further devaluation of the Canadian dollar, said Prof. Edward Neufeld of the University of Toronto.

He urged the federal government to adopt U.S.-style guidelines on wages and prices, backed by a review board if necessary.

Prices Stable

Prof. Neufeld boldly supported some biting criticisms of present and past government performance under cross-examination by members of the Senate-Commons committee.

Main conclusions:

predictable and possibly inefmore than U.S. prices in recent years, but they are remarkably steady by international standards.

2. Canadian prices can be protected against U.S. price increases only at the cost of increased unemployment and slower economic growth in Canada.

3. Therefore, the rule of thumb should be to keep Canadian prices and costs in line with those of the U.S.

4. Main reasons for the faster increase in Canadian prices compared to U.S. prices have been the devaluation of the Canadian dollar in 1962 and the rapid move in Canada toward full employment and full industrial capacity.

NEUFELD
... biting criticism

5. Recent wage settlements threaten "wage-push" inflation more seriously in Canada than in the U.S.

6. Government action to restrain "cost - push" inflation—such as after-the-fact requests to roll back steel price increases—is an "ill-defined, unpredictable and possibly ineffective" approach to take.

Neither Wins

Prof. Neufeld said it is an economic fact of life that in the long run neither management nor unions can win the struggle to increase their respective share of the wealth generated by production.

Each employs its tactics with great strength. But in the long run the gains balance one another off in higher prices, he said. The consumer ends up the loser. Nobody wins.

The U.S. guidelines had not kept all prices and wages within the stipulated increase. But they had prevented wage settlements of the "incrdible" proportions experienced in Canada.

Prof. Neufeld followed deputy minister R. B. Bryce as the second witness before the committee, which has a special authority from Parliament to investigate the reasons behind the high cost of living.

Wednesday, Mr. Bryce said he did not agree with Senator David A. Croll (L — Ontario) that the main culprits are food growers, processors, wholesalers, distributors and retailers.

Mr. Bryce said rising demand for all types of goods and services as demonstrated by consumer, business and government expenditures, was generally to blame.

Columbia, Peace Must Obey Order—Peterson

Industry Told To Cut Costs On Overtime

By JIM HUME

Premier Benentt Wednesday made his strongest bid to halt spiralling living costs and stave off the threat of a recession in British Columbia's booming economy.

The move, with a veiled "or else" threat carefully noted, was made at a press conference prior to the premier's departure for Europe.

Directed mainly against contractors, manufacturers and other heavy industries the threat was: "Bring an end to industrial overtime voluntarily or the government will pass legislation banning overtime in B.C. at the next sitting of the legislature."

The premier said his action was in response to a federal government plea that all provinces exercise restraint in the face of present inflationary trends.

"If we are going to stop Canada going into a recession there must be a change in attitude on money interest and in the ranks of labor," he said.

More Restraint or Recession

"I asked for restraint to be shown a year ago. If they don't show more restraint there is going to be a recession."

Mr. Bennett said he was too optimistic to think that his plea would go unheeded or that a recession would take place.

"We are not in a recession now, but we are in a pause," he said. "The decision is up to all the people in B.C. We can go into a recession or we can go on to higher prosperity.

"There must be checks and balances. We must show general restraint otherwise the benefits we have gained will be short-lived.

The premier said his ban on overtime would achieve two things.

"It will fulfill the natural yearning of people to work less hours and have more leisure," he said.

It will also, the premier added, create more jobs for the unemployed.

The premier said he had already sent out his order to abolish overtime among the ranks of provincial government employees.

Stop Issuing Overtime Permits

"And I have asked the minister of labor to stop issuing overtime permits and to check closely the permits already issued," he said. "I have also ordered that future contracts signed by the government and contractors carry a no-overtime clause."

Overtime regulations in the province are a complicated field, but basically heavy construction, manufacturing plants and other similar industries require a special permit from the department of labor before they can request employees to work overtime.

The company concerned applies to the department for the permit to work a certain number of overtime hours within a specified time.

It is these permits the premier has ordered withdrawn.

Trade unions and local contractors welcomed the premier's move.

Local contractor George Wheaton said the overtime ban would discourage construction men from heading for remote communities where the promise of overtime and extra dollars is the main prospect.

'FASCINATING VISIT' TO B.C., SAYS RAMSEY

Dr. and Mrs. Ramsey were escorted to their Air Canada jet by the Venerable D. P. Watmey, archdeacon of Vancouver. Dr. Ramsey presented the archdeacon with an autographed portrait as a memento of his visit.

"It was a fascinating visit," Dr. Ramsey said.

He said a highlight was seeing the new Simon Fraser University campus in suburban Burnaby—"a thrilling experience for me."

EXTRA TIME OUT

Premier Bennett said Wednesday all crown corporations would set an example in his drive to fight inflation by cutting overtime.

But B.C. Hydro co-chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside said this morning that the edict will not be observed on the Columbia and Peace River dam construction projects.

The Times transmitted this remark to Premier Bennett's office but was referred to Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

His reply:

"As far as I'm concerned the hydro will have to comply the same as anyone else."

HAVE PERMIT

"They have an overtime permit until the end of the year. We would expect them, in the intervening time, to re-arrange schedules so as to comply with the eight-hour day and the 44-hour week."

Asked whether this means the hydro will continue to work overtime until the end of the year, the minister replied.

The indication that Premier Bennett's no-overtime rule would be broken a few hours after it was announced — and by a government agency — was carried in a Canadian Press story this morning.

OBLIGATION

Dr. Keenleyside said:

"In any of the projects covered by the Columbia River Treaty, we have to live up to an obligation, even if that means overtime."

Dr. Keenleyside said the same thing applies to the Peace River operation. Gordon Shrum, B.C. Hydro co-chairman in charge of the Peace project, was not available for comment.

Armed Negroes Arrested In Area of Royal Visit

GABERONES, Bechuanaland (Reuters) — Seven armed Negroes have been arrested in the Chobe Game Reserve in northern Bechuanaland where Britain's Princess Marina is due to visit this weekend, a government spokesman announced today.

The men, who were arrested Monday, are being held under the immigration laws pending investigation of their motives, he said.

A government official said the arrested men were armed with Chinese and Russian-made weapons. He said they surrendered without a fight.

The princess is due to leave

The men can be held for 14 days under the immigration laws while inquiries are made whether they are prohibited immigrants, the government said.

They are being taken to Francistown, but probably will face trial at Kasane, near where they were arrested, on charges of illegal importation of firearms, illegal possession of firearms and offences against the customs laws.

RUMOR 12 ARRESTED

Earlier, uncomfirmed reports circulated here that two groups of Negroes totalling 12 were arrested near Askance, in the small area where the Bechuanaland, Rhodesia, Zambia, and Southwest African borders all meet.

There was speculation here that the group intended to

Inez Slashes Across Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE (UPI) — Hurricane Inez claimed at least six more lives today, striking into Hispaniola's "Valley of Death" with 160-mile-an-hour winds and 15-foot storm tides.

First reports from the hurricane strike zone reaching Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, listed at least six dead, 15 injured, 200 homes destroyed and 1,000 persons homeless.

It brought to 29 the number of known deaths caused by Inez. The hurricane killed 23 when it hit Guadeloupe Tuesday night, injured at least 500 and left 10,000 persons homeless.

After ravaging Guadeloupe, the hurricane moved across the Caribbean and hit with more powerful intensity at the Barahona Peninsula. Forecasters predicted it would move across Haiti's finger-like Tiburon Peninsula late today and strike extreme eastern Cuba sometime Friday.

All utilities, including lights and water, were reported out in the interior of the Dominican Republic.

Near the town of Haina, 10 miles from Santo Domingo, a ship broke loose from its moorings and sank, but it was not immediately determined whether anyone was aboard.

Military patrols in Santo Domingo itself were doubled as a precaution and armed forces units were assigned to evacuate residents from lowlands.

TERRORISTS 'TRAINED IN ALGERIA'

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP) —Eleven Negro terrorists were each jailed for 18 years by Bulawayo High Court today after one of them admitted they were trained in Algeria and instructed to fight and kill European police, soldiers and farmers in Rhodesia.

The 11, who had surrendered to Rhodesian security forces, pleaded guilty to unlawful possession of offensive weapons. These were stated to include six sub-machine-guns, four carbines, two rifles, large quantities of ammunition, 50 electrical detonators and 24 hand grenades. A police arms expert told the court the arms were mostly of Russian design but many bore Chinese markings.

Crew Escapes Sinking

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) —The 28-man crew of the Greek freighter Eleni K escaped today as the ship broke in two and sank eight miles off Cape Thevenard.

Canada in Key Spot to Bring Major Powers to Peace Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. Senator J. W. Fulbright said today Canada can play an important role in trying to bring the major powers and Hanoi to the conference table over the Viet Nam war.

Mr. Fulbright told a press conference that Canada has better relations with Communist China, entries into areas the U.S. lacks and a right to influence U.S. policy even if the administration dislikes this.

The senator said many Canadians have a more sensible attitude about ideological differences among countries than have many Americans.

It doesn't make sense to say that "this or that ideology should be stamped out."

He said a large country like the United States needs the advice and assistance of smaller powers although the administration dislikes receiving advice in certain instances.

He said his own sympathies were with Prime Minister Pearson when the Canadian leader called for a halt in U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam.

Senator Fulbright said the bomb pause that followed did not work. Another is worth trying now because circumstances are different.

ANOTHER NIGHT OF HATRED AND VIOLENCE

'Murderers': Negroes Taunt Policemen

(See also Page 27)

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — "Oh damn them, anyhow. They've shot a policeman. Let's move out. Let's get the,"

The report was in error. The policeman had actually been struck by a thrown bottle which opened a nasty gash above his eye. But instantly, more than 100 officers jerked to attention in the parking lot that served as an on-the-spot headquarters. They grabbed their guns and moved out at a fast clip.

Three blocks away, hundreds of Negroes, mostly teenagers, were gathered in the street. One of them had apparently thrown the bottle which struck the officer.

Suddenly a fire bomb sailed out of the second-storey window of the Bayview community centre. It shattered at the feet of three policemen and barely escaped the exploding flames.

"Watch it," a burly policeman shouted in my ear, elbowing me to a position of relative safety behind him. "This is going to get rough."

Then it happened. A rifle shot pierced the air and most of us hit the ground. It came from about half-a-block away where a young Negro youth was seen ducking behind a car.

A second shot seemed to come from the second floor of the centre. Another volley by police shattered the windows and apparently scared off the sniper.

Dozens of persons were sprawled on the ground. The acrid stench of the gunsmoke was choking.

Once, when a chunk of plaster from the building hit my leg I thought I'd been hit.

CP PROFIT DECLINES IN AUGUST

MONTREAL (CP) — The CPR reported Wednesday net earnings of $1,170,766 for August, down $1,393,633 from August of 1965.

Railway revenues and expenses for last month were $37,896,977 and $36,726,211, against $41,440,770 and $38,876,371 for August of 1965.

However, CPR net earnings for the first eight months of 1966 were ahead of the corresponding 1955 period. The 1966 figure was $31,437,088, up $6,337,010 from the $25,100,078 earned in the first eight months of 1965.

Food Costs Increase Again

OTTAWA (CP) — An increase of 1.5 per cent during August in wholesale prices for a wide range of foods was reported Tuesday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

An index for animal products increased to 296.7 from 292.2 in July on higher prices for eggs, fresh and cured meats, fishery products, milk and milk products.

The over-all index moved up two-tenths of 1 per cent during the month to 260.4 from 259.9 and was 3.6 per cent higher than the August, 1965, index of 251.4.

P and O Buys Ships

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's biggest shipping line, the P. and O. group, Tuesday announced it will place another $17,000,000 worth of orders with Japan's Mitsui Shipyards, this time for two 176,000-ton tankers. The new contract will bring the company's orders with Japanese yards to about $59,000,000—$34,000,000 with Mitsui.

Rate Hike De-railed By Board

OTTAWA (CP) — A move by the railways that would have the effect of increasing freight charges on export and import goods has been sidetracked, at least temporarily, by the board of transport commissioners.

Responding to protests from shippers and Atlantic ports, the board today said it has decided to hold a public hearing on the railways' proposal.

Freight rates on export-import traffic now absorb a port charge known as "top wharfage." The railways had proposed a new rate schedule under which shippers would pay this charge themselves.

A board spokesman said it was impossible to put an average figure on the cost increase to shippers.

"It's a very complicated issue," he said.

The Canadian National Millers Association and the Maritimes Transportation Commission, which represents shippers and ports in the four Atlantic provinces, has protested the railway plan.

The two groups said it would disturb the present coast relationship between Canadian and U.S. ports, possibly to the detriment of Canadian port traffic.

The board has issued an order suspending the planned Oct. 1 application of the new rate schedule. It will announce later a date for public hearings on the matter.

ACCORDING TO SHARP:

Anti-Inflation Drive Starting to Pay Off

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canadian measures to cool off the economy "only now are having their main effect and they may be more successful than we had hoped." Finance Minister Sharp said Wednesday night.

The fact that the United States held off imposing a tax increase to fight its inflation, coupled with Canada's sharp rise in exports to the U.S. and elsewhere, threw out Canadian calculations made at the start of the year, Sharp told a press conference.

He said Canada had hoped the U.S. would impose a tax increase, a step President Johnson has resisted, relying instead on tight money and other measures.

Sharp was commenting on word that Canada's gross national product for the second quarter had flattened somewhat. Sharp siad he had expected it and "I hope it protends somewhat less pressure."

But the budget measures of last March could not withstand the double impact of rising exports and the continuing U.S. boom.

The minister was ending a visit to the annual meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

He said the government's entire anti-inflation effort, including postponement of medical care insurance and the successful appeal to rescind a steel price increase, seems to have been "extremely well receivd."

GAVE THREE REASONS

There were three main reasons for postponing medical insurance.

It had become plain in working on the 1967-68 budget that whole programs would have to be dropped to make ends meet. It was a question of postponing medical care or the increase in old-age pensions.

Second, medical insurance was vulnerable in the pending federal-provincial conference on tax revenues. If the government argued for economy and limited additional allotments to the less wealthy provinces in tax sharing, some provinces could point to medical insurance as a questionable big addition in expenditures.

Finally, postponing medical insurance was "dramtic evidence of our determination to try to keep the inflation situation under control."

WASHINGTON (CP) — Modest hopes for progress in setting up a new international currency unit or system were expressed Wednesday night by Finance Minister Sharp.

He said France, the main dissenter, is at least willing to talk about the matter in a meeting bringing together the International Monetary Fund and the 10-nation group which has been working on it.

"French gold policy is not in the interest of the world community." Sharp said of the French practice of salting away gold which it obtains by cashing in its American dollars. That has increased the heavy drain on the U.S. gold stocks.

Nobody Told Workers Big Wage Boosts Bad

MONTREAL (CP)—Recent labor unrest and militancy might have been contained if management had explained better the economic situation to employees, said Henri Joly, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

He told association members today that employers must bear part of the blame for not educating workers to the fact that wage increases of 20 or 30 per cent can have a drastic effect on Canada's competitive position in world trade.

"Had we, along with union leaders, done a better job of keeping in touch with rank and file employees and of explaining and listening and understanding, the situation might not have developed quite the way it has."

Mr. Joly said that although many union leaders feel corporation profits are high and have climbed more rapidly than wages, there have been fw specific instances in rent yars of xcessive profits being made in fanufacturing.

Labor income before taxes rose 75 per cent between 1956 and 1965, while corporation profits rose no more than 55 per cent in the same period.

A better industrial climate could be created if the average Canadian could be given this picture instead of being fed misleading figures about the size of corporation profits.

Probers Hunt Culprit In Soaring Expenses

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Are food growers, processors, wholesalers, distributors and retailers the main culprits in the rising cost of living?

The Senate-Commons special committee on living costs heard food prices branded as the culprits at its first meeting Wednesday in a comment by one of its co-chairmen, Senator David A. Croll (L—Ontario).

But R. B. Bryce, deputy minister of finance, said rising demand for all types of goods and services as demonstrated by consumer, business and government expenditures, was generally to blame. The first expert witness called before the committee, he didn't like blaming any segment of the economy as the culprit.

Outside the committee, a prominent Ottawa food wholesaler and distributor, who will be called later as a witness, said he is unable to affix the blame for higher food prices to any element between the farm and the table.

Bertram Loeb, president of M. Loeb Ltd., speaking at a reception for 500 of his firm's suppliers, said introduction of new materials, handling equipment and data processing computers is offsetting some higher costs within his organization.

Working with a profit margin of less than one per cent of sales, Mr. Loeb said his firm faces higher prices paid to suppliers and higher costs of transportation, packaging, and labor. These higher prices had to be passed on to consumers but the firm had not raised its own margin.

PROVIDES STATISTICS

The committee, composed of senators and members of Parliament drawn from all parties, received a bulkyset of statistics Wednesday from Mr. Bryce, analyzing the national economic accounts of Canada since 1949.

They showed, for instance, that while the gross national expenditure — the value of all spending on goods and services in Canada—has risen 7.5 per cent a year, a large part of the increase has been due to increased spending by governments and business. Prices have risen 2.7 per cent a year over the period since 1949, but four per cent in the first half of this year over the first half of last year.

Still, the amount of gross national product spent on wages, salaries, and supplmeentary labor income has been virtually unchanged at 49 to 50 per cent over the whole period.

When asked by Senator Croll about the culprits, Mr. Bryce said spending, representing increased demand for goods and services, has been pervasive through all segments of the economy. This has pulled prices up.

The solution, as he saw it, is to moderate the demand pressures now, until new policies and programs to encourage productivity have taken effect.

He said Canada has to learn to live with prosperity.

'Company Presidents Losing to Experts'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The autonomous power of big business has moved form the hands of a few men of great wealth to groups of men with scientific and technological skills, Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith, a leading U.S. economist, said Wednesday night.

Dr. Galbraith, professor of economics at Harvard University and former adviser to President John F. Kennedy, told a packed audience at the University of British Columbia:

"Power has passed from those who supply capital to those who supply technological skills and experience."

Dr. Galbraith said large corporations today are controlled by committees of experts. The company president, he said, is not longer responsible for making major decisions and delegates most authority to the proper group of experts.

He said the company presidet's major funetion now is to make sure the right committee makes the rifht decision and to ensure the autonomy of individual committees.

"We shall never again know the name of the president of General Motors," Dr. Galbraith said.

'Hellyer's Hoax' Gives Single Men Parity With Married Co-Workers

Hellyer's Hoax was how one Victoria serviceman today described the new armed forces' pay scales.

He was referring to the long awaited upgrading of wages by the defence department announced by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer in Ottawa.

Only people openly happy at the new deal were Victoria's bachelor servicemen who will benefit from the plan to give them equal pay with their married counterparts.

For the average seaman this will make a difference of around $30 a month.

LITTLE HAPPINESS

For the rest, there was little cause for rejoicing.

The proposed 9.8 per cent increase in an average which means that some lower ranks receive only six or seven per cent more.

And under the new set-up, marriage allowance which was formerly untaxable and subsistence allowance which was two-thirds taxed, will now be lumped into the pay packet subject to full tax.

Said one officer after a careful calculation of the new pay scales: "It looks like I'll be getting an extra $14-a-month."

For him that means an actual increase of only six per cent.

ROOM AND BOARD

While the plan also provides for single men to live off base, those living on base will have to pay room and board. Rents for married quarters will also be revised, "in due course."

What the plan will do is provide incentive to five-year men to make a career of the services.

The re-inlistment bonus is out and in its place is a considerable pay raise after the first five years.

Obvious from a quick check of the new rates is that higher ranking officers and men will get the best of the deal — receiving in most cases substantially more than a 9.8 per cent increase.

BACK IN TAXES

But even in their cases, many of the extra dollars will be fed back to the government in the form of taxes.

Of Mr. Hellyer's announcement that the pay raises will cost $63.6 million in the next fiscal year, one officer said:

"I think he should mention that much of that is going to be paid back in taxes."

The new deal allows for another 4 per cent increase next year and the immediate promotion to corporal (the equivalent of a leading seaman) of 14,000 men.

It also calls for a reduction in the number of service trades from 350 to 100 which will mean a possible upgrading for some.

What the plan has done is to remove some of the bones of contention regarding unequal pay for men doing similar jobs.

700 SINGLES

It has also removed the bug of single men receiving less than their married counterparts, although these only amount to just over 10 per cent of the total force—some 700 in Victoria's three services out of a total 5,100.

The general attitude among officers and men at Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt today seemed to be: "Let's wait until payday and see."

Certainly in most cases there was no way of knowing in actual dollars and cents just what the raise would mean, though one private said:

"According to my reckonings I'm going to be $10-a-month out of pocket."

First of the new pay packets will be handed out in mid-October.

Until then, everyone's keeping their fingers crossed.

Negligence Contributed To Car Death

Excessive Speed Cited by Jury

A coroner's jury Wednesday night laid some of the blame for the traffic death of a 68-year-old widow, September 18, on the driver of the car involved.

Mrs. Nancie Wicks, 1638 Quadra, died in St. Joseph's Hospital two days after she was hit by a car as she crossed Blanshard at Fisgard. She suffered multiple fractures in the accident.

The jury ruled that the driver, Gary Anderson of HMCS Mackenzie, was "imprudent in driving at excessive speed in view of the wet weather, amount of street lighting and volume of traffic at the point of the accident.

Evidence suggested his car was moving between 30 and 35 miles an hour in the 30 mile-an-hour zone.

A "small degree" of blame could be attached to inadequate vision through a smeared windshield, said the jury in ruling that negligence was a contributing cause in the death.

80-Years Resident Of City Dies

Mrs. Jeanette Cusack, a member of two well-known Victoria families and a resident of the city for more than 80 years, died Wednesday aged 92.

She was the widow of Thomas R. Cusack, a printer and publisher in early Victoria, and the daughter of William Luney, founder of the contracting firm of Luney Bros., now Luney Bros. and Hamilton Ltd.

Three generations of her family were contractors.

Born in Toronto, she came to Victoria in 1885 and in her younger days was well-known in musical circles in the city.

Mrs. Cusack was a member of the Metropolitan United Church choir for many years, and was one of the earliest members of the Women's Canadian Club here.

She is survived by a daughter Noel at home, 931 Pemberton; a brother Walter Luney, also of Victoria; a sister Mrs. Minnie Davidson of San Diego, Calif.; nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in McCall's main chapel. Rev. Albert King will officiate, and interment will follow in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Driver Sent To Jail In Fatality

The driver of a car which slammed into a tree last June, killing a passenger, was jailed for three months today when sentenced for dangerous driving.

Douglas Morrison, 22, of 1608 North Dairy was also fined $40 when sentenced for careless driving in another accident.

Lee Williams, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Williams of the Goldstream Inn, died 12 hours after Morrison's car slid broadside into the tree on the edge of the Glen Lake Road near the Sooke Road, June 4.

The accident was caused by speed and drink, said Magistrate Byers. Morrison had three previous speeding convictions.

He was barred from driving for six months.

Servants Sound Strike Warning

Militant Members Want Union Status

The provincial government could find itself without a civil service on the opening day of the 1967 session of the Legislature if the militant wing of the British Columbia Government Employees Association has its way.

The association is to hold its annual convention in Vancouver on Friday and Saturday next week.

Buried in the spate of 137 resolutions to be discussed by the 68 convention delegates, including seven from Victoria, in the comfortable surroundings of the Ramada Inn, are a number of expressions of a new militancy among provincial servants, warnings of storms to come.

Sandwiched between resolutions on nepotism and automation is a proposal by the Essondale branch of the association complaining that:

"Year after year resolutions have been submitted to our conventions demanding the return of the dues check-off and the right to collective bargaining, shift differential, overtime for statutory holidays and . . . year after year our employer has refused to recognize these fair conditions which are enjoyed by all in outside industries."

Impatient with the lack of results the resolution would empower the executive to try once more to obtain these concessions, and failing that: "then sufficient time should be allowed prior to the opening day of the Legislature in 1967 for the provincial executive to take a strike vote among the membership and have it concluded (with results) on that opening day."

Hardly more cautious is a resolution submitted by the nearby Vancouver-New Westminster branch declaring that:

"Whereas our employers seem determined to keep provincial civil servants' wages at a low level;

"Therefore be it resolved that the incoming executive of the B.C. Government Employees' Association be instructed to explore means other than petition to increase our wages to parity with others and to prevent our present lowly position from deteriorating further in the face of mounting inflation."

CHECK-OFF SYSTEM

Five other resolutions insist on the return of the check-off system for association dues.

Three other resolutions call for collective bargaining rights for all B.C. government employees and two call for a closed union shop clause in bargaining agreements with the government.

Other resolutions would reduce the voluntary and compulsory retirement ages, increase pensions, lengthen vacations, shorten hours (the Essondale Branch "demands a 34-hour work week") raise wages, increase overtime, and speed up pay cheques.

SEAT BELTS

"Seat belts have not proven 100 per cent effective in preventing injury or loss of life," the resolution notes, and "seat belts have been known to contribute to loss of life due to inability to free oneself," and above all, "can infringe on one's rights by possibly placing his life in some danger in some instances" and therefore provincial employees should not be required to wear them.

Elk Lake's First Teacher At Opening

An 87-year-old former teacher intimately connected with Elk Lake school history will be special guest at the opening of the new Elk Lake Elementary tonight.

Mrs. Gladys Gabb, now a Brentwood resident, was the first teacher at the original school which opened in 1897.

The school was closed in 1914 and torn down later in the First World War.

Several Victorians who attended the original school will also attend tonight's ceremony.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis will officially open the school at Alderley and Cordova Bay Roads, which has been in use since the term's beginning earlier this month.

Built on the cluster plan with a central courtyard, the school was designed to make future additions blend with the present structure. The plan is considered a new concept in school architecture.

Architects were Peterson and Lester, and Patterson Construction Ltd. were contractors for the school.

POOR BOY NOW LORD MAYOR

Modern Dick Whittington

Remember Dick, the legendary poor country boy who tried to make it in the big city and failed? He was cutting out when he heard bells pealing and they seemed to say, "Turn again Whittington, Lord Mayor of London."

So he turned again and sure enough, one day he became Lord Mayor.

Well today in London, they elected a former poor boy who left school at 14 and started life as an office boy.

His name is Sir Robert Bellinger and he is 639th to hold that office. His election today ended a problem for protocol planners here who knew the Lord Mayor was coming but they didn't know what his name would be.

He will be a witness to the 100th anniversary celebration Nov. 20 of the formal union of the Crown Colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia, at Memorial Arena. Various other B.C. functions are also planned to include his presence.

He told newsmen today, "The idea that only the extremely rich can be Lord Mayor is wrong . . . I'm not all that wealthy."

BENNETT ASKS RETURN TO JOBS

Striking PGE Workers to Vote On 'Final Offer' by Province

Striking workers on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway will answer by ballot an appeal Wednesday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett to return to their jobs.

The workers, on strike since Monday, were asked by the premier to return to work "for the good of the province as a whole."

The premier made the plea at a press conference called on the eve of his departure for a two week tour of Bavaria, Switzerland and England.

"I ask them (the striking workers) as the premier of the province to return to work," he said. The premier is also the president of the PGE.

LAST OFFER

The railway has been idle since 400 non-operating employees rejected the company's latest offer.

Mr. Bennett said the offer, equal to the rate increases recently granted workers on Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways, was "the last and final offer of the Pacific Great Eastern."

In addition to increases matching national railway workers the premier said the PGE workers had been offered a wage floor in terms that would ensure than no increase is less than 50 cents an hour for tradesmen and not less than 40 cents an hour for non-tradesmen after two years.

Half of the increase would be retroactive to last January, he said.

FAIR TREATMENT

"I think the government is treating these workers very fairly," he said. "I appeal to them to recognize this and return to work."

A 14-day strike by PGE workers last year cost the railway $1 million in lost revenues.

The present strike, now in its fourth day, is also proving costly to the general economy the premier said. But he added that the government would not intervene.

"No commissioner will be appointed," he said. "We have made our final offer. It is now up to the workers."

Dave Chapman of the Federation of PGE Employees, said in Vancouver today that a new vote would be called so that the workers could make their own decision on Mr. Bennett's plea.

The Federation has been under some criticism from rank and file members who claim the strike was called before some members had a chance to vote.

"In answer to this criticism membership meetings will be held as soon as possible in North Vancouver and Squamish and ballots will be mailed to members in the north," he said.

Asked if he would call in trucking services to provide a temporary link if the railway strike was prolonged Mr. Bennett answered "No, the PGE doesn't own a fleet of freight trucks."

3-NATION SWING 'JUST LOOKING'

Premier W. A. C. Bennett will take a close look at federal government system of Bavaria, West Germany, next week — but not with any ideas of imposing a similar system on the people of B.C.

The Bavarian visit, being made at the invitation of the Bavarian government, is one of three countries to be visited by the premier in his flying trip overseas.

"I'm not going to raise money — we're not raising money in Europe," he said. "It's just to exchange ideas and study the general economy of the world."

Asked whom he would be seeing in Britain Mr. Bennett declined to answer.

"I'm going at their invitation," he said. "I don't think it would be right for me to be talking about the men I'm going to see."

The premier will return to Canada in mid-October in time to receive an honorary doctor of laws degree — his fourth — from the University of New Brunswick, his home province.

ARTHUR MAYSE ON VACATION

UVIC FORUM SPEAKERS

Dissenters Coming Here

So is Sgt. Donald Duncan, the Viet Nam veteran who protested U.S. warfare there.

They are the latest names added to the imposing list of guest speakers at University of Victoria's political science forum.

The announcement was made by Forum president Gordon Pollard, a graduate student at the University. "We are delighted at Mr. Levesque's acceptance," he said.

Mr. Levesque was a key member of the recently-defeated Lesage regime in Quebec and is widely regarded as the leading spokesman for Quebec's Quiet Revolution.

He will address the Forum in mid-January.

Maste. Sgt. Duncan is the Canadian who fought in Viet Nam with the Green Beret special forces group and now campaigns against the American policy in the war.

He is slated to speak on Oct. 20.

The Forum last week played host to James Meredith and Laurier La Pierre and this week will be addressed by Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith, author of The Affluent Society.

Dr. Galbraith will speak in the University gymnasium tonight at 8.

Cash Need Overcomes Royal Exclusiveness

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today launched a pre-Christmas drive to sell rich Americans the same luxury goods the Royal Family buy.

China tableware from the firm which supplied King George III, silver from the Sheffield smiths whom King George V awarded a royal warrant, tea first blended especially for Queen Mary and hair lotion prepared by Princess Margaret's hairdresser are among 200 Christmas gifts offered.

Catalogues emblazoned "á present from Buckingham Palace road" are being sent to more than 300,000 selected American credit-card holders.

The gifts will be flown over in boxes bearing royal crests and fastened with red velvet ribbon and a red seal.

But the Board of Trade approved the new project to bring Britain much-needed dollars.

Disaster Drill . . . Don't Panic

It's going to be a busy night for Saanich civil defence forces.

At 7 p.m. an earthquake is due to hit, knocking out all area telephones.

Shortly thereafter there'll be a landslide at Saanich gravel pit, a major fire on Lambrick Estate, a capsized pleasure craft at Elk Lake and numerous small fires throughout the municipality.

For two-and-a-half hours, the CD will have the job of rescuing trapped persons and restoring order.

Local residents seeing fire engines, food units and divers are reminded it's only an exercise and there's no cause for panic.

Pied Piper Set for Tour To Olympia

Bastion theatre's touring company has been asked by Olympia Junior Programs to take Marge Adelberg's musical The Pied Piper to Olympia, Washington, Nov. 3, 4 and 5.

Last December's touring production of Pinocchio played to 4,500 children in five Olympia performances, with busloads of children from as far away as 45 miles outside the city.

Heavy Metal Space Shield Eliminated

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet space scientists reported today that spaceships can be protected from radiation with an electromagnetic field, ending the limitation on space travel resulting from the weight of the heavy metal shields now used.

"The proposed electrostatic protection is much lighter, with its weight consisting only of the electrodes, insulators and sources of power," said a scientific report distributed by Tass news agency.

The report did not say when the new type of shield would be tested first on animals. The Soviet Union has not put up a manned spaceship since March 18, 1965, when it achieved the first walk in space.

FREE BABYSITTING

Offer Swamps Crystal

The trouble began when Mr. Young advertised women's swim classes. Along with the classed he offered free babysitting.

SITTER' PANIC

"But I never expected anything like this." he said today. Memorial Arena staff had to loan babysitters.

"We were so busy trying to look after the children we hardly had tome to handle the swun classes."

So great was the response he's had to divide the women into three classes on Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Even so, his for instructors will still have between 90 and 100 women per session — and four babysitters will have about and equal number of children to handle.

While the women are doing two hours of keep fit exercises and swimming, the children will play around the pood's perimeter.

AMAZING RESPONSE

"The response is absolutely amazing," said Mr. Young. "We had 289 registrations for the classes and another 60 just turned up. It was utter chaos."

"It's a pretty fair crsoo-section," said Mr. Young, "and it just goes to show the demand there is for this sort of serice."

The classes will run until Dec. 21 and resume after New Year until Mid-June.

FINGERED BY WIDOW

Did James Bond Kill Author Ian Fleming?

NEW YORK (Reuters) — James Bond, "a bit of a bore," probably drove her husband to an early death at 56, Ian Fleming's widow says in a magazine article.

Writing in the October issue of the Ladies' Home Journal, Mrs. Fleming says:

"Sometimes I hated James Bond. Ian should certainly not have written the last book. I implored him to rest. The doctors warned him time and again. It was far too much of a strain for a man who had suffered a bad coronary attack.

". . . He didn't need the money. But with publishers, film-makers, the press and the public all seemingly insatiable, the writing of the next Bond fantasy, and then the next, became a compulsion. Bond was his Frankenstein's monster.

". . . His constitution was unequal to the pace and to the burden of trying to cope with the never-ending demands. No one knew this better than he did. He was an impossible patient, he flatly refused to slow down, even to a normal living pace . . . I suppose it was almost deliberately suicidal."

Plot in Argentina To Kidnap Philip?

(Times News Services) -

BUENOS AIRES — Argentine extremists fired on the British Ambassador's residence Wednesday night while Prince Philip was visiting and unconfirmed reports circulated of a plot to kidnap the husband of the Queen and demand the Falkland Islands as ransom.

Bullets from automatic weapons, fired by two carloads of gunmen, sprayed the building where Prince Philip is staying for the Argentine Republic's 150th anniversary celebrations.

The report of a plot to kidnap Prince Philip and offer to swap him for the British-ruled Falklands came from a local Argentine news agency. British officials said they had no information about the report.

CONTINUES VISIT

A British embassy spokesman, asked about reports that the Prince was preparing to return home, replied: "Certainly not. We are just preparing his program for next week."

Wednesday night's shooting climaxed a day of dramatic moves by extremist nationalists to press Argentina's claim to sovereignty over the lonely Falklands in the South Atlantic 300 miles from the coast of Argentina.

aboard Wednesday and forced it to land on a racetrack in the Falkland capital.

The four-engined Argentine DC-4 was stranded on the 3,600-foot racetrack, with one wheel stuck a foot deep and the track apparently too short to permit a safe takeoff with passengers and fuel aboard.

The nationalists were reported holed up in the airliner, while 25 passengers and five crew members were lodged in homes in Port Stanley, the Falkland capital.

EMPHASIZE CLAIMS

The armed nationalists, from the right-wing El Condor organization, seized the plane over the South Atlantic Wednesday to emphasize Argentina's claim to the bleak islands, 300 miles east of Tierra del Fuego.

"The nationalists radioed from the plane that they are determined to remain in Port Stanley — "Either we secure our future or we die for the past."

But later reports from Port Stanley said British authorities quickly took control of the situation and there was no violence.

Argentine and British officials had not decided early today how to get the nationalists and other passengers, including three children, back to Buenos Aires. They may come on a British ship which sails Monday on a monthly voyage from Port Stanley to Montevideo, Uruguay, or smaller planes may be sent to get them.

The seizure coincided with the presence in Buenos Aires of Prince Philip, who arrived Monday to attend the world horse jumping championships as the guest of Argentina's military president, Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania.

CONDEMNED ACTION

Gen. Ongania strongly condemned the seizure and said those involved would be put on trial.

Prince Philip played polo as scheduled Wednesday, protected by 100 policemen and six patrol cars. Demonstrators supporting Argentina's claim to the Falklands pelted him with eggs during a visit to Buenos Aires in 1962.

The airliner, owned by the Argentine government, was flying from Buenos Aires to Rio Gallegos, 1,700 miles to the south, when it was seized. The plane landed on the

EXCHANGE CRISIS . . . . . . SEEN BY ECONOMIST

Wage Hikes Real Culprit

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases are placing new inflationary pressures on the economy at a time when the danger from overspending is subsiding, an economist told the special parliamentary committee on living costs today.

Unless these pressures level off the eventual prospect may be an exchange crisis for Canada and further devaluation of the Canadian dollar, said Prof. Edward Neufeld of the University of Toronto.

He urged the federal government to adopt U.S.-style guidelines on wages and prices, backed by a review board if necessary.

Prices Stable

Prof. Neufeld boldly supported some biting criticisms of present and past government performance under cross-examination by members of the Senate-Commons committee.

Main conclusions:

1. Canadian prices have risen more than U.S. prices in recent years, but they are remarkably steady by international standards.

2. Canadian prices can be protected against U.S. price increases only at the cost of increased unemployment and slower economic growth in Canada.

3. Therefore, the rule of thumb should be to keep Canadian prices and costs in line with those of the U.S.

4. Main reasons for the faster increase in Canadian prices compared to U.S. prices have been the devaluation of the Canadian dollar in 1962 and the rapid move in Canada toward full employment and full industrial capacity.

NEUFELD
. . . biting criticism

5. Recent wage settlements threaten "wage-push" inflation more seriously in Canada than in the U.S.

6. Government action to restrain "cost - push" inflation—such as after-the-fact requests to roll back steel price increases—is an "ill-defined, unpredictable and possibly ineffective" approach to take.

Neither Wins

Prof. Neufeld said it is an economic fact of life that in the long run neither management nor unions can win the struggle to increase their respective share of the wealth generated by production.

Each employs its tactics with great strength. But in the long run the gains balance one another off in higher prices, he said. The consumer ends up the loser. Nobody wins.

The U.S. guidelines had not kept all prices and wages within the stipulated increase. But they had prevented wage settlements of the "incredible" proportions experienced in Canada.

Prof. Neufeld followed deputy minister R. B. Bryce as the second witness before the committee, which has a special authority from Parliament to investigate the reasons behind the high cost of living.

Wednesday, Mr. Bryce said he did not agree with Senator David A. Croll (L — Ontario) that the main culprits are food growers, processors, wholesalers, distributors and retailers.

Mr. Bryce said rising demand for all types of goods and services as demonstrated by consumer, business and government expenditures, was generally to blame.

Columbia, Peace Must Obey Order—Peterson

Industry Told To Cut Costs On Overtime

By JIM HUME

Premier Bennett Wednesday made his strongest bid to halt spiralling living costs and stave off the threat of a recession in British Columbia's booming economy.

The move, with a veiled "or else" threat carefully noted, was made at a press conference prior to the premier's departure for Europe.

Directed mainly against contractors, manufacturers and other heavy industries the threat was: "Bring an end to industrial overtime voluntarily or the government will pass legislation banning overtime in B.C. at the next sitting of the legislature."

The premier said his action was in response to a federal government plea that all provinces exercise restraint in the face of present inflationary trends.

"If we are going to stop Canada going into a recession there must be a change in attitude on money interest and in the ranks of labor," he said.

More Restraint or Recession

"I asked for restraint to be shown a year ago. If they don't show more restraint there is going to be a recession."

Mr. Bennett said he was too optimistic to think that his plea would go unheeded or that a recession would take place.

"We are not in a recession now, but we are in a pause," he said. "The decision is up to all the people in B.C. We can go into a recession or we can go on to higher prosperity.

"There must be checks and balances. We must show general restraint otherwise the benefits we have gained will be short-lived.

The premier said his ban on overtime would achieve two things.

"It will fulfill the natural yearning of people to work less hours and have more leisure," he said.

It will also, the premier added, create more jobs for the unemployed.

The premier said he had already sent out his order to abolish overtime among the ranks of provincial government employees.

Stop Issuing Overtime Permits

"And I have asked the minister of labor to stop issuing overtime permits and to check closely the permits already issued," he said. "I have also ordered that future contracts signed by the government and contractors carry a no-overtime clause."

Overtime regulations in the province are a complicated field, but basically heavy construction, manufacturing plants and other similar industries require a special permit from the department of labor before they can request employees to work overtime.

The company concerned applies to the department for the permit to work a certain number of overtime hours within a specified time.

It is these permits the premier has ordered withdrawn.

Trade unions and local contractors welcomed the premier's move.

Local contractor George Wheaton said the overtime ban would discourage construction men from heading for remote communities where the promise of overtime and extra dollars is the main prospect.

'FASCINATING VISIT' TO B.C., SAYS RAMSEY

Dr. and Mrs. Ramsey were escorted to their Air Canada jet by the Venerable D. P. Watmey, archdeacon of Vancouver. Dr. Ramsey presented the archdeacon with an autographed portrait as a memento of his visit.

"It was a fascinating visit," Dr. Ramsey said.

He said a highlight was seeing the new Simon Fraser University campus in suburban Burnaby—"a thrilling experience for me."

EXTRA TIME OUT

Premier Bennett said Wednesday all crown corporations would set an example in his drive to fight inflation by cutting overtime.

But B.C. Hydro co-chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside said this morning that the edict will not be observed on the Columbia and Peace River dam construction projects.

The Times transmitted this remark to Premier Bennett's office but was referred to Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

His reply:

"As far as I'm concerned the Hydro will have to comply the same as anyone else.

HAVE PERMIT

"They have an overtime permit until the end of the year. We would expect them, in the intervening time, to re-arrange schedules so as to comply with the eight-hour day and the 44-hour week."

Asked whether this means the hydro will continue to work overtime until the end of the year, the minister replied:

The indication that Premier Bennett's no-overtime rule would be broken a few hours after it was announced — and by a government agency — was carried in a Canadian Press story this morning.

OBLIGATION

Dr. Keenleyside said:

"In any of the projects covered by the Columbia River Treaty, we have to live up to an obligation, even if that means overtime."

Dr. Keenleyside said the same thing applies to the Peace River operation. Gordon Shrum, B.C. Hydro co-chairman in charge of the Peace project, was not available for comment.

Armed Negroes Arrested In Area of Royal Visit

GABERONES, Bechuanaland (Reuters) — Seven armed Negroes have been arrested in the Chobe Game Reserve in northern Bechuanaland where Britain's Princess Marina is due to visit this weekend, a government spokesman announced today.

The men, who were arrested Monday, are being held under the immigration laws pending investigation of their motives, he said.

A government official said the arrested men were armed with Chinese and Russian-made weapons. He said they surrendered without a fight.

The princess is due to leave

The men can be held for 14 days under the immigration laws while inquiries are made whether they are prohibited immigrants, the government said.

They are being taken to Francistown, but probably will face trial at Kasane, near where they were arrested, on charges of illegal importation of firearms, illegal possession of firearms and offences against the customs laws.

RUMOR 12 ARRESTED

Earlier, uncomfirmed reports circulated here that two groups of Negroes totalling 12 were arrested near Askance, in the small area where the Bechuanaland, Rhodesia, Zambia, and Southwest African borders all meet.

There was speculation here that the group intended to

Canada in Key Spot to Bring Major Powers to Peace Talks

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. Senator J. W. Fulbright said today Canada can play an important role in trying to bring the major powers and Hanoi to the conference table over the Viet Nam war.

Mr. Fulbright told a press conference that Canada has better relations with Communist China, entries into areas the U.S. lacks and a right to influence U.S. policy even if the administration dislikes this.

The senator said many Canadians have a more sensible attitude about ideological differences among countries than have many Americans.

It doesn't make sense to say that "this or that ideology should be stamped out."

He said a large country like the United States needs the advice and assistance of smaller powers although the administration dislikes receiving advice in certain instances.

He said his own sympathies were with Prime Minister Pearson when the Canadian leader called for a halt in U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam.

Senator Fulbright said the bomb-pause that followed did not work. Another is worth trying now because circumstances are different.

Inez Slashes Across Haiti

29 KNOWN DEAD

PORT AU PRINCE (UPI) — Hurricane Inez claimed at least six more lives today, striking into Hispaniola with 160-mile-an-hour winds and 15-foot storm tides.

First reports from the hurricane strike zone reaching Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, listed at least six dead, 15 injured, 200 homes destroyed and 1,000 persons homeless.

It brought to 29 the number of known deaths caused by Inez. The hurricane killed 23 when it hit Guadeloupe Tuesday night, injured at least 500 and left 10,000 persons homeless.

After ravaging Guadeloupe, the hurricane moved across the Caribbean and hit with more powerful intensity at the Barahona Peninsula. Forecasters predicted it would move across Haiti's finger-like Tiburon Peninsula late today and strike extreme eastern Cuba sometime Friday.

All utilities, including lights and water, were reported out in the interior of the Dominican Republic.

Near the town of Haina, 10 miles from Santo Domingo, a ship broke loose from its moorings and sank, but it was not immediately determined whether anyone was aboard.

Military patrols in Santo Domingo itself were doubled as a precaution and armed forces units were assigned to evacuate residents from lowlands.

TERRORISTS 'TRAINED IN ALGERIA'

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP) —Eleven Negro terrorists were each jailed for 18 years by Bulawayo High Court today after one of them admitted they were trained in Algeria and instructed to fight and kill European police, soldiers and farmers in Rhodesia.

The 11, who had surrendered to Rhodesian security forces, pleaded guilty to unlawful possession of offensive weapons. These were stated to include six sub-machine-guns, four carbines, two rifles, large quantities of ammunition, 50 electrical detonators and 24 hand grenades. A police arms expert told the court the arms were mostly of Russian design but many bore Chinese markings.

Crew Escapes Sinking

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) —The 28-man crew of the Greek freighter Eleni K escaped today as the ship broke in two and sank eight miles off Cape Thevenard.

ANOTHER NIGHT OF HATRED AND VIOLENCE

'Murderers': Negroes Taunt Policemen

By PAUL R. JESCHKE

The report was in error. The policeman had actually been struck by a thrown bottle which opened a nasty gash above his eye. But instantly, more than 100 officers jerked to attention in the parking lot that served as an on-the-spot headquarters. They grabbed their guns and moved out at a fast clip.

Three blocks away, hundreds of Negroes, mostly teenagers, were gathered in the street. One of them had apparently thrown the bottle which struck the officer.

Suddenly a fire bomb sailed out of the second-storey window of the Bayview community centre. It shattered at the feet of three policemen who barely escaped the exploding flames.

"Watch it," a burly policeman shouted in my ear, elbowing me to a position of relative safety behind him. "This is going to get rough."

Then it happened. A rifle shot pierced the air and most of us hit the ground. It came from about half-a-block away where a young Negro youth was seen ducking behind a car.

A second shot seemed to come from the second floor of the centre. Another volley by police shattered the windows and apparently scared off the sniper.

Dozens of persons were sprawled on the ground. The acrid stench of the gunsmoke was choking.

Once, when a chunk of plaster from the building hit my leg I thought I'd been hit.

Analyst's Comments — Friday Entries

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE — You could make a case for half a dozen here. Hasty Hug has been all around the money. Aban drew an inside post after two fair efforts. Able Lea hums a little now and then. Keno Kid shows signs and needed his last. Night Rambler showed hustle in a slow run race. After head-shaking we went to Same Affair. He's well handled and obviously courageous. The pull in weights doesn't hurt either. . . . SAME AFFAIR, Night Rambler, Keno Kid.

SECOND RACE — There's no standout here, but the way he finished sprinting after a fair blowout suggests that Lucky Spender may have found a likely spot. Buberlou showed a little lick and might carry it farther. Miss Avalon got running far too late but she belongs with these. Joe Pap seems to have lost his whap. Cinnamon Son and Hi-Ma-Dan have a long look with these . . . LUCKY SPENDER, Cinnamon Son, Miss Avalon.

THIRD RACE — The stable thought Anna-Cha-Tay was going to be a good one and she's begun to show she can run a little. If Milne can get her away well, she could be tough to overhaul. Triple Lady and Arigato will offer contention early. Speedy Fair gets Finley and off his Aug. 19 try to Red Ensign benefits if the early pace is hectic. Celerius and Pallofair rap hard occasionally in this society . . . ANNA-CHA-TAY, Speedy Fair, Triple Lady.

FOURTH RACE—Five weeks' rest didn't do Ky Winner any harm. He was all business against Red Ensign and should handle these if he repeats. Aleja has good speed but she appears to be tailing off. Mac Man needed that last. Avons Boss had to take the long way home or would have been closer. He seems sharper than many of them. All Smoke couldn't handle Highdorn but she's game in the stretch . . . KY WINNER. Avons Boss, All Smoke.

FIFTH RACE—They're putting Finley aboard in an attempt to shake up Fair Spin. He doesn't have the winning habit but he's consorted with superior and his last wasn't all that bad. If Jeaneeliz gets clear early, though, it may be all over. Pop's Fortune doesn't have her early zing but he's going well and doesn't surrender readily. Sir Lea and Border Spy are the dangers from behind. . . JEANEELIZ, Pop's Fortune, Fair Spin.

SIXTH RACE—There could be a real cavalry charge here. Except for Summit Talk, and perhaps Royal Kimbo, most of these don't get down to work until the three-eighths pole. Or later. Amazing Message came to life in his last but lacks a race over the course. Chekaj Chekaj figures to be fairly close but he's not his old self. Fraser Canyon gets miles out of it but benefits from Trejos, who finishes well. If Souzem and Inner Guard get in, the late traffic snarl will be compounded. . . . FRASER CANYON, Souzem, Royal Kimbo.

SEVENTH RACE — Some clocks will spin here as they mizzle. By the nature of their styles the race could be won or lost at the first turn. Lesjack has a class right to be considered although he didn't show his stuff the other day. Colonel Greenock, Swan Lady and Fair Count are sharp and can scat. Shezadorin made a bold move and hung. The pace duel suits All Danger but he acts as if he doesn't like the track. Off his fine first uot, we are inclined to lean to Bonus Ghost. He should not be too far away and if Trejos can find the holes that may be it . . . BONUS GHOST, Swan Lady, Fair Count.

EIGHTH RACE—Green Again won three in a row here last year. If he's ready, he could pick up where he left off. Razmi has a look off her last. Easy Joe is perhaps the one to beat but at the short price he's no gift. Lloyter may be overlooked; he's got a little class. Sunrise Gal would only need to run back to her Sept. 19 race to be prominent . . . GREEN AGAIN, Razmi, Easy Joe.

SUB RACE — Ky Master can stay fairly close and come on and those kind are usually close at the finish. Western Monarch is rambling in fair style; Chocolate Lily merits a good look. Yankee Fighter is quick but stops fairly fast too . . . KY MASTER, Western Monarch, Chocolate Lily.

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP) —Eleven Negro terrorists were each jailed for 18 years by Bulawayo High Court today after one of them admitted they were trained in Algeria and instructed to fight and kill European police, soldiers and farmers in Rhodesia.

EXTRA TIME OUT

Premier Bennett said Wednesday all crown corporations would set an example in his drive to fight inflation by cutting overtime.

But B.C. Hydro co-chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside said this morning that the edict will not be observed on the Columbia and Peace River dam construction projects.

The Times transmitted this remark to Premier Bennett's office but was referred to Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

His reply:

"As far as I'm concerned the Hydro will have to comply the same as anyone else.

HAVE PERMIT

"They have an overtime permit until the end of the year. We would expect them, in the intervening time, to re-arrange schedules so as to comply with the eight-hour day and the 44-hour week."

Asked whether this means the hydro will continue to work overtime until the end of the year, the minister replied:

The indication that Premier Bennett's no-overtime rule would be broken a few hours after it was announced — and by a government agency — was carried in a Canadian Press story this morning.

Dr. Keenleyside said:

"In any of the projects covered by the Columbia River Treaty, we have to live up to an obligation, even if that means overtime."

Dr. Keenleyside said the same thing applies to the Peace River operation. Gordon Shrum, B.C. Hydro co-chairman in charge of the Peace project, was not available for comment.

Industry Told To Cut Costs

By JIM HUME

Premier Bennett Wednesday made his strongest bid to halt spiralling living costs and stave off the threat of a recession in British Columbia's booming economy.

The move, with a veiled "or else" threat carefully noted, was made at a press conference prior to the premier's departure for Europe.

Directed mainly against contractors, manufacturers and other heavy industries the threat was: "Bring an end to industrial overtime voluntarily or the government will pass legislation banning overtime in B.C. at the next sitting of the legislature."

The premier said his action was in response to a federal government plea that all provinces exercise restraint in the face of present inflationary trends.

"If we are going to stop Canada going into a recession there must be a change in attitude on money interest and in the ranks of labor," he said.

More Restraint or Recession

"I asked for restraint to be shown a year ago. If they don't show more restraint there is going to be a recession."

Mr. Bennett said he was too optimistic to think that his plea would go unheeded or that a recession would take place.

"We are not in a recession now, but we are in a pause," he said. "The decision is up to all the people in B.C. We can go into a recession or we can go on to higher prosperity.

"There must be checks and balances. We must show general restraint otherwise the benefits we have gained will be short-lived.

The premier said his ban on overtime would achieve two things.

"It will fulfill the natural yearning of people to work less hours and have more leisure," he said.

It will also, the premier added, create more jobs for the unemployed.

The premier said he had already sent out his order to abolish overtime among the ranks of provincial government employees.

Stop Issuing Overtime Permits

"And I have asked the minister of labor to stop issuing overtime permits and to check closely the permits already issued," he said. "I have also ordered that future contracts signed by the government and contractors carry a no-overtime clause."

Overtime regulations in the province are a complicated field, but basically heavy construction, manufacturing plants and other similar industries require a special permit from the department of labor before work overtime.

they can request employees to

It is these permits the premier has ordered withdrawn.

Trade unions and local contractors welcomed the premier's move.

Local contractor George Wheaton said the overtime ban would discourage construction men from heading for remote communities where the promise of overtime and extra dollars is the main prospect.

Wage Hikes Blamed For Price Spiral

OTTAWA (CP) — Wage increases are placing new inflationary pressures on the economy at a time when the danger from overspending is subsiding, an economist told the special parliamentary committee on living costs today.

Unless these pressures level off the eventual prospect may be an exchange crisis for Canada and further devaluation of the Canadian dollar, said Prof. Edward Neufeld of the University of Toronto.

He urged the federal government to adopt U.S.-style guidelines on wages and prices, backed by a review board if necessary.

Prices Stable

Prof. Neufeld boldly supported some biting criticisms of present and past government performance under cross-examination by members of the Senate-Commons committee.

Main conclusions:

1. Canadian prices have risen more than U.S. prices in recent years, but they are remarkably steady by international standards.

2. Canadian prices can be protected against U.S. price increases only at the cost of increased unemployment and slower economic growth in Canada.

3. Therefore, the rule of thumb should be to keep Canadian prices and costs in line with those of the U.S.

4. Main reasons for the faster increase in Canadian prices compared to U.S. prices have been the devaluation of the Canadian dollar in 1962 and the rapid move in Canada toward full employment and full industrial capacity.

5. Recent wage settlements threaten "wage-push" inflation more seriously in Canada than in the U.S.

6. Government action to restrain "cost - push" inflation—such as after-the-fact requests to roll back steel price increases—is an "ill-defined, unpredictable and possibly ineffective" approach to take.

Canadians Could Play Key Role in Peace Bid

OTTAWA (CP)—U.S. Senator J. W. Fulbright said today Canada can play an important role in trying to bring the major powers and Hanoi to the conference table over the Viet Nam war.

Mr. Fulbright told a press conference that Canada has better relations with Communist China, entries into areas the U.S. lacks and a right to influence U.S. policy even if the administration dislikes this.

The senator said many Canadians have a more sensible attitude about ideological differences among countries than have many Americans.

It doesn't make sense to say that "this or that ideology should be stamped out."

He said a large country like the United States needs the advice and assistance of smaller powers although the administration dislikes receiving advice in certain instances.

Armed Negroes Arrested In Area of Royal Visit

GABERONES, Bechuanaland (Reuters) — Seven armed Negroes have been arrested in the Chobe Game Reserve in northern Bechuanaland where Britain's Princess Marina is due to visit this weekend, a government spokesman announced today.

The men, who were arrested Monday, are being held under the immigration laws pending investigation of their motives, he said.

A government official said the arrested men were armed with Chinese and Russian-made weapons. He said they surrendered without a fight.

The princess is due to leave Saturday for the reserve, reputed to have the largest game herds in the world.

The men can be held for 14 days under the immigration laws while inquiries are made whether they are prohibited immigrants, the government said.

They are being taken to Francistown, but probably will face trial at Kasane, near where they were arrested, on charges of illegal importation of firearms, illegal possession of firearms and offences against the customs laws.

RUMOR 12 ARRESTED

Earlier, unconfirmed reports circulated here that two groups of Negroes totalling 12 were arrested near Askance, in the small area where the Bechuanaland, Rhodesia, Zambia, and Southwest African borders all meet.

There was speculation here that the group intended to

(Times News Services)

BUENOS AIRES — Argentine extremists fired on the British Ambassador's residence Wednesday night while Prince Philip was visiting and unconfirmed reports circulated of a plot to kidnap the husband of the Queen and demand the Falkland Islands as ransom.

Bullets from automatic weapons, fired by two carloads of gunmen, sprayed the building where Prince Philip is staying for the Argentine Republic's 150th anniversary celebrations.

The gunfire damaged the ground floor of Ambassador Sir Michael Creswell's residence but no one was hurt.

The report of a plot to kidnap Prince Philip and offer to swap him for the British-ruled Falklands came from a local Argentine news agency. British officials said they had no information about the report.

CONTINUES VISIT

A British embassy spokesman, asked about reports that the Prince was preparing to return home, replied: "Certainly not. We are just preparing his program for next week."

Wednesday night's shooting climaxed a day of dramatic moves by extremist nationalists to press Argentina's claim to sovereignty over the lonely Falklands in the South Atlantic 300 miles from the coast of Argentina.

A group of 18 young armed Argentine nationalists seized an airliner with 48 persons aboard Wednesday and forced it to land on a racetrack in the Falkland capital.

PRINCE PHILIP

The four-engined Argentine DC-4 was stranded on the 3,600-foot racetrack, with one wheel stuck a foot deep and the track apparently too short to permit a safe takeoff with passengers and fuel aboard.

The nationalists were reported holed up in the airliner, while 25 passengers and five crew members were lodged in homes in Port Stanley, the Falkland capital.

EMPHASIZE CLAIMS

The armed nationalists, from the right-wing El Condor organization, seized the plane over the South Atlantic Wednesday to emphasize Argentina's claim to the bleak islands, 300 miles east of Tierra del Fuego.

The nationalists radioed from the plane that they are determined to remain in Port Stanley — "Either we secure our future or we die for the past."

But later reports from Port Stanley said British authorities quickly took control of the situation and there was no violence.

Argentine and British officials had not decided early today how to get the nationalists and other passengers, including three children, back to Buenos Aires. They may come on a British ship which sails Monday on a monthly voyage from Port Stanley to Montevideo, Uruguay, or smaller planes may be sent to get them.

The seizure coincided with the presence in Buenos Aires of Prince Philip who arrived Monday to attend the world horse jumping championships as the guest of Argentina's military president, Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania.

CONDEMNED ACTION

Gen. Ongania strongly condemned the seizure and said those involved would be put on trial.

Prince Philip played polo as scheduled Wednesday, protected by 100 policemen and six patrol cars. Demonstrators supporting Argentina's claim to the Falklands pelted him with eggs during a visit to Buenos Aires in 1962.

The airliner, owned by the Argentine government, was flying from Buenos Aires to Rio Gallegos, 1,700 miles to the south, when it was seized. The plane landed on the racetrack because Port Stanely has no airstrip.

A few hours later, Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez told the UN General Assembly his government is confident its dispute with Britain over the islands will be settled soon. He said the two governments are to resume talks on the issue next month.

Britain has held the Falklands since 1833 and rejected all Argentine demands that they be relinquished. They represent a refuelling station for the British South Atlantic fleet and a staging post for Antarctic surveys. About 2,000 persons — most of them of British origin — live on the two main islands, which have a total area of 2,700 square miles.

IN RED PRISON

10 Come Back But 100 Die

SAIGON (AP)—Ten battered Vietnamese have been freed from a Communist prison camp that one American officer said "looked like Dachau all over again."

The prisoners had spent from one to 19 months in the Viet Cong stronghold in coastal Phu Yen province, about 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

They were suffering malnutrition, boils, pneumonia, skin infections and deformities caused by unset broken bones, said Capt. Stephen M. Wilson, a physician with the 101st Airborne Division which rescued the prisoners Saturday.

The U.S. command said today a South Vietnamese Army private who had escaped from the prison led American units back to it.

Americans killed two Viet Cong and wounded three in the camp. But the brief clash gave other Viet Cong the chance to herd more prisoners away.

"It looked like Dachau all over again," said Capt. Thomas B. Agezton, who led the force into the prison. He estimates that 40 to 60 captives were taken away by Viet Cong.

The emaciated prisoners included four South Vietnamese soldiers, two housewives, two farmers, a hamlet chief and a former Viet Cong who defected to the government and was recaptured.

Survivors said about 100 prisoners died in the camp.

. . . NEGROES

infiltrate into Ovamboland in Southwest Africa, as did a group which attacked and burned down two South African government-owned houses at Oshikango early Tuesday.

The attackers were driven off after the occupants of the houses had fired on a band of non-whites said to number between 12 and 20.

The attack at Oshikango was the second in Ovamboland within a few weeks. After the first one last month South African police said more such infiltrating groups could be expected.

It has not been disclosed exactly how the terrorist groups reached the northern part of Southwest Africa.

The South African Press Association said they were believed to have been trained in various African and Communist countries and their starting point was thought to be Tanzania.

Presumably they cross Zambia and then make their way along the Southwest Africa-Angola border, which, where it does not follow rivers, is only a line on a map and is not demarcated on the ground.

Blacks Kill 7 Rhodesians

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP)—Seven Rhodesian soldiers were killed in a clash between Rhodesian forces and Negro nationalists of the Zimbabwe African National Union, a report from Zanu headquarters here said today.

Winds Play Havoc

SAIGON (Reuters) — Violent winds in South Viet Nam's flooded Mekong River delta today killed nine persons and destroyed more than 400 homes, the United States Mission reported.

. . . OVERTIME

"That will give us more choice of crews," he said. "It will be better for all of us."

The Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council representing 17 union, also welcomed the news.

A spokesman for the group said the council has consistently protested applications made by employer groups for overtime permits or exemption from the provision of the Hours of Work Act.

He added that the council would continue to press for more work for more people as opposed to overtime for those already employed.

"We recognize that there are times of emergency when overtime becomes a necessity," the spokesman added. In Vancouver Jack Moore, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, said he agreed with the overtime ban if it is applied to spread available labor.

He said the plan would be beneficial to many woodworkers now facing layoffs due to the federal tight money policies.

Asked if the no-overtime ban would affect work on the Peace River and Columbia dams Mr. Bennett said he didn't think so.

"The order has gone out," he said. "We as the government must set the example."

Overtime Bill Hard To Tally

Neither the premier nor Minister of Labor Leslie Peterson were able to say how much overtime was worked in the province at present.

Officials of the labor department also stated that it would require a massive check of all government departments to find out what the civil service overtime bill is annually.

Mr. Bennett said one of the major reasons behind his sudden move to halt overtime was the way wage increases were advancing faster than productivity.

He stressed that the move was also made in answer to the federal government's plea that the provinces lead the way in showing restraint.

"The federal government asked us to show restraint and we have volunteered to do so," he said. "There must be close co-operation in times like these.

B.C. has always been anxious to co-operate with the federal government."

Although the shadow of recession hovered constantly in his statements the premier said he was confident B.C. would shake off the threat.

"We shall live within our income and have another substantial surplus at the end of the fiscal year," he said.

The premier appealed to municipal leaders throughout the province to follow his lead and eliminate overtime among city work crews.

A spokesman at city hall this morning said the task would not be too easy for municipalities.

"Most of our overtime comes when there are emergencies such as fires, burst water mains or policemen spending their day off in court," he said. "I don't see how it can be eliminated."

29 KNOWN DEAD

Inez Slashes Across Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE (UPI) — Hurricane Inez claimed at least six more lives today, striking into Hispaniola with 160-mile-an-hour winds and 15-foot storm tides.

First reports from the hurricane strike zone reaching Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, listed at least six dead, 15 injured, 200 homes destroyed and 1,000 persons homeless.

It brought to 29 the number of known deaths caused by Inez. The hurricane killed 23 when it hit Guadeloupe Tuesday night, injured at least 500 and left 10,000 persons homeless.

After ravaging Guadeloupe, the hurricane moved across the Caribbean and hit with more powerful intensity at the Barahona Peninsula. Forecasters predicted it would move across Haiti's finger-like Tiburon Peninsula late today and strike extreme eastern Cuba sometime Friday.

All utilities, including lights and water, were reported out in the interior of the Dominican Republic.

Near the town of Haina, 10 miles from Santo Domingo, a ship broke loose from its moorings and sank, but it was not immediately determined whether anyone was aboard.

Military patrols in Santo Domingo itself were doubled as a precaution and armed forces units were assigned to evacuate residents from lowlands.

. . . MURDERERS

It ended as quickly as it started. Officers rushed the community centre and dragged dozens of persons to patrol wagons.

Most of the persons on the ground began to move. They got up quickly and headed off down the street. Nine were removed by ambulance for treatment of gunshot wounds, none fatal.

The incident was over, but another night of hatred and violence had started.

"Murderers," shouted the crowd.

'Jail Smith' Proposal Applauded

OTTAWA (CP)—A Ceylonese delegate to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association urged today that Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith be thrown in jail so the world will not have the impression there is one law for the blacks and another for the whites.

Dr. N. M. Perera drew applause from non-white delegates when he said that the British government had retaliated against colored groups when they tried to rebel in British colonies.

. . . PETERSON

Meanwhile, in Vancouver, Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing said today Premier Bennett's no-overtime announcement will scare people.

The Liberal minister, commenting on the Social Credit government's plan to eliminate overtime in the province, said such action is "interference with the so-called free enterprise system."

"This move will be interpreted (by the public) that the premier is in possession of facts that they have not been told about. Its effect is going to be extremely scary."

BLOOM FADING

B.C. Liberal leader Ray Perrault said the move is an indication the government fears that the bloom is fading from B.C boom.

He said that while the overtime ban should serve to provide job opportunities for more people, it is a token gesture unless other more effective measures follow.

Mr. Perrault said the government should call a conference of labor, management and government to discuss economic problems.

Robert Strachan, provincial leader of the New Democratic Party, said unions have long demanded a change in overtime conditions but it took Mr. Bennett too long to recognize the need.

CITY NIMRODS BACKING PROTEST

The petition was prepared by the Victoria Fish and Game Association and is collecting signatures in Stan Williams Hunting and Fishing Store.

It protests the granting of a licence to Western Mines to dump mine tailings and sewage into the lake, and requests the government to rescind the licence.

China Entry Pressed By Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Martin delivered another plug Wednesday for China's entry to the United Nations and suggested negotiations outside the world body to achieve it.

He told the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association conference that one of the factors that limits UN capacity to play a useful role in the Viet Nam conflict is that not all the parties to the dispute are in it.

Mr. Martin noted the difficulty of seating Communist and Nationalist China—each of whom claim exclusive jurisdiction over the same people—side by side in the UN.

At this point, he departed from his prepared text to say "it may be we will have to negotiate outside the UN" in order to get both countries a seat.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Skies cleared in the northern interior Wednesday night as a ridge of high pressure built over the province. Temperatures dropped below the freezing mark in the clear air while in the south cloud cover held readings in the 50 to 60 degree range. Cloud will clear over all of British Columbia today as pressures rise. As a result a pattern of cloudy mornings, sunny afternoons and foggy nights will be set up in most districts at least until the weekend.
